New Effort To Trim Aid Under Way In House

Bill Reported Out Finally May Cut 3-Nation Funds And Omit China

An influential House Appropriations Subcommittee was reported yesterday to have agreed tentatively to slash the bill for aid to Europe another 50 to 100 million dollars.

Although Senate-House conferees agreed to place the bill's total at the 597 million dollars asked by the Administration, they made an actual cut by including aid to China. What eventually is made available depends to a great extent on the supply bill reported out by the Appropriations Committee.

Representative Taber (R., N. Y.) is chairman of the full committee as well as of the subcommittee now studying the measure.

Reported Provisions

The preliminary agreement within the subcommittee was reported to include:

1. Elimination of aid to China.

2. Reduction of the total for aid to France, Italy and Austria by 50 to 60 million dollars.

There was understood to be considerable debate over whether another 60 million, the amount suggested by the House Foreign Affairs Committee for China, should be sliced off if aid to that country was eliminated.

The subcommittee, meeting behind closed doors, is scheduled to continue its sessions today. It has not disclosed any results of its deliberations so far.

To Meet With Leaders

With the stopgap aid measure within sight of passage, President Truman will meet today with foreign policy leaders of Congress to outline a program for the Marshall Plan for long-range assistance to European recovery. The meeting was set for 10 a. m. at the White House, two hours before Congress convenes to vote on the stopgap bill.

The Senate will be represented by Chairman Vandenberg (R., Mich.) of its Foreign Relations Committee; Majority Leader White (R., Me.); Minority Leader Barkley; and Senator Connally (D., Tex.), ranking minority member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Senator Taft chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, was omitted from the original list but received a belated personal invitation from Mr. Truman.

The House will be represented by Speaker Martin (R., Mass.); Majority Leader Halleck (R., Ind.); Chairman Eaton of the Foreign Affairs Committee; Minority Leader Rayburn (D., Tex.); and Representative Bloom (D., N. Y.), ranking minority member of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

It was persistently reported that Mr. Truman would outline the Accused Slayer Gives Himself Up In Killing of 3

Chicago, Dec. 14 (AP).—James Morelli, 20, convicted robber, sought in connection with Friday night's grudge slaying of three men and wounding of two others, surrendered to police today.

Morelli was one of three men accused in the gang-type shooting. Another, Thomas Daley, 36, ex-convict, was slain by police yesterday in Morelli's apartment. The third, Lowell Fentress, 21, was captured.

Morelli was turned over to detectives by his attorney.

The dead in the slaying orgy, most vicious since the St. Valentine's Day massacre of 19 years ago, were John Kuesis, Theodore J. Callis and Emil W. Schmeichel.

According to Chief Storms, Fentress, a police character, said the three gunmen had gone to Nick Kuesis' garage to administer a beating to John Kuesis in retaliation for the furniture dealer's supposed implication of Daley and Fentress in a robbery case.

Food Spoilage In Greece Hit By Merchants

4.5 Million Loss Blamed on Failure To Distribute Stocks

Athens, Dec. 14 (AP). — The Piraeus League of Merchants protested to the ministry of supply today against spoilage of foodstuffs estimated worth $4,500,000 within the past five months because of failure to distribute them.

Piraeus is the port of Athens.

The Merchants' League reported cheese, canned milk, sugar powdered milk, vegetables, codfish, herring, lard and canned goods spoiled while lying in warehouses. The report said more than 100,000 pounds of sugar were polluted.

The ministry of justice announced it had ordered an inquiry into phases of distribution. One angle under investigation was a report that supplies which a Greek merchant had been given permission to ship to the Greek island of Rhodes actually were exported to other countries.

The American mission to aid Greece reported that 75 million dollars worth of supplies and equipment shipped in by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and other agencies were lying undistributed and idle on docks and in warehouses.

While these problems occupied official attention, the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans sought to clear up financing for maintenance of seven observer units along the Greek frontier.

The committee voted in Salonika yesterday 6 to 0, with 3 abstentions, to ask U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie for a precise answer on the question of appropriations for the cost, estimated at $600,000.

An authoritative Greek source said failure of the U. N. to allocate the funds might seriously restrict the committee's work. Other sources said Lie had advised UNSCOB no funds were available for such operations.

War Orphans Receive Gifts At U. N. Club

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

Five wide-eyed European war orphans were feted yesterday at a Christmas party at the United Nations Club.

Children of all 55 of the ranking members of the diplomatic corps turned out for the late afternoon party, bringing with them a variety of gifts.

Ten children from Hillside Orphanage for dependent children also came, bringing their gifts—boxes of Christmas cards, pencil sets and a dollar bill.

The war orphans are in America under auspices of the Foster Parents Plan for War Children. They were here for a one-day visit.

The visitors are from 6 to 12 years of age. Two are from England, and the others from Holland, Italy and Belgium.

A Christmas tree, games, ice cream and a Santa Claus with glasses, in the person of Francois, Spanish chef at the United Nations Club, were features of the party. Wife of the Cuban Ambassador, Senora Guillermo de Belt, was hostess.

Four of the children were clad in their new best, but not Giuseppe Di Lillo, 12-year-old resident of a home for mutilated children outside Rome.

When he arrived with the others in New York by plane, he was wearing a pair of torn British army trousers. A pair of riding breeches was the only thing that could be found for him upon his

Argentine Plane Flies Over South Polar Region

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Dec. 14 (U.P.).—A specially equipped Douglas survey plane on a non-stop flight from southern Argentina flew over the South Polar region yesterday for the second time in history, the Navy Ministry announced today.

The navy communique said that the plane left Piedra Buena airport in the Patagonian territory of Santa Cruz at 8:45 p. m., EST Friday, and returned to base at 12:15 p. m. yesterday. After crossing the polar circle at 5:45 a. m. on the 68th meridian of longitude.

"Yesterday's achievement places our country together with the nation that had the privilege of being the first to effect the crossing," the communique said, referring to the Byrd expedition from the United States which have flown over the Antarctic at various times.

Administration Plays Politics on Issue, Halleck Declares

Breach Widening

By The Associated Press

Speaker Martin (R., Mass.) said last night the Republican-backed "voluntary" anti-inflation substitute for President Truman's standby price-wage and rationing program would pass the House today "with votes to spare."

Meanwhile, House Republican leader, Halleck of Indiana, said that the Truman administration is not as interested in bringing down prices as it is in "playing politics with the subject."

If the GOP bill fails of passage, he said, Democrats "will have to take the responsibility" for defeating all economic legislation at the special session.

And in the widening economic breach between the White House and the Republican majority on Capitol Hill, Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) fired back an accusation that the GOP has offered the country a "big business" and "pro-monopoly," rather than an anti-inflation bill.

Meanwhile, House Republicans tentatively scheduled a "this-or-nothing" procedure for their substitute program.

Under this maneuver a motion would be made to suspend the House rules to bar amendments to the GOP bill, introduced by Representative Wolcott (R., Mich.), and debate would be limited to 40 minutes. This requires a two thirds vote and Republicans are counting on support of southern Democrats to swing the tally, if this maneuver is adopted.

House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas, cried "outrageous" and "strongarm" against such a procedure.

Martin said Republican strategy would not be finally decided until this morning.

He emphasized that the Wolcott

U. S. Hasn't Made Penny in Germany, Molotov Informed; Parley Near Break

By Alex H. Singleton

London, Dec. 14 (U.P.).—Secretary of State George C. Marshall issued tonight, on the eve of a critical meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers, a formal statement denying that the United States had profited by its occupation of Germany.

Replying to accusations made Friday by Russian Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov that American interests acquired German business properties and that the United States profited on exports of coal and timber from the zone, Marshall said:

1. There is "not one single case" of American business interests acquiring German business property.

2. That as regards both coal and timber, "not one penny of these proceeds is diverted to the use or advantage of the occupying powers."

Parley Near Breakup

The Foreign Ministers meet tomorrow afternoon with their negotiations at the breaking point.

The United States delegation was understood to have arranged to get special planes to return home before Christmas unless there is a change for the better.

The only thing the Americans can foresee which might turn the tide is a "Molotov miracle"—some startling and real concession by Russia such as had prevented threatened failure at previous Big Four conferences.

Marshall has demanded that each of the four foreign ministers submit for tomorrow's meeting a statement showing the amount and type of reparations already taken from Germany. Molotov already has said he would not submit such a list until an agreement has been reached on the reparations problem as a whole—including Russia's demand for 10 billion dollars from Germany.

At the moment, the United States and Russia face a turning point which may affect the entire course of their relations, and the next 24 to 48 hours may determine the trend.

For one thing, decisions which must come soon will determine whether the United States and Russia can keep on, at this time, the attempt to work out a unified German program.

But the real issue in nearly three weeks of debate is the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

Marshall feels that the plan is more important than the immediate negotiation of a German treaty. Hence he will do nothing to endanger the plan that bears his name.

Molotov is openly out to sabotage the Marshall Plan. Whether he will concede anything that might help it is unlikely, in the view of American delegates.

Marshall is now ready, if the conference breaks up in failure, to put his plan into effect in the western occupation zones.

Last U. S. Troops Leave Italy Ahead of Treaty Deadline

Leghorn, Italy, Dec. 14 (AP).—The last American occupation troops on Italian soil sailed today aboard the transport Admiral Sims exactly 9 hours and 45 minutes ahead of the midnight deadline set for their departure by the peace treaty.

As they filed up the gangplank, the 97 officers and 1356 enlisted men brought to a close a military operation dating back to September 9, 1943, when U. S. troops drove ashore in the Salerno area. This invasion of the Italian mainland closely followed the conquest of Sicily.

Now the only U. S. soldiers remaining behind of the tens of thousands who fought here during the war are members of a small graves registration and liquidation unit in Rome, which was provided for under a special treaty provision.

(With Italy still facing the threat of difficulties from Communists, President Truman served notice last night that the United States will consider "appropriate" measures for maintaining peace and security in Italy if Italian independence is threatened in the future.)

In the Free Territory of Trieste at the head of the Adriatic sea the United States 88th division, formerly under the Mediterranean theater command, is on duty with British and Yugoslav troops.

This region was stripped from Italy under terms of the peace treaty ratified last September 15.

Ambassador James C. Dunn and a group of Italian army representatives attended a brief ceremony at the dockside before the transport steamed out of Leghorn Harbor. The American flag was lowered at 1:45 p. m. (7:45 a. m. EST), and the Italian flag then was raised.

Maj. Gen. Lawrence C. Jaynes, theater commander, was the last man to step aboard the ship.

Italian Electric Bills Credit Americans' Aid

"Your electricity is furnished because of coal provided for our plants by free donations of the American people."

The government announced last night that 17 ships carrying United States post-UNRRA aid to Italy had arrived in ports during the past week, bringing the total shipments to date to 192.

Fierce Trans-Jordan Fighters on 'Loan' As Palestine Police

Jerusalem, Dec. 14 (AP).—Arab soldiers of King Abdullah's fierce Trans-Jordan army, in Palestine for police duty, were reported officially tonight to have killed 14 Jews and wounded 15 others when they machine-gunned a bus convoy near Tel Aviv.

Most of King Abdullah's army, which is known as the Arab Legion, is on loan to the Palestine government for police duty.

Official accounts said the Jewish convoy of seven vehicles was shot up today at Beth Nebala, on the Petah Tiqva-Ben Shemen road.

Legionnaires said they were attacked by grenadiers in the convoy and fired back. Jews said a truck in the caravan ran into an "unprovoked attack" in passing a legion camp.

Scattered violence continued elsewhere in the Holy Land in the battle over partition between Jewish and Arab "people's armies."

An Arab motorized unit raided a British police depot at Ramle. A hand grenade hurled at an Arab bus killed an 18-month-old Arab child in Jerusalem.

A snipers duel developed between a post of Hagana, the Jewish militia, at Holon, south of Tel Aviv, and residents of the Arab village of Tel Errish. Hagana reported, without official confirmation, that one of its fighters and 10 Arabs were killed.

Hagana said police armored car units had arrested six of its fighters and confiscated their arms.

A Palestine police report said here tonight that border forces in Lebanon, to the north, had been

Mississippi Boy Picked for Polio Campaign Poster

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Terry Tullos, 3-year-old golden-haired polio victim who lives at Laurel, Miss., will be the poster child for the 1948 March of Dimes campaign. That was announced today by Basil O'Connor, president, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Terry, youngest child ever chosen for the March of Dimes poster, will symbolize the thousands of persons stricken with polio. The appeal for funds will be made January 15 to 30. O'Connor said 30 million dollars would be needed next year as a result of the increase in polio cases during the last five years.

The child, stricken with polio in 1945 before he learned to walk, is expected to regain full use of his legs. He is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Tullos.

Via 24-Hour Voice

U. S. to Tell World About Ruble Switch

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The Voice of America, on a 24-hour basis beginning tonight, will tell the world Russia has wiped out nine tenths of her currency's buying power.

State Department officials said its foreign radio information service would beam the news to every country which could be reached.

Predicted on Voice of America broadcasts last week, Russia's action was even more drastic than had been expected. Radio Moscow yesterday morning announced a decree that one new ruble would be substituted for 10 old ones under the devaluation policy.

This, a Federal Reserve official said, indicated that inflation within the Soviet Union was worse than outsiders had thought.

Abolishing Rationing

Along with currency devaluation, Moscow announced also that rationing of "food and industrial goods" would be abolished. For many months it has been a Soviet objective to get rid of the double system of one set of prices for rationed goods and much higher prices for other commodities sold in the open market.

It was freely forecast here that this phase of the devaluation decree would be made the basis of a propaganda campaign designed to make capital of a step taken in extremity. At one stroke the Kremlin has dealt with inflation by wiping out nine tenths of the purchasing power of the Russian people.

The next step is expected to be announcement of much lower prices in terms of the new ruble, while prices continue to soar in capitalist countries. Any reduction less than 90 per cent, however, would actually be a price increase, since an item priced originally at 1 old ruble would represent 10 old rubles if offered for 1 ruble now.

Francis B. Stevens, associate chief of the State Department's Eastern European Division, said it would not be possible to tell at once what effect the decree would have on real incomes in Russia.

"We'll have to wait," he said, "until we see the new official price level. The prices of rationed goods were upped about 180 per cent last year, so it would take quite a cut

High Prices Force Soviet To Devalue Ruble 10-1

Moscow Announces Exchange to Start Tomorrow; Savings Partly Protected

Moscow, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Soviet Union announced tonight it would begin issue of new currency on Tuesday and simultaneously abandon all food rationing in a program to combat inflation.

The announcement was made to the nation by the Moscow radio in a decree of the council of ministers (cabinet) and the Communist Party. It was signed by Prime Minister Stalin and Andrei Zhdanov of the Communist Party Central Committee.

(The action by the Soviet government was the first admission that postwar inflation had affected the controlled economy. It followed by 10 days the statement in Washington by Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett that something "in the nature of panic buying" had hit Russia over rumors of devaluation of the ruble.)

Price Control Unified

The decree for currency reform provides that rubles brought to banks for conversion will be exchanged at the rate of 10 for one new ruble. The exchange must take place in the week December 16-22.

Rationing was ordered abolished under unified price control. The price of bread under the new program will be 12 per cent lower than the ration price, the announcement said. Beer will be 10 per cent lower, but vodka and wine were unchanged from the present ration price.

The object of the new program is to combat inflation and speculation which had increased market prices of some commodities to 10 or 15 times their prewar levels, the announcement added.

The old ruble was held at 5.3 to the dollar in foreign exchange. The diplomatic exchange rate, at which diplomats change their money, was 12 rubles to the dollar.

Serious Inflation Cited

The broadcast said the Soviet economy was so seriously inflated that some goods were selling for 10 to 15 times their prewar prices. It blamed the inflation on wartime monetary issues and a flood of false rubles loosed by the invading German armies.

It added that the decree was aimed at speculators, who have been "accumulating great amounts of money, aiming at profits at the expense of the population."

"It is intolerable that the speculative elements who enriched themselves during the war, and accumulated considerable sums of money, should have an opportunity to buy up goods after abolition of the rationing system," the broadcast said.

The broadcast said that, effective Tuesday, food and industrial goods will be sold without ration cards. Unified state retail prices will replace those charged in "ration" stores and in "commercial" stores.

Republican Tag Loses Democrats Calif. Legislator

Los Angeles, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Democrats lost a State assemblyman today.

John W. Evans, serving his fifth term in California's lower house, announced that henceforth he'll be a Republican—as an election clerk, in error, listed him when he recently changed his address.

"I'm fed up with the Democratic Party anyway," he declared.

Under the State's voting system, which permits candidates to run under more than one party label, Evans has won both Democratic and Republican nominations in the Sixty-fifth District for each of his five terms.

Mother, 3 Children, Sister Burn to Death

Stockton, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP).—Five persons—a mother, her three children and her young sister—were burned to death early this morning when fire destroyed their four-room home on the outskirts of Stockton.

Arlington School Board Row Threatens Pay, Bond Mixup

Battle lines in a red-hot Arlington County School Board fight were drawn yesterday as county residents faced these possibilities:

1. Both the incumbent school board and the elected school board say they intend to be in office in 1948—until the question of the constitutionality of the recent election is decided.

2. Unless there is a clear directive to one or the other of the school boards, school personnel from the superintendent to the janitor may have to serve without compensation until the courts decide the case.

3. Another product of the dual-board confusion may be to halt any use of the bond issue voted last month for elementary school construction in the county.

4. The validity of the whole county manager system of government may be open to question, along with two bond issues floated in the 30's, if the incumbent school board wins its suit.

Members of the school board-elect, to whom Saturday's action by the incumbent school board challenging their election on constitutional grounds had come "as a bolt out of the blue," met yesterday in a grim session to map out their course. They were scheduled to take office January 1.

Their first step was to retain as their attorneys former State Senator Frank L. Ball, sr., State Senator William D. Medley, and Edmund D. Campbell, a former member of the Arlington County Board. Campbell late yesterday said he had no comment to make on the steps to be taken in the case,

The Washington Post Poll

12% in the Washington Area Don't Know Those Next Door

(Individual Expressions of Opinion, Page B-1)

Many people living in and around Washington don't know the people living next door to them, The Washington Post Poll has discovered.

Twelve per cent, or some 38,000 families in this area, are not acquainted with either of their closest neighbors and, in fact, don't even know their names.

Another 17 per cent knew their neighbors on one side but not the other, and the remaining 71 per cent were well enough acquainted with their neighbors on both sides to know their names.

Post Pollers asked:

Do you know the people living next door (on both sides?)

Answers were as follows:

	All Residents	Apartment Dwellers	Non-Apt. Dwellers
Acquainted with neighbors on both sides (know names)	71%	62%	78%
Acquainted with one, not the other	17	17	16
Acquainted with neither	12	21	6

Breaking neighborliness down to a finer degree, 16 per cent of families interviewed said they were on very good terms with their neighbors, and had known them for years. Another 26 per cent professed "fair" acquaintanceship, on firm enough basis to borrow or loan replacable staples.

Twenty-four per cent of the families admitted not knowing their neighbors too well but were casually friendly and helpful to them. And 22 per cent admitted knowing their neighbors only by name and as a nodding acquaintance.

Those acquainted with either of their neighbors were asked:

How well do you know them? Do you visit with them?

They replied:

	All Residents	Apartment Dwellers	Non-Apt. Dwellers
Know neighbors very well—Visit frequently, very good friends; Have known them for years	16%	13%	18%
Know them fairly well—Visit across the fence, in backyard, on porch; talk to them, and borrow things; share car to go to grocery; visit with them	26	18	31
Don't know them too well—May visit occasionally, friendly and helpful on a casual level; may borrow and exchange books, but too busy to visit	24	25	24
Know only slightly—Speak to them in hall, elevator, or street; just know their names	22	23	21
TOTAL acquainted with at least one neighbor	88%	79%	94%
Acquainted with neither neighbor	12	21	6

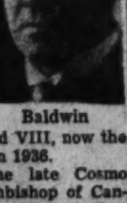
Stanley Baldwin Dies at 80; Breaker and Maker of Kings

London, Dec. 14 (AP).—Earl Baldwin, 80, who broke one British King and made another, died in his sleep in the night at his home in Sourport, Worcestershire, it was announced today.



Baldwin

As Stanley Baldwin he served three times as prime minister, but nothing in his long career approached the decision he and another man forced upon Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, in 1936.

Baldwin and the late Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, told King Edward then that he had only this choice—abdication or renunciation of Wallis Warfield Simpson. Edward chose abdication and married the twice divorced American. George VI then succeeded to the throne.

Baldwin's death came 11 years after the abdication of King Edward.

On December 10, 1936, Baldwin stood before the House of Commons. In his hand was Edward's message of abdication. On his tongue was a story that had gripped the world. He was on the verge of tears; for the King was his friend.

Baldwin later became Earl Baldwin of Bewdley. He handed over the office of Prime Minister to his Chancellor of the Exchequer, the late Neville Chamberlain. Then Baldwin retired to Stourport, the

Jewish Drive Sets 250 Millions Goal

Record Fund Asked To Help Palestine And Europe's Needy

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 14 (AP).—United States Jews were asked today to dig deeper than ever and give 250 million dollars to help establish a Jewish state in Palestine, care for needy brethren in Europe and provide necessities for Jewish immigrants to this country.

Some 1300 delegates to the United Jewish Appeal Conference voted for the 1948 quota—the greatest fund-raising effort ever attempted by any organization in the country—in spite of a 65-million-dollar debt from campaigns over the past five years.

The Nation's Jews will have provided 132 million dollars by December 31 for similar purposes in 1947, a cash-and-pledge contribution that will be 38 million dollars short of the 170-million-dollar goal set last year.

Two of the UJA's three major spending agencies—United Palestine Appeal and the Joint Distribution Committee—were faced with the prospect of seeking loans from banks to make up the difference between their requests and their allotments in the new budget. With the United Service for New Americans, the third agency, the UPA and JDC requested $395,367,000 to meet next year's world Jewry requirements. Only the USNA received the full sum for which it pleaded.

The agencies, their duties, and the sums for which they asked and received:

UPA, help establish the Jewish state, provide for 75,000 immigrants to Palestine, asked $283,156,000, received $146,250,000.

JDC, provide for displaced Jews in western Europe and needy Jews in eastern Europe, asked $98,547,000, received $88,750,000.

USNA, care for Jewish immigrants to the United States and make them self-sufficient, asked $13,664,000, received full amount.

The budget set aside $1,336,000 for administration expenses in the campaign.

Funds Flow To Red Party Seen Stopped

By the United Press

Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) said yesterday he believes the House Un-American Activities Committee has stopped the flow of "large sums of money" from Hollywood to Communist Party headquarters in New York.

McDowell, a member of the committee, said that cutting off these funds was one of the main reasons for the committee's communism-in-Hollywood investigations.

He said Hollywood was a key target of the Communists in their fund-raising operations because of the "fabulously large salaries that are being made there." Many movie people made contributions to the Communists without ever knowing it, he said.

"Everybody knows the reputation stage and movie people have for being big hearted," he said. "If they've got a dime they'll give you a nickel or maybe the whole darn dime. They're just suckers for any kind of a tear-jerker."

McDowell said the Communists always screened their money raising activities behind some apparently innocent front.

"They are always going in and organizing defense funds for people when a question of civil liberties seems to be involved," he said. "And they're always organizing a bundles-for-somewhere-or-another campaign."

The report said the action followed a border "incident" Friday in which a homemade bomb exploded about 10 feet inside the Lebanese frontier. "One of the Arabs concerned," it said, "alleges" the bomb was thrown at him from Palestine territory. The report said Lebanese police visited the scene with him today.

An official spokesman for the Palestine government said the Lebanese boundary had not been closed at regular control points and the police report apparently referred to persons approaching cross country.

In Cairo thousands of Egyptians shouting for arms "to kill Jews" packed into opera square to hear representatives of the Arab League pledge weapons, money and men to Palestine Arabs fighting against creation of a Jewish state in the Holy Land. Police said the crowd numbered 100,000.

The unofficial death toll in 15 days of Holy Land violence since the U. N. decision on partition mounted to 238. For the entire Middle East the figure was 360.

A reliable report said that a Central Arab Army Headquarters was established somewhere in the Nablus hills north of Jerusalem and an Arab commander was issuing orders for Arab forces to district headquarters scattered throughout Palestine.

One such district headquarters was said to be at Lydda, on the road between Jerusalem and the Tel Aviv-Jaffa coastal area. There the district commander pinpoints activities for 53 villages surrounding the Tel Aviv-Jaffa battle zone, these reports said.

A foreign business man, whose identity must be withheld for safety reasons, said he was conducted to the command post for discussion of a proposed arms deal.

"The approaches were guarded by a battery of searchlights and Bren gun positions," he said. "I was required to wear Arab headdress. Inside a map-cluttered office uniformed officers worked at desks. Passages and offices were piled high with Bren guns and boxes of ammunition—all brand new."

The raid by the Arab motorized unit on the Ramle police depot was seen as a part of the campaign by the Arab army to obtain arms. The Arabs, in three trucks, made off with arms and ammunition but ran into a British military road block a short time later.

They fought their way through the road block but abandoned two of their trucks and much of their loot. Three Arabs were captured, and a British officer was wounded in the 30-minute skirmish.

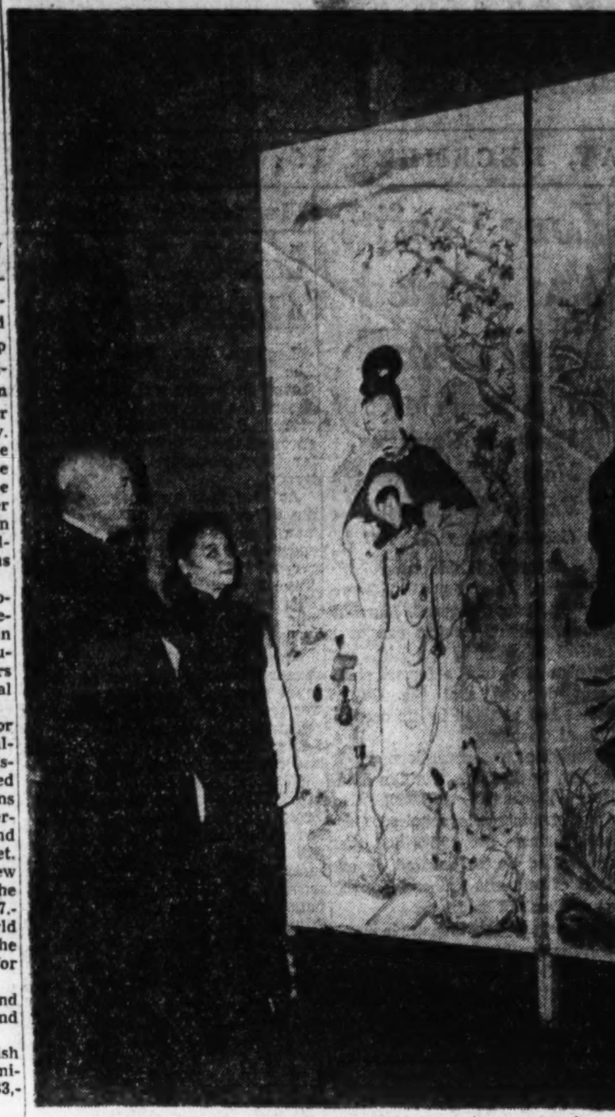
Hagana is believed to be directed by an officer in the building here occupied by the Jewish Agency. Its manpower was estimated at 70,000 before the nation-wide mobilization begun last week. Its wide-spread units have defended Jewish settlements for the past 30 years, and it is generally regarded as an efficient and well-armed fighting force.

A Jewish Agency spokesman told newsmen that Hagana would continue defense or "aggressive self-defense" operations if Jews or Jewish positions are attacked by Arabs. He said that in the first 10 days after the United Nations decision to partition Palestine Hagana was committed only to acts of self-defense, but has now decided to attack all centers from which Arab attacks emerge.

Lehman Urges U. S. To Give Jews Arms

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 14 (U.P.). Former New York Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York tonight urged the United States to supply arms to the Jews of Palestine to defend themselves "if the Arabs reject Jewish overtures for peaceful cooperation."

Chinese Art Presented Catholic University



The Washington Post

PAINTER'S GIFT—Two Chinese paintings, recently completed, were presented yesterday to Catholic University by Mme. Ching-Chih Yee, Chinese artist. The Right Rev. Patrick J. McCormick, rector of Catholic University, received the paintings at ceremonies in the John Kfi Mullen Memorial Library

Chinese Art Presented to Catholic U.

Mme. Ching-Chih Yee, internationally known Chinese artist, presented two paintings to Catholic University yesterday in Mullen Library.

Speakers at the brief ceremony, sponsored by Catholic University and the Institute of Chinese Culture, Washington, were Archbishop Paul Yu-Pin of Nanking, Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to the United States, the Right Rev. P. J. McCormick, rector of the university, and the Right Rev. Edward B. Jordan, vice rector.

One painting, entirely "Our Lady of Refugees," shows the Christ Child in the arms of the Holy Mother against a background of bamboo, Chinese symbol of peace and tranquillity.

The second canvas, called "The Good Shepherd," is another outdoor scene. There are several distant mountains and waterfalls which, according to Mme. Yee, reveal that "Our Lord could find His lost sheep only by overcoming all difficulties."

Archbishop Yu-Pin, who leaves today for China, said that although no one has yet succeeded in perfecting a common world language, the language of art is universal.

He pointed out that although Mme. Yee was unable to express her views in English, her Chinese art was readily understood and appreciated.

where unrationed goods have been sold at higher prices than in ration stores.

The decree estimated that the price of bread would be reduced by an average of 12 per cent and those of cereals by 10 per cent.

"It is necessary for the population to bear part of the sacrifices," the broadcast said, "all the more so since it will be the last sacrifice." It described the abolition of rationing as creating "great material advantages" for the population.

The decree stipulated that "while the currency reform is being effected, the wages of workers and employes, as well as the income of peasants from State deliveries and other labor incomes of all sections of the population, will not be affected by the reform, but will be paid out in the new money at the previous rates."

The decree said the currency reform would be effected on this basis:

"The exchange of money at present in circulation and of cash in hand for new money will be carried out with limitations; namely 10 rubles in old money for one ruble in new money.

Savings Partly Protected

"Deposits of money in savings banks and the state bank will be revalued at more favorable terms than the exchange of cash. Thus deposits up to 3000 rules will be revalued at one ruble for one ruble. This means that deposits belonging to the overwhelming majority of depositors are preserved in their previous value.

For deposits up to 10,000 rubles, the first 3000 are exchanged on a one-to-one basis, the rest at three old rubles for two new rubles. Rubles in excess of 10,000 are exchanged at two old rubles for one new ruble.

The decree added that "a conversion of all previously issued loans will be carried out, with the exception of the loan of 1947. Loans issued previously are merged into a unified loan, the exchange to be effected on the basis of three rubles in previous loans for one ruble in the new unified loan, that is, on the basis of a more advantageous rate than the exchange of cash money."

It said, also, that coins are not to be exchanged, but remain in circulation at their face value.

Familiar Theme Outlined

The decree outlined a Soviet problem of war inflation which is familiar to Western nations.

"The amount of money in circulation has considerably increased, as happened in all states taking part in the war," the decree said. "Simultaneously, the production of goods intended for consumption by the population decreased and retail goods turnover was cut down considerably."

The decree said that the German invaders issued false rubles and "polluted our monetary circulation," with the result that "more money came into circulation than necessary for the national economy. The purchasing power of money decreased and special measures are now necessary for strengthening the Soviet ruble."

During the war, the decree added, Soviet state expenditures on the army and war industries "rose sharply." The war expenditures demanded the issue for circulation of "great amounts of money," it said.

The decree said that carrying out of currency revision is "a usual matter in all states after great wars."

"However, the carrying out of currency reform in our country is radically different from currency reforms in capitalist countries," it added.

"The liquidation of the aftermath of war and the currency reform in capitalist countries is accompanied by large increases in prices on consumer goods . . . and an increase in the army of unemployed."

But in the Soviet Union, the decree said, such reform is being accomplished "not at the expense of the people."

"The number of employed workers and employes is not being reduced in our country," it said.

"The rates of wages for workers and employes, far from being reduced are, on the contrary, being increased since the commercial prices are being reduced by several times, and in addition the rationed prices for bread and cereals are also being decreased, which means an increase in real wages for workers and employes."

Rationing End Welcomed

The decree commented that rationing had succeeded in preserving prewar state prices for essential foods and industrial goods.

"However," it added, "the decrease in state and cooperative trade with consumer goods, and the population's increased demand in the collective farm markets, led to an acute increase in market prices, which in some periods exceeded prewar prices by 10 or 15 times."

During the inflationary period, the decree said, "speculative elements made use of the existence of a great gap between state prices and market prices, as well as of the presence of masses of false money, for the purpose of accumulating great amounts of money, aiming at profits at the expense of the population."

"At present, when the transfer to open trade with unified prices has become the task of the day, the great mount of money issued during the war hampers the abolition of the rationing system."

Abolition of rationing was received with expressions of joy by the citizens of Moscow.

Berlin, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Soviet Union, whcih today announced a money reform to cure its inflated ruble currency, has waged a strong propaganda campaign here to shake Germans' faith in the American economy and the American dollar and convince Germans that the economy of the Soviet Union is "crisis proof."

Meanwhile, in deals which the American military government has publicly branded as black market and "under the counter," the Russians in Germany have been trying to lay their hands on as many dollars as they could capture.

In addition the Russians, when selling for export manufactured goods produced in their occupation zone of Germany, have stipulated wherever possible that payment should be made in dollars or other hard currency and not in rubles.

to bring them down to 1946 levels."

He pointed out that one effect of the decree was to cut the Soviet national debt to "one third of its former load." He based this calculation on another part of the decree which ordered new certificates issued to holders of government bonds at the rate of one ruble for three.

According to J. Burke Knapp, associate director of research and chief foreign currency expert of the Federal Reserve Board, the decree appeared to have a "social" as well as economic purpose.

"It was obviously intended," he said, "to wipe out the private fortunes which have been accumulated by what the Moscow radio calls 'speculators.'"

Speculators Defined

These "speculators", he explained, were, in the eyes of the Soviet government, "everyone who produces and sells on the non-rationed open market for high prices instead of selling to the State for controlled prices."

Although Radio Moscow said "currency reform is a usual matter in all States after great wars," Knapp said he could recall no other incident in recent history where a great power had virtually repudiated its own currency. He said several European countries, including Belgium, Norway and The Netherlands, had carried out somewhat similar currency reforms after World War II, but in all cases had given either bonds or "blocked savings accounts" for the difference between the old currency and the new.

The Plight of Bohars Touched Their Hearts...

The Washington Post

AFTERMATH OF WAR—Kids who were scarcely toddling when the little French village of Bohars was demolished during the American Army's siege of Brest, these Mount Rainier Elementary School pupils collect food and clothing for their counterparts overseas. At left above, pupils of Miss Vivian Marshall bring their contributions; at right, Tracey Haines, 7, adds to the class piggy bank for Rohars' relief. The bank holds $71.03 at present

Mount Rainier School Kids Adopt French Fishing Village

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Bohars, a little French fishing village occupied during the war by the Germans, was nearly wiped out by the American Army in the siege of Brest.

The plight of the inhabitants has touched the hearts of a group of 7 and 8 year-olds at the Mount Rainier Elementary School.

In an effort to help Bohars, the children of Miss Vivian Marshall's second and third grade classes have been collecting clothing, food and money.

But against the needs of a village of 300, what good are the efforts of 43 children?

Realizing this, the youngsters have enlisted aid. They have written to editors of newspapers in the 48 States, Alaska and Hawaii, and they have fashioned posters to place in shop windows in the Mount Rainier community.

Appeals Are Touching

The requests to the editors were printed by the children in large, uneven letters and the posters are scenes of Bohars drawn in the style of children who have not yet learned perspective and proportion.

But their appeals in turn have touched hearts as far away as Alaska and Hawaii and as close to home as the mayor of Mount Rainier.

The children have received replies from nearly a dozen newspapers enclosing clippings and contributions.

They have collected $71.03 and clothing is piling up in the back of the classroom. Rotary, Kiwanis and other service clubs have promised to help. Mayor Floyd Mathias has told the children that he will ask the town council to promote their drive today.

The idea of helping Bohars began with the children.

They run their class like a city. It has city officials and it has a name—"Indiantown."

A month ago discussing Thanksgiving with their teacher they hit upon the idea that they might best give thanks by sharing with the needy as the Indians had shared food with the Pilgrims. They decided to help Europe.

Miss Marshall wrote to the French Embassy and American Aid for France. Bohars was selected.

Six American Leaders Stress Importance Of Marshall Plan in Winning World Peace

New York, Dec. 14 (U.P.).—Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said today that the Marshall Plan to aid Europe is a "supreme opportunity" to win the peace and that failure to adopt it is "unthinkable."

Compton joined with five other members of the Committee for the Marshall Plan to aid European recovery in Network (ABC) broadcasts from six cities urging support of the plan, and warning against "too little, too late.."

In his broadcast from Boston, Compton said that foreign affairs "are now our most intimate domestic concern. . . . Controls required to regulate disrupted economies mean controls here. We are an integral part of the world. We cannot escape the responsibility that implies."

Former Undersecretary of State Joseph Clark Grew, speaking from Washington, said he believed that the "Marshall Plan will solve" the problem of maintaining world peace."

Grew said that the collapse of Western Europe would "immeasurably increase" the odds for another world war, inevitably involving the United States.

Mayor Roger Lapham, speaking from San Francisco, said the United States faces the "simple" choice of sharing prosperity and peace with Europe or being forced to share Europe's ruin.

Charles P. Tift, president of the Federal Council of Churches, said from Cincinnati that "to save our own skins and to discharge our Christian obligations the plan, with other plans, must do the whole job, not build half of the bridge to recovery and stop."

John H. Ferguson, executive director of the Marshall Plan Committee which former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson heads, said in a broadcast from New York that 300 persons have joined the committee in an effort to see that the issues of the Marshall Plan are clearly presented.

Herbert H. Lehman, former director of UNRRA, speaking from Atlantic City, said the United States "of course" faces some risk in the plan but that the greatest risk is "hesitation".

Aid Cut Plan Is Reported

message he intends to send to Congress urging approval of the Marshall Plan. The Marshall Plan message, said to be two hours long, was expected to reach the Capitol this week and will not be delivered in person as was the message on stop-gap aid.

Taber told reporters yesterday his full committee probably would meet "about 10 a. m. Tuesday" to vote out the supply measure for stop-gap aid. He said the committee already had a rule to take it directly to the floor for a vote.

Chairman Bridges (R., N. H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said hearings already had been completed by his committee. It was "just waiting to act" until the House votes, he said, in conformity with a Constitutional provision that appropriation measures must originate in the House.

Meanwhile, early adoption of the conference report on the bill authorizing aid was confidently predicted. Rayburn said he was sure there would be no serious opposition.

"It will be passed by a big majority," he forecast. "Two or three to one."

Vandenberg expressed some fear of a fight by Representatives who had voted to earmark 60 million for China and to reduce the total to 590 million.

At any rate, opponents of the measure or any of its provisions will have an opportunity to fight it when the appropriation bill reaches the floor.

Teamwork in Falls Church Pays Off

Team 'Adopts' English Family In Falls Church Relief Plan

The family of Mrs. Nancy Spender in London, England, probably will be the first to benefit from the new Falls Church Plan to provide food and clothing for needy Europeans.

Under the plan, three families or individuals band together into "sharing teams" and work from a master list of needy European families in shipping food and clothing abroad.

The idea is the brainchild of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, 216 Little Falls st., Falls Church, and the idea already has spread to the nearby Virginia areas Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

The Grahams are members of the first Falls Church sharing team, which has agreed to "adopt" the Spender family for relief shipments.

Mrs. Spender, a war widow, lives at 30 Upper Park rd., London, N. W. 3, England. She is the sole support of a son, 3, and two daughters. The Falls Church master list, compiled from names given by reputable international relief agencies, says the family is in "great need of assistance."

Other members of the Grahams' sharing team are Miss Betty Styles, 301 Park ave., and Mrs. Horace E. Brown of 222 Little Falls st., all of Falls Church.

The other team members, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Covington of Park pl., are scheduled to leave the group shortly and form a sharing plan of their own.

The unit will attempt to send one CARE (Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe) food package monthly to the Spender family.

In addition, the members will determine by mail the Spenders' clothing sizes and needs then pool unwanted unit clothing for shipment.

Five-Cent Price Rise Cuts School Lunches

Baltimore, Dec. 14 (AP).—A nickel increase in the price of school lunches has brought on a drop in the amount of balanced meals bought by public school pupils here.

This was reported today by Mrs. Martha Baltz, supervisor of public school cafeterias. She said the decline is causing concern among school authorities.

The lunch prices were raised five cents— or 20 per cent—December 1.

She disclosed that in a representative school in a poorer section the average of 60 purchases of balanced lunches per day have dropped to 40.

Text of Reply by Marshall

London, Dec. 14 (AP).—The following is the text of Secretary Marshall's reply to Soviet charges Friday concerning U. S. activities in Germany:

The United States delegation submits the following reply to questions addressed to it by the U. S. S. R. delegation on December 12, concerning the acquisition of German business properties by United States interests in the United States zone of Germany, and concerning profits made by the United States on exports of coal and timber from the United States zone in Germany.

The United States long ago proposed a moratorium on the acquisition of foreign ownership or control of property in Germany except to replace property destroyed or transferred since September 1, 1939, with property similar in character and value. It also proposed a report to the control council on:

(A) The politics followed by each of the occupying powers in this respect;

(B) A factual statement of the changes in foreign ownership or control of property in each of the zones since the occupation.

This proposal has not been accepted. The United States, however, has scrupulously carried out, in its own zone, the principle of the moratorium that it proposed.

There is not one single case of German business property that has been acquired by United States interests during the entire occupation.

All goods shipped out of the United States and United Kingdom zones and all services provided for foreigners out of German resources have been sold at world market prices. Not one penny of these proceeds is diverted to the use or advantage of the occupying powers. This includes both coal and timber. The United States invites the assistance of the Germans and of the other occupying powers in obtaining favorable terms of trade for German exports. All the proceeds from such exports are used to buy essential imports for the German economy. Total exports from bizonal area from January 1 to November 1, 1947, total 165 million dollars.

Anti-Inflation Plan Offered by Stassen

Harold E. Stassen outlined a nine-point program to combat inflation in a recorded interview broadcast over Station WINX last night.

The former Minnesota governor urged adoption of government inventory control to curb hoarding and profiteering, reinstatement of consumer credit controls and coordinated American purchasing for all countries receiving foreign aid.

In addition, the Republican presidential aspirant advocated new restrictions on excessive commodity speculation, reduced government spending, easing the tax burden on small business and a general mobilization of consumer resistance to high prices.

In response to a question by Commentator Ed Hart, his interviewer, Stassen said he did not believe that a return to price controls would be beneficial. He criticized Government planners thus:

"They always tend to concentrate on their own ideas of how to distribute goods and lose sight of the great importance of increasing production to meet demand."

Stassen praised the Taft-Hartley labor law, particularly the provision banning jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.

Price Action Today Seen

bill, which includes authority for the President to suspend anti-trust laws where industries get together on cost-of-living agreements, "is only a part of the Republican program." He added:

"But it's about all we can do at the special session. We will tackle the rest when we get back in January."

In his formal statement, Republican Leader Halleck said:

"There has been so much bickering, confusion and outright conflict over the price situation, with the Truman administration, that it is becoming apparent to the country that the Administration does not want to bring down prices and is playing politics with the subject. . . .

"We are going to give the Democratic congressmen an opportunity to show by their votes whether they want to do something constructive about prices or just talk about them and try to hamstring action demanded by the people."

Democrat O'Mahoney sent members of the Senate-House economic committee a telegram saying:

"The Wolcott bill is a bill which would enable the small group which now controls American industry to write its own ticket and put the President of the United States in the position of having to approve the program of Big Business or be reported to the country as declining to act.

"There is no possibility of protecting the people of the United States unless we clothe their government with positive power, as is done in the Harriman bill (embodying part of Mr. Truman's program). The Wolcott bill is not an anti-inflation bill, but a pro-monopoly bill."

Both parties have advanced only tentative outlines of how they propose to curb the cost of living spiral. Each has issued an overall statement of aims, based on a 10-point program. Thus far the Administration has only the specific legislation offered by Secretary of Commerce Harriman calling for standby priority and allocation authority.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach has outlined his "personal" recommendations for legislation to control and roll back prices. And President Truman promised Thursday to send Congress soon specific legislative requests for price and wage controls.

On the other hand, the Republicans have the Wolcott bill ready for House consideration. This bill, attacking the inflation problem on the basis of voluntary industry agreements, was approved by the Banking Committee by a 14 to 9 vote after a switch in Democratic votes saved it from defeat.

Taft Is Target, Says McGrath

By the United Press

Senator J. Howard McGrath, newly elected Democratic national chairman, made it clear yesterday that his party would be "out to get" Senator Robert A. Taft in 1948, even if the Ohio lawmaker fails to win the Republican presidential nomination.

"Whoever receives the Republican nomination will be challenged on whether he is for or against the Taft economic policy," McGrath told a reporter in a discussion of Democratic strategy for the approaching presidential campaign.

At the same time the Rhode Island Senator voiced concern over the growing split between Democrats and left-wing labor elements in New York, a pivotal State with 47 electoral votes. He admitted that it could have "serious effects" on President Truman's chances in that State unless it is healed.

The American Labor Party, which has been credited with supplying the margin of votes needed for past Democratic election victories in New York, has broken with the Democratic high command and is threatening to put a third party candidate—preferably former Vice President Henry A. Wallace—in the presidential race.

Discussing 1948 campaign strategy, he said the Democratic attack will be aimed largely at "repudiating the economic policies of Senator Robert A. Taft."

Taft holds the important post of chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, and has been more or less the mentor of Senate Republican domestic policies since the GOP won control of Congress in 1946.

Only recently, however, several of his Republican colleagues rebelled, insisting that when he speaks he specify whether he is speaking for himself as a presidential candidate, or for established GOP policy.

Sub Stays Down For 'Several' Weeks

British Craft Equipped With Version Of German 'Schnorkel,' Other Devices

London, Dec. 14 (AP).—A British submarine has remained submerged for "several weeks," then surfaced under her own power with her full crew of seven officers and 60 men in good health, the Admiralty said today.

Two to three days was the previous limit of submersion.

A succinct British Admiralty announcement reported that H. M. submarine Alliance, with a displacement of 1250 tons, had returned to its base at Portsmouth after a cruise in the tropical waters off Sierra Leone, Africa, "to test living conditions aboard a submarine during prolonged dives in tropical waters."

An Admiralty spokesman confirmed that the submarine—one of Britain's latest types—had remained submerged for several weeks, but declined to disclose any details.

It was learned, however, that the Alliance had been fitted with an improved version of the German Schnorkel apparatus and with other secret devices. The Snorkel, put into service on U-boats in 1943, both purifies the air in submarines and eliminates engine odors. But even with it installed on submarines 48 to 72 hours of submersion was the previous limit.

Specially selected crews who underwent exhaustive health tests were assigned to the Alliance, and a doctor examined each man daily during the underwater ordeal.

To ward off boredom, movies, 200 books and hundreds of gramophone records were stored aboard. Football and racing results were broadcast to the submarine, and the men held sweepstakes on the results.

Otherwise, normal underwater routine was carried out throughout the dive.

The lone anxious time came when one sailor complained of pain. Appendicitis was suspected, and it was feared the test would have to be suspended. But the man's condition was improved, and two days later he was fit again.

Toward the end of the longest underwater cruise on record excitement mounted among the crew.

Navy and AF Would Spend 3 Billions Yearly on New Planes

By the United Press

It would cost about three billion dollars a year—triple current outlays—to supply the Air Force and Navy with the numbers of planes they say they must have for sound national security, competent authorities estimated yesterday.

At the same time, Air Force sources made available the first detailed inventory, by numbers and types, of aircraft that would comprise the minimum for adequate defense. It calls for:

Nine hundred eighty-eight very heavy bombers, 436 medium and light bombers, 1898 penetration and interceptor fighters, 165 tactical reconnaissance planes, 125 all-weather fighters, 56 light transports, 463 medium, twin-engine, transports, 417 heavy, four-engine transports, 67 amphibians, 310 liaison planes, 105 helicopters, 1107 primary and basic trainers, 336 single-engine advance trainers and 396 twin-engine advance trainers.

These figures total 6869 aircraft, the number that would make up the 70 groups which Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington and Air Chief of Staff Gen. Carl Spaatz told President Truman's Air Policy Commission the country must have.

The Air Force additionally wants 5572 planes in its reserve organizations and 8100 instorage. Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan has testified that the naval air arm in five years should have 14,500 aircraft, operating and in reserve.

The annual aircraft replacement rate for this amount of air power would be about 6000 planes, more than three times the number being produced at present. Industry

Happy Holiday all Year Round

CHRISTMAS comes but once a year? Don't you believe it!

Not when you can travel in style that's bright and gay as a holiday wrapping—and just as sure to bring a sparkle to the eye.

Not when you've a big Fireball straight-eight with which to explore those pleasant little roads that are as full of happy surprises as a Christmas morning.

Not when you've a car like this, that can be snug and cozy as a seat by the fire when the weather's bad—yet wide open to the sun, the sky, the stars and the moon when the season's right.

Not when every mile you travel is cradled on four soft coil springs that give your car a gait as smooth and flowing as its long and tapering lines.

Not, in short, when you've a Buick Convertible, with push-button top, self-adjusting front seats, and electro-hydraulic door window lifts that are more fun to operate than a new toy train.

With this one, the holiday spirit lasts all year. With this one, that happy, contented, at-peace-with-the-world feeling knows no season.

It's too late, of course, to put one in your driveway for this Christmas morning. But why not see your Buick dealer, and fix things up for a future time?

Just the news that you've got an order in for a sparkling new Buick Convertible will be enough to give your household its merriest Christmas ever.

Assurance To Italy

There is nothing belligerent about President Truman's statement on the withdrawal of American troops from Italy. What he says is that this action in adherence to the terms of the peace treaty does not mean a relinquishment of the interest of the United States in "the preservation of a free and independent Italy." As a signatory of that treaty and a member of the United Nations, this country will continue to be alert for any kind of aggression against Italy. The statement has the appearance of a warning to Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union, but that is only because the nature and past conduct of the Tito and Stalin regimes have made plain speaking necessary.

President Truman wisely gave no heed to frantic appeals that American troops be kept in Italy in spite of the provisions of the peace treaty. Adherence to the agreement this country had helped to make was a necessary part of the Administration's policy of fair play and mutual helpfulness in Europe. Failure to keep our word might have shattered our prestige no less disastrously than the Communist strikes in France and Italy for the sake of thwarting the Marshall Plan and perpetuating misery in those countries have undercut the influence of Moscow in western Europe. The United States is properly according to international agreements the respect it expects from others while at the same time reaffirming the Truman Doctrine of supporting free peoples whose independence is vital to our own security. Congress has freshly underwritten this doctrine in its economic aspects as applied to western Europe. Secretary of State Marshall is giving it application in the field of diplomacy. President Truman has now given it additional meaning in terms that must be directly related to military strength, if occasion should arise to make use of that strength necessary.

Republican Way

The outstanding feature of the Wolcott bill which goes before the House today with the blessings of the Republicans is its emphasis on voluntary agreements by private industry for the allocation and inventory control of scarce commodities. Although the Wolcott bill provides that such agreements shall be subject to approval by the President, Senator O'Mahoney points out that, unlike the Harriman bill, it does not give the Government the power to limit the scope of agreements and set standards for the guidance of industry. The President will, so to speak, be put on the spot if Congress relies on the purely voluntary system of agreements contemplated by the Republicans. For if he should reject an agreement that he considered too restrictive or otherwise unfair, there would be nothing to put in its place, since the Government would be powerless to act.

While we think it highly desirable to give voluntary methods a preliminary trial, the chances that they will succeed will be poor, unless the Administration is armed with weapons of coercion that can be used if or when needed. In the national interest it may become necessary to impose restraints on free enterprise to which private industry will not voluntarily submit. There will almost certainly be nonconformist individuals or groups that will not agree, except under the threat of coercion, to even the most reasonable plans for husbanding our resources and checking price advances. Furthermore, voluntary agreements of the restricted kind contemplated under the Republican plan would not afford protection against increases in the prices of essential materials or wage increases that would inevitably result in higher prices of finished products.

Yet, apart from the provision for voluntary agreements and noncontroversial proposals to allocate transportation facilities and export controls, the Republican program offers nothing except a recommendation for curbing credit expansion by increasing reserves held by the Federal Reserve Banks against note issues and deposits. This proposal would have little, if any immediate effect in restraining over-all credit expansion, although Representative Wolcott believes that it would have "a very strong psychological effect." He says that it should be taken as a sign that Congress disapproves of the easy money policy of the Administration. Since the Administration is committed to that policy and shows no signs of retreating, we doubt whether this method of expressing disapproval will yield results. Moreover, from a long-range viewpoint, tightened reserve requirements are open to serious objection. For the Federal Reserve System needs leeway in carrying out its operations, and its usefulness might be seriously impaired in the future, as has been the case in the past, by a high level of reserve requirements.

That many Republicans are dissatisfied with the program of the House Banking Committee is indicated by demands of some Senate Republicans for its expansion. Significent also is the declaration of the Republican Policy Committee that it will consider at the regular session phases of the general anti-inflation program that it has not been possible to study at the extra session. Meantime the Republicans are relying on the inadequate Wolcott bill to eliminate industrial waste and hold back inflationary tides. For the reasons given we do not believe the kind of voluntary program contemplated by the bill will succeed unless the Government is equipped with the reserve powers of control requested by the President.

Administering ERP

With both Houses of Congress now overwhelmingly committed to the principle of helping Europe meet its critical economic problems, attention increasingly centers in means of carrying out the program. Of course, Congress has indorsed only the emergency phase of the Marshall Plan, but there seems to have been in both Houses a tacit acknowledgment that this beginning implies later approval of some sort of reconstruction aid. For what would be the point of rescuing war-distracted countries temporarily only to let them slip back into the disorder of hopelessness after a few brief months? In other words, we think the logic of events will compel an affirmative decision when the Marshall Plan goes before the regular session of Congress, and that throws special emphasis upon proper administration.

The question of administration can be properly decided, we surmise, only if the purpose of the European Recovery Program is kept foremost in mind. It is not a mere commercial venture. Its aim is not to sell more American products abroad or to increase our purchases from other countries. Nor is the chief objective the granting of credit to dollar-poor countries. Rather the program is undertaken in support of our basic foreign policy of shoring up other free and independent countries as a means of strengthening our own security and making possible a larger degree of international cooperation for the maintenance of peace. Such a policy can be made effective only by the closest sort of teamwork between the State Department and the operating agency.

The Herter Committee suggested that the aid program be administered by a corporation with a bipartisan board of directors that would owe a large measure of responsibility to Congress. We can appreciate the desire of Republican leaders to keep this program under their own control, but such plans run contrary to the spirit of the Constitution and contrary to sound administrative practices. The function of Congress is to make the general policy. Administration of that policy, especially in the field of foreign affairs, is the obligation of the President. To set up an agency that would run in competition with the Department of State in dealing with other countries would certainly invite confusion and might easily defeat the purposes which the reconstruction policy is designed to promote.

It is true, of course, that a public corporation can transact business with greater ease and flexibility than a regular governmental agency. But when actual buying or selling is to be done or loans to be made the agency in control can call upon existing Government corporations such as the Export-Import Bank, the Commodity Credit Corporation and the United States Commercial Co. And Congress can by statute give the control agency whatever flexibility may seem desirable as to choice of personnel and fiscal accountability.

We are strongly inclined to agree with the National Planning Association, therefore, that this task should be entrusted to a separate agency headed by an administrator responsible to the President—not to a corporation. The NPA suggests also that Congress establish a committee to coordinate ERP with United States foreign policy and domestic economic policy. This committee would be headed by the President, with the Secretary of State as vice chairman, and with all the departments concerned represented. To make the President chairman of a committee seems to us surplusage. He is head of the entire executive branch. Apparently the NPA resorted to this expedient because it had suggested that the proposed administrator of European aid be given Cabinet rank and pay. He would thus be on a par with the Secretary of State, and the President would have to supersede both to avoid a clash of policies.

It is at this point where we question the NPA's view. The Secretary of State is a major policy-making official. The ERP administrator should not be. In our opinion, the NPA's commendable suggestion would have more appeal if it recognized the Secretary of State as kingpin in the formulation of ERP policy on this side of the Atlantic (within the framework of congressional legislation, of course) and kept the proposed new agency solely on an operating level.

Henry's Kiss

Henry Wallace's backhanded indorsement of Senator Taft's foreign policy—whatever that is—was no compliment to the Senator in either the first or second version. Mr. Wallace had said at Buffalo that if the 1948 presidential contest should become a race between President Truman and Mr. Taft he would vote for Taft. After this candid admission had had time to produce an uproar from Mr. Wallace's left-wing followers, he told a press conference that he had been only "fooling." Actually it would take something like a miracle to induce him to vote for a Republican presidential candidate. This slap at the party Mr. Taft heads in the Senate will undoubtedly be more to his liking than the original embrace, but we do not think the incident can be laughed off as mere Wallacian tomfoolery.

The reasons given by Mr. Wallace for warming up to Mr. Taft are their mutual opposition to universal military training and Mr. Wallace's belief that "Senator Taft would be most likely to take action in foreign affairs that would result in peace." By this he undoubtedly means that Senator Taft would be more likely than any other potential candidate to withdraw from the strong foreign policy backed by President Truman and most of the leaders of the Republican Party. Consequently, no denial by Mr. Wallace can possibly wipe out the logic of his original indorsement of Mr. Taft so long as this situation remains as it is.

Mr. Wallace disapproves of any meaningful resistance to Russian aggression. He has refrained from blanket condemnation of the Marshall Plan, but he has sniped at the way in which he thinks it will be administered. His broadsides have included not only President Truman and Secretary Marshall but also such figures as Governor Dewey. Mr. Wallace apparently believes that Russia can do no wrong, and his policy, such as it is, can be described as one of turning both cheeks. It is a policy which for obvious reasons is energetically supported by the Communists.

It would be unfair to accuse Senator Taft of the same kind of blindness that afflicts Mr. Wallace. Mr. Taft is no appeaser of Russia. He recognizes, or says he recognizes, the need for firmness in resisting Russian aggression. The trouble is that Mr. Taft's attitude has been almost completely negative. He is almost as good at saying no as Mr. Molotov. He has consistently resisted or sought to scale down the measures which would build bulwarks against communism in Europe. He thinks that the Marshall Plan is too ambitious, that aid should be given only to "specific countries for specific purposes; leaving out of account Secretary Marshall's objective which is to recreate a working economy for Europe as a whole.

This strange mingling of Left and Right is possible because the foreign policies of the unrealistic Mr. Wallace and the too-little-and-too-late Mr. Taft would lead to the same result—disaster. If Senator Taft is embarrassed by the fleeting embrace from Mr. Wallace, as he should be, then the best possible answer is for him to recast his own thinking.

Up To Washington

It is all too evident that the citizenry of Washington is not doing its part toward the achievement of home rule. An alert subcommittee of the House of Representatives has devised an admirable plan which, at one stroke, would wipe out local disfranchisement, streamline the outmoded District government and relieve Congress of an intolerable burden. Many Congressmen are itching to free themselves of the responsibilities of city councilmen for the District and to end the disgraceful voteless status of the Capital of the United States. But we might just as well recognize the fact that the rank and file of local citizens have not yet been aroused to the importance of the issue.

This fact was apparent at the meeting last week sponsored by the Central Suffrage Conference. The upshot was a unanimously approved resolution indorsing the Auchincloss Committee's proposals. But the meeting brought out only 150 persons, and in spite of the constructive address by Dr. George B. Galloway, staff director of the committee which has devised the home-rule plan, the dominant note was the challenge to local residents from Representative Charles B. Deane. Congress, Mr. Deane said, is not going to try to sell the idea of home rule to the people of the District. If they want to govern themselves, they will have to conduct their own campaign to arouse support for the necessary legislation.

This is sound advice. Of course, there are many excuses for the existing apathy. Suffrage has been dead in Washington for 73 years and civic spirit has never recovered from the blow. Congress has disappointed local residents so many times that they are almost afraid to hope for a change of attitude. No effective organization to campaign for suffrage has ever been effected. But when all these excuses have ben put together they amount to nothing so far as the achievement of home rule is concerned. If the people of Washington wish to become full-fledged citizens, they will have to throw away their excuses and buckle down to the task of building the organization and the community spirit that are essential to success.

The starting point in our opinion, is a committee of 100—the leading citizens of Washington in all walks of life—for support of the Auchincloss plan. That committee ought to draw strength from every civic group that is interested in better local government. It should mobilize a battery of speakers to expound and advocate the Auchincloss plan to every civic body that will give it a hearing. It should enlist the press, the radio and the churches and arouse individual citizens by a house-to-house canvass of every block, if necessary. When hearings are held, the committee should fill the hearing room to overflowing. It should conduct mass meetings that would bring together not 150 persons but 10,000 citizens clamoring for restoration of their American birthright.

Is that too high a price to pay for the right of self-government? If so, then the whole idea of an elected city council for Washington may well be discarded and people can slip shame-facedly back into the role of political eunuchs. If not, it is high time for the leaders of this community to shake the lead out of their boots and initiate the only kind of campaign that will save the very promising Auchincloss plan from becomings just another flop.

Civil Rights Report

It will be a pity if the present concentration of interest in Washington on aid to Europe and related problems of foreign policy diverts public attention from the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights. For we must never forget the close connection between the defense of freedom abroad and the defense of freedom at home.

In the "cold war" with Soviet Russia which has been forced upon us, we stand as the champion of those "inalienable rights" of the individual which are the heart of our own Constitution. That is the moral basis of our foreign policy and we must take care that it is not undermined.

The President's Committee on Civil Rights, a nonpartisan body of distinguished citizens headed by Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric Co., was able to report that "in no other country have so many people come so close to this idea of freedom and equality as in America." Nevertheless, it was forced to remind us that our democracy remains far from perfect and that there is a "pervasive gap between our aims and what we actually do."

The most violent example of deprivation of civil rights—lynching—has declined in recent years, the committee reports; but this savage practice is not, as it ought to be, extinct. And discrimination against racial and religious minorities at the polls, in the courts, in housing, education and employment continues to be a widespread and perhaps a growing evil.

Our failure to assure to all Americans those liberties which our Constitution guarantees is constantly being exploited by the enemies of democracy. If we are to repel their attacks successfully, we must make the Bill of Rights a truly impartial shield. A heavy responsibility, therefore, rests upon all those—ministers of religion, teachers, writers and business and labor leaders—who are in a position to influence public opinion.

My own intention is to publish a summary of the report in the house organ of the company of which I am president and to promote discussion of the matter among its readers. I hope many of my fellow businessmen will desire to do the same.

D. C. Discrimination

The president of the Federation of Citizens' Association, John H. Connaughton, has declared, "there is no discrimination in Washington." The statement is so ridiculous that it hardly merits the dignity of an answer. However, as a Negro who faces discrimination in Washington daily, I cannot sit idly by when one who apparently does not know the meaning of the word expounds so freely.

Webster's Dictionary defines discrimination as observing or making differences between. Needless to say, I could write for hours enumerating the many examples of discrimination in Washington. Every sincere citizen recognizes them as well as I.

Far more significant than the thoughtless statement is the note of fear underlying these quoted words, "promiscuous intermingling" and "there is no telling these things will end."

I'm glad Mr. Connaughton is afraid. It means we're making visible progress toward the true goal of democracy. It means that some are being awakened to injustices, frustrations, and the evils of prejudice, while others are beginning to see their ramparts slowly crumbling away.

As for "living with certain people"—this is the familiar hue and cry to divert attention from the primary issue, adequate housing and equal privileges.

Some time in the future, when another Freedom Train rolls into Washington, I hope to look upon those honored documents and this time truthfully say, "I know what it means to be free in a democratic land."

Expensive Lesson

Returning to Washington after being away five years, I have chosen The Washington Post as giving the most unbiased views. I want to congratuate The Washington Post and Chester Bowles for letter on "Stassen on Price Control" published December 5.

Housewives all over the country were against removing OPA. Mr. Bowles asserts "the American people have learned an expensive lessons in the last 12 months." I heartily agree.

Those of us particularly who lived through inflation from 1919-1929, and then through the most terrible depression in our history realized what decontrol would bring us to and has brought us to.

More Democracy

One important reason for outlawing present discriminatory practices in property covenants springs from the heart of the democratic idea. Basic in that idea, the protection of civil rights deserves the attention it has secured through the admirable report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, a report which, far from being misleading and inaccurate, appears to us to outline clearly and sharply some deficiencies in democracy in our own back yard. We need to go back to the Bill of Rights, and to make it work right here in Washington.

Another particular reason why men of good will cannot rest stems from "the divine unrest" inspired by Christian teachings. In a Kingdom of God in which all men are brothers, shall one man with impunity disown his brother? No, nor can we collectively deny Jews or Negroes or other minority groups the right to equal access to public places and equal opportunity to own property. To deny the "least of these" is to deny that of God which is in every man.

Just before Mrs. Pandit was leaving for India a year ago after her service at the United Nations, the South African delegate made one last effort to explain to her about Indian minorities in Africa. He said, "We are trying to proceed according to Christian principles." "Christian principles, indeed," replied the Indian delegate. "Is the gentleman aware that under the constitution of South Africa, Christ could not own land in the Transvaal or sleep overnight in the provinces of the Free State, because He was an Asiatic?"

"Diplomatic Boondoggling"

My attention has been called to a column in your paper of December 8, signed by Walter Lippmann, describing action to prevent Communist conquest of China as "diplomatic boondoggling." Is this the same Mr. Lippmann who published, in 1943, a book entitled United States Foreign Policy Shield of the Republic?

That book contains the following statements:

1. "American naval power in the Pacific must, in order to be fully effective, hold securely a chain of bases extending from continental United States through Hawaii, Wake, Guam, and the Japanese mandated islands to the Philippines. It is, however, a line which cannot easily be held securely unless there is an anchor at the other end of this barrier chain of bases. This anchor can be provided only by China."

2. "Manifestly the peace of the Pacific has turned and will turn upon China. All the international wars of the Pacific, including the war we are now waging, have turned upon China, and the future of China will for good or evil determine the future of the whole great basin of the Pacific."

3. "As soon as the United States became a power in the Far East by occupying the Philippines, the American Government committed itself to opposing the dismemberment of China into spheres of imperialist influence. This was the open-door policy. With some temporary deviations and some lapses, the United States adhered to this policy, and finally became engaged in the present war because it would not renounce the policy.

4. "All we can do is to act on the assumption that the conditions which for half a century have made the integrity and security of China a vital interest of the United States will, as China becomes a great power, make the security of the United States a vital interest of China."

5. "In Asia, a Russian policy of aggrandizement against China, would disrupt Russian-American relations in the North Pacific and, in the coming air age, across the top of the globe."

Perhaps this is the same Mr. Lippmann. For in the same book, Mr. Lippmann advocated a "nuclear alliance" between the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union, thereby displaying such an ignorance of the aims of Soviet imperialism that readers who had some knowledge of world affairs were obliged to concur in his estimate of his own powers: "how wide has been the gap between my own insight and my own hindsight,"—and to note his confession: "And though I knew, and had often argued, that British-American sea power combined was necessary to our own security and to the maintenance of peace, nevertheless I was too weak-minded to take a stand against the exorbitant folly of the Washington Disarmament Conference. In fact, I followed the fashion, and in editorials for the old New York World celebrated the disaster as a triumph and denounced the admirals who dared to protest. Of that episode in my life I am ashamed, all the more so because I had no excuse for not knowing better."

Some day, if Mr. Lippmann exists, he will be as ashamed of calling action to prevent Communist conquest of China "diplomatic boondoggling" as he now is of having advocated the scrapping of a large portion of the American fleet.

Recently, someone using the same name, Walter Lippmann, published in your paper, I am told, 14 articles proving that the United States could not win the "cold war" against the Soviet Union; but before the articles were published in book form, rushed to Europe and returned with the poyful announcement that the "cold war" had already been won by the United States. If this Mr. Walter Lippmann really exists, and is not a chameleon pantologist, he should be more careful—otherwise he will cease to be even the matrons' mentor.

The Prince Of Tattlers

THE HOODED HAWK, OR THE CASE OF MR. BOSWELL, by D. B. Wyndham Lewis. (Longmans, Green, $4.)

In the preparation of this biography of the greatest of biographers Mr. Lewis has had the benefit not only of his own erudition and genial wit but also of much new evidence, including the recently published Isham papers. Yet it cannot be said that with all his good will he has greatly altered the prevailing conception of the Scotsman, James Boswell, as a personality which was compounded in approximately equal portions of the genius and the jackass. It is Mr. Lewis' purpose to rescue the reputation of Boswell from the scorn attached to it by some of his own contempories, such as Horace Walpole, and from the savage obloquies cast upon it by Lord Macaulay in the famous essay, first published in 1835. But the difference between Macaulay and Mr. Lewis is mainly in the point of view; Macaulay could not abide a fool; Mr. Lewis cannot abide a prig nor a Pharisee. He is obliged to agree that Boswell was in general lewd and sottish and woefully wanting in what is called common sense; but Mr. Lewis insists that Boswell's real offense in the sight of his critics was not as much his vices as his candor in confessing them. Thus it is that "the malign disapproval of censors who can overlook any sin but sincerity follows him around perpetually like a cold white spotlight," while his virtues of simplicity, courtesy and kindliness avail him nothing.

All the same, Mr. Lewis acknowledges that Boswell was what we should call nowadays in the fashionable jargon a psychopathic person, or in the vulgar and perhaps crueller idiom, a screwball. Mr. Lewis, who deals flippantly throughout with the holy science of psychiatry, does not undertake a diagnosis but he has no hesitation in suggesting how Boswell might have been cured. In his youth Boswell had played, like Gibbon, with the notion of becoming a Papist, a step which in eighteenth century Scotland would have entailed enormous sacrifices and all in all have required more courage than he possessed; but Mr. Lewis believes that Catholicism would have provided precisely the therapy that Boswell needed, that it need have meant no difference in his relationship to Dr. Johnson, nor would have in any way diminished his literary achievement, and that in addition to his two master pieces he might have left a valuable historical record of what life in England was like for a Catholic in the days of the Penal Laws. Apart, however, from his regrets on this score Mr. Lewis is as indulgent of Boswell's aberrations as Macaulay was severe upon them. Thus he mitigates the shock of Boswell's astonishing poem in praise of the African slave-trade by observing that he could have had no idea of what the slave-trade really was; he excuses the passage relating to Lady Diana Beauclerc in the Life of Johnson by saying the fault was really Edmund Malone's for not striking it out of the proofs. The point seems to be that Malone should have remembered that Boswell had no discretion and would blab whatever he knew; that "he was a risky fellow to confide anything to, not because he ever acted in deliberate malice, but because he could not help babbling and scribbling without discrimination."

Mr. Lewis' contention that Boswell did more for Johnson than Johnson for Boswell is, I believe, pretty well sustained. I suspect, indeed, that if it were not for Boswell the Great Cham would be forgotten today by all but the literary historians, although now and then to be sure I am astonished to meet persons who tell me that they read Rasselas or The Rambler for the pure pleasure of it. But there can be no doubt that the Life of Johnson is one of the great imperishable masterpieces, though I think it a bit absurd of Mr. Lewis to concur in the judgment of Oscar Wilde, who placed it, as a work of biography, above the Apologia and the Crito. Certainly it is one of the few books which never become stale or tiresome, which can be read and reread in any mood and under almost any circumstances. Mr. Lewis attributes its magic to a kind of ecstasy in Boswell; that is, to an ability to stand outside himself in rapt contemplation. But it is also true the living quality of the book was artfully contrived and that Boswell boasted to his friend Temple that it would be "more of a Life than any work that has yet appeared." It affords the standard by which every subsequent biography has been judged and, as Mr. Lewis humbly acknowledges, by which the present book must be judged.

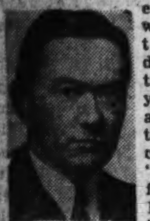
This being so, it is necessary to say that Mr. Lewis' book is far less entertaining as a study of Boswell than as a picture of the Johnsonian milieu, "the brutal, enchanting London of Gay and Addison," and as a parade of Boswell's famous contemporaries, many of them more erratic than himself. This is an art to which Mr. Lewis' learning, his stock of historical curiosities, his eye for vivid detail, his tart humor, his Jacobite prejudice and his somewhat straggling prose are admirably suited. He is probably without a peer in describing such matters as the executions at Tyburn, the infantile diableries of the Hellfire Club, the horrible condition of the English poor, the domestic habits of Voltaire and the flagitious behavior of John Wilkes.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Limit Of Communist Expansion



Lippmann

LATE LAST week the House received a report from its Committee on Foreign Affairs which said that "the Communist hope of early victory in western Europe through legal democratic politics is dead for years to come," and that unless the Communists can succeed in "a violent strike for power in France and Italy, then for the time being the limits of Communist expansion after World War II have been set for the western world." The events in France have confirmed this conclusion, and while there is still uncertainty about Italy, the indications are that it will also be confirmed there.

The question then is whether "a violent strike for power"—which has not yet been attempted—could succeed if it were attempted.

THE ANSWER is, I believe, that the local Communists cannot seize power against the majority of the people unless the national forces—the police and the army—have first been disposed of. They must either have subverted the police and the army, which obviously they have not done in France and probably not in Italy either, or they must have the support of foreign troops to crush the national resistance.

That is to say: if the Red army cannot cross Germany and enter France, the local Communists cannot seize power by violence, and may not, since they know what the result would be, attempt such a suicidal adventure. And if Tito's army cannot enter northern Italy, a swift and successful seizure of power is in the highest degree improbable. Barring his open intervention, the worst that is to be feared in Italy is civil strife of a guerilla kind supported by infiltration and the smuggling of contraband from Yugoslavia. But this would be met, of course, by energetic support of the Italian government in the form not only of release from the disarmament clauses of the peace treaty, and the supply of arms but also by direct diplomatic action, backed by allied power, in Belgrade and in Moscow.

IF THE estimate of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs is correct, then Russia has lost the cold war in western Europe. That is to say, it cannot dominate western Europe by waging the cold war. To dominate western Europe it must invade western Europe, and must fight not a cold war but a real war.

That is where we come into the picture. Why is it that the Red army cannot cross Germany and invade France in order to support the French Communists? Not because General Clay's four divisions can stop the Red army. Not because we could land enough troops in France quickly enough to stop the Red army at the French frontiers. But because the Kremlin knows that if it overwhelmed our troops in Germany and invaded France, which it could almost certainly do, our reply would be the kind of war which we waged against Japan after it overwhelmed Bataan and overran so large a part of China and of southeast Asia.

We should no more seek a decision in France, in Germany, in Trieste, in Greece than we sought a decision in China or the Netherlands Indies. We should seek it in Moscow, in the Ukraine, in the Caucasus—in the heart which is vulnerable to our particular kind of military power, whereas the heart of America is at present, and will be for the duration of this diplomatic struggle, invulnerable.

THESE ARE the strategical conditions which enable us, as long as we maintain our power and manage it wisely, to say with confidence that Russian communism can extend no further, and that eventually it will have to recede. But our diplomacy must conform to our strategical position. For if it does not, we shall get into trouble.

An example of how by misunderstanding our position we could get into trouble was provided last week by Representative John Lodge of Connecticut. Mr. Lodge implored the President to disregard the Italian peace treaty and to keep our troops in Italy for the purpose of protecting Italy against the Russians and the Yugoslavs. Though Mr. Lodge's intentions are no doubt of the best, his practical advice is not. For our handful of troops in Italy do not protect Italy. What protects Italy is the total power of the United States and its allies. To have kept the troops there in violation of the treaty would not have strengthened the Italian government but would, on the contrary, have weakened it. It would have made Italy another Greece. It would have reduced the Italian government to the status of a puppet of a foreign power, and deprived the Italians of the self-respect and self-confidence which they must have (and in fact do have) to maintain their independence and their own national existence.

MR. LODGE is one of those who have not yet understood that the way to contain Russia is by the strategical employment of American power, not by local, tactical interventions all around the periphery of the Soviet Union.

These local interventions—in Korea, in China, in Greece, and in Turkey have all turned out badly. They have cost us money, which has been wasted, and they have cost us prestige which we need to conserve. Of them it can be said truly that they are Operation Rathole, and even Operation Bear-By-The-Tail. For in these operations, once engaged, there is no decision and no end. But we have to hold on because there is no way of letting go.

Hearings Set For Study of Postal Rates

By the United Press

Congressional concern over the Post Office Department's 250-million-dollar deficit will take a new turn tomorrow when a House Post Office Subcommittee begins hearings on establishment of an independent board to revise postal rates.

The group will hear testimony from representatives of the newspaper and magazine publishing industries, officials of the Post Office Department, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Katharine St. George (R., N. Y.), was named to consider the advisability of creating an independent rate-making board after several Congressmen complained about the "seeming reluctance" of Post Office Department officials to recommend an increase in rates.

The department wound up the 1947 fiscal year 250 million dollars in the red. President Truman estimated in his budget message to Congress last January that the deficit for fiscal 1948 would be $287,679,250.

It was disclosed that House Post Office Committee Chairman Edward H. Rees (R., Kans.) wrote to Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan several weeks before Hannegan resigned asking why the department did not ask the ICC for an increase in parcel post rates. Committee sources said Hannegan never replied.

Rees noted that the Government is losing some 50 million dollars a year on its parcel post service, and that the department can apply for an increase on its own initiative. He also observed that the present law says parcel post must "pay its own way."

Newman Club Opened at GW; Masses Held

Two alumnae communion masses and breakfasts and the opening of George Washington University's Newman Club headquarters highlighted Catholic events yesterday.

Monsignor John J. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, addressed the communion breakfast of St. Patrick's Academy Alumnae Association at the Willard Hotel, after celebrating the communion mass at St. Patrick's.

The priest commended the women for keeping up their interest in the academy after graduation. Mrs Andrew C. Auth was chairman of arrangements. Miss Geraldine Nesline is alumnae president.

At the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Monsignor Patrick J. McCormick, rector of Catholic University, celebrated the communion mass for the Catholic University Alumnae Association. Dr. Kathryn McHale, director of the American Association of University Women, addressed a breakfast afterward at the Kenesaw Cafe, 16th and Irving sts. nw. Mrs. Paul J. FitzPatrick was chairman of the arrangements committee, assisted by Mrs. Joseph P. Daly, Miss Maude Montgomery, Miss Marcella Maloy and Miss Marion Wolberg.

The temporary headquarters of the Newman Club was opened yesterday at 714 N st. nw., with a housewarming and tea. The Rev. Lawrence P. Gatti, assistant pastor of St. Stephen's Church and chaplain for Catholic students at George Washington University, presided at the house-warming.

Bible Sunday Observed Here By Protestant Congregations

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Sermon assurances that the Bible can solve the world's ills were voiced at Universal Bible Sunday services yesterday in Greater Washington Protestant churches.

President Truman, in a message to the American Bible Society, New York City, expressed the hope that yesterday's observance and the Thanksgiving to Christmas daily Bible reading program "will inspire the present generation to return to the practice of their forefathers."

"As we prepare to go forward with the tasks which lie ahead," said the Chief Executive, "we shall find strength and courage if we gird ourselves with 'the Sword of the Spirit which is the Word of God.'"

The Rev. Daniel W. Justice, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, 5th st. and Seward Square se., saw a return to the teachings of the Bible as the only alternative to world chaos.

"Scientific advancement and achievement have converted our world into a small community, with nations finding themselves sitting on each other's laps," he said, "but not enough of us have known and applied the Biblical truths sufficiently to make friends of all peoples.

International Force

"The only hope for humanity is to be found in that one power which can transform men by the renewal of their minds and application of its truths to all relationships of men."

Dr. Bernard Braskamp told his Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian congregation that the Bible "is the one book to which most of us turn when life goes hard with us." Application of Biblical truths can be a force in solving international relationships, he said. He spoke at 16th and Newton sts. nw.

Dr. William L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington City Bible Society, led prayers at the Universal Bible Sunday observance at Luther Rice Memorial Baptist Church, 5315 North Capitol st., Chillum.

The Rev. H. Clayton Waddell, pastor of Luther Rice Church, preached on "One Book in One World," saying:

"If we want to make a world of brotherhood and good will, it can only be realized by following the teachings of the Bible."

Great Hope of World

Speaking at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., the Rev. Carl Heath Kopf said:

"The one great hope of our world is that it first shall be planned on the Bible. This is the book which has in it the one word of life . . ."

Stressing that the Bible has never gone out of date, Mr. Kopf said Voltaire, French philosopher, once predicted that the Bible would be extinct 50 years after his death, while today Voltaire's former home houses the headquarters of the French Bible Society.

Lewis-AFL Break Scoops Journal Of Mine Workers

K. C. Adams, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal and confidante of the union's president, John L. Lewis, has often been told how difficult his unpredictable boss is for working newspapermen. Yesterday, somewhat red-faced, he knew.

For now Adams has been scooped, too. His Journal, which comes out every two weeks, appeared yesterday. It is dated December 15—today. But nowhere in it will be found any mention of Lewis' unexpected action last Friday taking the mine workers out of the American Federation of Labor.

Rogge Charges 811 Unjustly Fired For Disloyalty

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—O. John Rogge, former Assistant United States Attorney General, said today that 811 Federal employes have been "dismissed without just cause" under the Federal loyalty check program.

Rogge made the statement in a speech at a rally for "civil rights and academic freedom," sponsored by the CIO Teachers Union. He did not say where he obtained his information.

Rogge declared the Nation was "one step away from fascism," and that "the whole loyalty order business is monkey business."

Matter Of Fact

The Difficult Partnership—I

LONDON, DEC. 14.—The empty and embittered Council of Foreign Ministers has produced at least one fortunate by-product—an opportunity for Secretary Marshall and Foreign Minister Bevin to know one another a little better. Until now, the Anglo-American postwar relationship has suffered from a silly inner contradiction. Those extremely practical and unsentimental men, the military staffs of the two nations have long ago established the closest strategic partnership between America and Britain. But there has been no such intimate collaboration in the political and economic fields.

In fact, the last year has been marked by petty but mounting irritation, and baseless but increasing suspicion between the makers of American and British policy. Men who make policy are, fortunately, or unfortunately, only too human, and when men deal with each other at a distance, irritation and suspicion always arise.

A GOOD EXAMPLE of the kind of thing that has made needless trouble, is former Undersecretary of State Will Clayton's visit to London last spring. He came after the announcement of the Marshall Plan, but before the Paris Conference of 16 nations. Naturally, he received a warm welcome. Naturally, also, he found the British anxious to explain the peculiarities of their position, as a nation which is at once part of Europe, the banking house of the sterling area, and the political and economic center of a huge non-European Commonwealth. If these difficulties had been understood by the Americans in Paris most of the friction with the British at the Paris conference could have been eliminated.

Instead, Clayton simply because he had been badly briefed, actually made matters much worse. He brushed aside the problems which were troubling the sleep of every sensible member of the cabinet. He said that in American eyes, Britain was just one European nation among many. And he added contemplatively that, really, the place where the Marshall Plan seemed likely to do the most good was Italy. The British leaders have been made over-sensitive by their difficulties. They were filled with bitterness, considering, as one of them put it, that "they had been told to take their places in the queue with the other debtors."

This kind of misunderstanding arises directly, of course, from the breakdown of the habit of constant mutual consultation. Inaugurated by Winston Churchill and Franklin Roosevelt long before Pearl Harbor, and this has had infinitely worse results than the many little episodes, on both sides, like the one described above.

Sometimes serious consequences have been avoided by sheer good fortune. The British had no advance knowledge of Secretary Marshall's Harvard speech, for example, so that Bevin's quick and intensely valuable response to the announcement of the Marshall Plan was a remarkable technical feat of diplomacy. Again the British were unwarned of Marshall's so-called "Little Assembly" plan for the United Nations. The British delegate to Lake Success, Hector McNeil, had to telegraph frantically to London for instructions. Bevin and his staff had to consider the problem through the night, and, in very bad tempers, send a telegram in the dawn. Under the circumstances, it is extremely surprising that the telegram instructed McNeil to maintain the Anglo-American front.

Nor has misfortune always been avoided in this agile manner. The Middle East is quite as important to this country as to Britain, yet the American delegate at Lake Success, Herschel Johnson, recently did much to undermine the British position in the Sudan—which is vital to their position in the Middle East—by some rather casual remarks on the Anglo-Egyptian dispute.

AGAIN, IT IS ESSENTIAL to both nations to sustain Iran against Soviet pressure, yet not long ago the Kremlin was offered the agreeable spectacle of the British Ambassador at Tehran urging the Iranians to adopt one course, while his American colleague pleaded for the contrary policy.

Finally, there is the tragic Palestine story. This reporter happens to believe heartily in the objective pursued in Palestine by the American Government. But one fact should now be obvious to every one. By pursuing our Palestine objectives alone; by rejecting all responsibility in Palestine; by thus preventing any agreement with the British, we have created an appallingly dangerous situation. If we had offered to share the responsibility with them, we might have brought the British round, in most respects, to acceptance of our views. As it is we are now quite likely to be forced, later on, into the riskiest kind of Middle Eastern intervention in order to keep the Russians out.

This sort of dealing at arm's length with the British is as unrealistic as it is dangerous. Whether we like it or not, the British are emphatically not just one among many European nations. They are the other great power of the non-Soviet world, and in this role, they are carrying a burden almost beyond their strength.

We need the British just as much as the British need us. Under the circumstances, we can thank our stars that Ambassador Lewis Douglas has already done much to smooth out the troubles of the past; and that these weeks in which Marshall and Bevin have worked together, day after day, shoulder to shoulder, have about completed the job.

Lutherans Dedicate New School

Appreciation for freedom of religion was expressed yesterday as the $100,000 Trinity Lutheran Parish (secular) School was dedicated in Hyattsville, Md.

"We have the right and privilege of training our children in whatever religion we wish to teach," said Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Missouri Synod, a branch of Lutheranism that covers States.

Speaking in the school building at 3705 Legation st., maintained by Trinity Luthern Church, Mount Rainier, Dr. Behnken insisted the Lutheran secular schools are not organized in opposition to the public schools.

"Our people are urged to be honest in payment of their taxes and also in support of the public schools," he stated. "Our schools were established and maintained because we wanted something for our children which cannot be found in public schools—the teaching of religion."

Also participating in the dedication were Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) and the Rev. Edwin E. Pipelow, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church. The school, which Mr. Pipelow started in 1938 with classes in his church and Sunday School, has its own print and workshops. There are now 80 children enrolled from the first to the eighth grades, with accommodations for 150.

Ager Road Church Consecrates Unit

Meanwhile, another Prince Georges County congregation observed a historic event yesterday afternoon—the consecration of the educational unit of Ager Road Methodist Church, Ager rd. and Roanoke st., Green Meadows, a Hyattsville suburb.

Dr. Fred C. Reynolds, superintendent of the Washington Methodist District, and former Army chaplain, addressed the consecration, at which the Rev. Charles I. Wallace, pastor, presided. According to Methodist custom, the building will be dedicated when debt-free.

Miss Jane Malone last night gave a recital on the new Mohler organ, which was dedicated as a part of the consecration exercises.

U. S. General Denies Argentine Commitments

Panama City, Dec. 14 (U.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, supreme United States commander in the Caribbean area, declared on his return from Argentina that he made "no commitments of any kind about military equipment" during his stay in that country. Crittenberger contradicted rumors that he had made an agreement with Argentine authorities for supplies of United States arms to modernize the South American nation's army.

Dumbarton Church Marks 175th Year

Dumbarton Avenue Methodist Church, a white church which once sponsored a Negro congregation within its walls, yesterday marked its 175th anniversary.

Dr. Fred C. Reynolds, superintendent of the Washington East Methodist District and former Army chaplain, spoke at the anniversary services at 3130 O st. nw., Georgetown. The Rev. C. C. Day, pastor, presided.

Mother of Methodism in the District, Dumbarton Avenue Church—from its beginnings in colonial times until 1855—permitted members of the budding Mount Zion (Negro) Methodist Church to use their church balcony for services. Mount Zion Church is now at 1334 29th st. nw.

Members of Dumbarton Avenue Church continued to support the Mount Zion Church even after the Negro congregation got its own location. Even the assistant pastor of the Dumbarton Avenue Church served as minister of the Negro congregation. About 1885, Mount Zion Church became entirely independent.

In his anniversary remarks, Pastor Day pointed out that Dumbarton Avenue Church had had its "ups and downs" in 175 years. In 1829, there was a split in Methodism. Some members left Dumbarton Avenue Church to form what subsequently became Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church. Dumbarton Avenue Church has occupied its present site since 1849.

Dr. Reynolds, in his sermon, deplored the fact that the world has not kept pace, spiritually, with the world's material and physical development.

Dr. Ralph Dela Smith, superintendent of the Washington West Methodist District, addressed last night's service, following a recital by the choir, under Mrs. Clara Young Brown's direction, and by Organist Blanche Boyce Meyers.

Troops Called to Quell Rioting in Tehran

Tehran, Iran, Dec. 14 (U.P.).—Troops with machine guns were called to restore order today, as mobs seized possession of newspapers, clubs and office buildings owned by Former Premier Ahmad Qavam's Democratic Party.

The riots followed the stabbing last night of two deputies who were close friends of Qavam. His cabinet resigned 10 days ago, and he followed suit after the Majlis (Parliament) had voted a lack of confidence.

Republicans to Meet

10,000 Chinese Reds in Surprise Foray Descend on Capital of Honan Province

Nanking, Dec. 14 (AP).—A lightning thrust by Communist Gen. Chen Keng is critically theatening the Honan provincial capital of Kaifeng in an effort to relieve pressure on his comrade, Gen. Liu Po-cheng some 175 miles to the south, pro-government field dispatches acknowledged today.

The accounts reaching this Chinese capital said Chen's forces, appearing out of the blue, were 10,000 strong only 10 miles south of Kaifeng, and were within a few miles in other unspecified directions.

Rail traffic to Chengchsien, 45 miles to the west, was suspended as government generals raced to Kaifeng in armored cars to plot a hasty defense.

Communist scouting parties and small government units were reported already fighting near the city. Kaifeng was put under martial law with a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

Government military sources in Nanking said Chen's intention obviously was to take the heat off Liu, the one-eyed raider whose army, variously estimated at 40,000 to 100,000, has been reported loosely surrounded in the rugged south Honan border area.

Chinese Reds Reported Ready for 2-Year War

Shanghai, Dec. 14 (AP).—Two Americans back from long stays in Chinese Communist territory in Shantung and Hopeh provinces said today the Communists were prepared militarily and economically to fight the civil war "at least two more years, and in all likelihood, longer."

One of the Americans traveled through Communist areas for nearly a year on relief work. Aside from this clue, both insisted on anonymity.

They said Communist soldiers and peasants alike recognized that a long struggle lay ahead, but had high morale.

The observed no Russian weapons or equipment, they said, but saw Communists with Japanese and American arms, including captured bazookas.

ARLINGTON—Fm. Pg. 1

saying the matter was now "squarely up to the courts."

Ball, Medley and Campbell, who are serving without compensation, will be opposed by two Richmond attorneys on January 12, when Judge Walter T. McCarthy will be asked to rule on the case in Arlington Circuit Court. The Richmond attorneys are George E. Allen, said to be an authority on election laws, and Ralph T. Catterall, who has a reputation as a constitutional attorney.

Harry W. Porter, a member of the five-man incumbent board, which filed Saturday's suit, said yesterday that the board's stand on the matter would necessitate its remaining in office until the issue had been decided by the courts. The suit challenges the election on the ground that the enabling legislation provided for conducting an election in one locality but not in any other, and that such legislation constituted "local, special or private law . . . for conducting elections or designating places of voting."

"We have not yet reached a definite decision," Porter said, "but it is my thought that our School Board will instruct the School Superintendent not to turn over the School Department books to the new school board pending outcome of the suit."

Porter pointed out that some of the bonds authorized in the special election probably are to be issued in the near future.

"If the bonds proposed to be issued bear the names of the new school board members and it is later found that they took office by unconstitutional means, you can readily appreciate how good those bonds would be," he said.

Last night, Mrs. Art Brown, immediate past president of the Arlington County Council of Parent-Teachers Associations, said she was writing each of the incumbent board members, urging them to withdraw their suit.

"Every action of either board, the old one or the newly elected one, may be subject to question as to its legality while this suit is pending," she said . . . "I question whether teachers and janitors can be legally paid, whether needed fuel can be bought and whether necessary expenses can be met after January 1 while the old board continues its suit to keep the newly elected board from taking office."

"Only by withdrawal" of the suit, she concluded," can the present members convince their friends and neighbors that they actually have at heart the best interests of the schools of the county."

Fear that the suit may invalidate the County Manager Act by which Arlington has been governed since 1931 has been expressed by Harley M. Williams, chairman of the Arlington Better Government League, and by Harrison Mann, a delegate to the Arlington Civic Federation.

3 D. C. Institutions Receive $40,000 for Cancer Research

Two Washington universities and the Carnegie Institution of Washington have been awarded grants totaling about $40,000 for continuing cancer research, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service.

George Washington University received three awards for $22,788. Georgetown University Medical School received $10,000, and the Carnegie Institute, $7060.

Largest grant to George Washington University was $17,388 to Dr. Pearl B. Holly, associate in medicine, for "study of hemoglobin metabolism in blood dyscrasias and related malignancies under therapy with radioactive materials."

Dr. Lawrence Jay Thomas, associate in medicine at G. W. U., was awarded $3240 to continue his work on the relationship between "liver glycogen reserve and liver function to hepatic and gastrointestinal neoplasm."

Dr. Chester E. Leese, G. W. associate professor of physiology, was granted $2160 for his experiments on the effect of urethane and urethane derivatives of the hemogram of normal rats.

Dr. Charles F. Geschickter, director and professor of pathology at Georgetown University Medical School, was awarded $10,000.

Dr. Louis B. Flexner of the Carnegie Institution was given $7060

President Truman has called on the Nation to observe this 156th anniversary of the effective date of the Bill of Rights. Americans will remember that these first ten amendments were added to the Constitution ONLY AFTER POPULAR DEMAND ASSERTED ITSELF.

Many people in high places opposed the Bill of Rights then, and unfortunately, many in high places today give LIP SERVICE to the principles of Freedom but VIOLATE THEM IN DEED. Thus it has become necessary for popular demand to assert itself again, this time for the PRESERVATION AND ENFORCEMENT of the liberties and freedoms guaranteed the people in the Bill of Rights.

We submit that Attorney General Clark has committed a grave injury to the people's basic freedoms of speech, assembly and thought, in the recent publication of his list of "subversive" organizations, in two main respects:

First: the failure to present any charges against the accused or to make any provisions for them to offer evidence in their own defense, denying the most elementary justice.

Second: the listing of an organization of such a democratic and progressive character as The Washington Cooperative Bookshop.

Mr. Clark says we are "subversive." He does not explain. Let us ask: Are we subversive because we welcome the membership of both Negro and white citizens and plan all our work on a basis of equal participation and equal enjoyment of benefits?

Perhaps the company we keep displeases him? Our list of speakers has included some famous "subversives" like Eleanor Roosevelt, Joseph E. Davies, W. E. B. DuBois, Senator James Murray, Louis Quintanilla, Genevieve Tabouis, Rockwell Kent, W. H. Auden, Sherwood Anderson, Erskine Caldwell and Carey McWilliams. We believe the loyalty investigation program is aimed—and some of its Congressional supporters have openly avowed this—at uprooting the social progress accomplished during the late President Roosevelt's four administrations. We acknowledge that, from the standpoint of the opponents of social progress, we have indeed sponsored some "doubtful" speakers.

Perhaps the Washington Cooperative Bookshop made the mistake of taking too seriously, the President's appeal to hold down prices? The Bookshop sells all popular books, art prints, toys and jewelry, to our members at prices much lower than those of big retail stores. This important saving to the public is made possible by our existence as a non-profit, cooperative enterprise.

We want to state unequivocally that The Washington Cooperative Bookshop is NOT A SUBVERSIVE ORGANIZATION, that it is a membership-owned and governed cooperative, engaged in selling books, records and art; sponsoring public lectures and forums, and open to ALL regardless of RACE, CREED, COLOR OR POLITICAL OR RELIGIOUS BELIEF. We pledge to redouble our efforts in contributing to the cultural life of the Washington community by presenting the best thinking and work in the sphere of art, science and literature.

"AN INJURY TO ONE IS AN INJURY TO ALL"

We have engaged this space for this reason: It is our belief that wherever the liberty of one is threatened, the liberty of all is threatened. Therefore it becomes our duty to make the facts known to YOU, the people of the District of Columbia, and to call upon YOU to come to our mutual defense.

DEFEND THE BILL OF RIGHTS

- On this 156th anniversary of the Bill of Rights YOU can best honor this sacred document of democracy by coming to its active defense and writing your opinions to Attorney General Tom Clark.

Western Union Strike of 50,000 Predicted Before Christmas; 800 Would Walk Out Here

A Nation-wide strike of some 50,000 AFL employes of Western Union "probably" will be called before Christmas.

This prediction was made yesterday by Adolph Brungs, national president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union's Western Union Division, as he went into a closed "strategy" session of top union officials at the Annapolis Hotel.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported from New York that representatives of CIO Communications Workers voted to call out employes of three major cable firms at 12:01 a. m. New Year's Day if 1948 contracts satisfactory to the union are not negotiated by December 31, a union spokesman said.

A union spokesman said 2500 employes of Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co., the Commercial Cables Co. and the cables division of the Western Union Telegraph Co.—all members of the American Communications Association—would be affected by the action.

The ACA is demanding in the 1948 contract a 30 per cent across-the board wage increase, a four-year instead of 10-year wage progression from minimum to maximum rate and certain pension guarantees.

Brungs said some 25 delegates to the "emergency" conference would set a strike date, which would not be announced before today.

He pinned little hope on a parley of management and union officials, called for tomorrow in Philadelphia by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in an effort to avert the threatened country-wide walkout.

Union at End of Rope

"We feel we've exhausted every possible means of reaching a settlement," Brungs declared. "The company has had plenty of time to make us an offer."

He acknowledged that union leaders summoned to the Washington conference, to be continued today, will be charged with laying full plans for "carrying out the strike, if and when it's called."

Strike headquarters, he said, will be established in Washington.

Workers are seeking a 15-cents hourly wage boost, supplementing a 5-cent increase they won last spring. Union officials say their members receive an average of 96.7 cents an hour.

D. C. Workers 2-1 for Strike

Washington employes, said to number more than 800, have already voted more than 2 to 1 in favor of a work stoppage, union officials said.

In addition to the Western Union division of CTU, two other unions would be involved in a walkout, the Telegraph Employes Union and the Telegraph Workers' Union, both AFL affiliates.

Leader of French Strike Predicts 'Harder Battle'

Marseille, France, Dec. 14 (UP).—Communist deputy, Jean Cristofol today urged party members who participated in last week's unsuccessful strike to prepare for an "even harder fight."

Cristofol, speaking at a Communist meeting, termed the end of the strikes a "strategic withdrawal" by the party. He urged Communists to "remain more united than ever to be ready for a harder battle which will take place in the future, perhaps near."

Cristofol has been charged with being the leader of disorders here last month.

Following his speech, Francois Billoux, former Communist minister, called for a redoubling of Communist propaganda efforts and charged the French government was "in the pay of America."

arrival. Yesterday he wore them to the party.

To President Truman they brought gifts: A packet of soil from the American military cemetery in the Ardennes, an ash tray modeled and painted by childish hands, a pair of silver cuff links from Amsterdam, a book of drawings from the war orphans of Brussels. The President, however, was unable to see them during the day.

The children were brought by plane to the United States Tuesday by Jack Smith, Columbia Broadcasting System singing star, for an eight-day visit. The visit launched a campaign by Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc.'s for $1,500,000 for the "adoption" of 75,000 more children. The organization has already taken care of 50,000 children on the basis of contributions of $180 for the year's care of a child.

The five typical little representatives include:

Sheila Shepherd, 12, of Englnd, who survived an air raid that killed her parents and brother. She has been adopted by a group of Chicago citizens.

Johanna Hendrika Leijdekkers, 6, of the Netherlands, whose father and other relatives were killed in the bombardment of a town and whose mother disappeared as the result of shock. She has been adopted by Jack Smith.

Glenise Joan Milward, 11, of England, whose father was killed in service and mother died of privation and shock. She has been adopted by Ginny Simms, radio star.

Giuseppe Di Lillo, 12, of Italy, who lost his right leg and family at Cassino. He has been adopted by radio star Minerva Pious.

Clement De Sutter, 10, of Belgium, whose father was shot by the Gestapo and mother disappeared. He has been adopted by Mary Pickford.

The children return to Europe next Thursday.

3 Fairlington Strikers Held In Assault on Trio of Workers

Fairfax County police said yesterday they had arrested three striking employes of the Fairlington housing development in nearby Virginia and charged them with assault on nonstrikers.

The men were identified as Edward M. Putman, 24 of 635 N. West st., Arlington; Wilson Robinson, 48, of 3345 King st., Alexandria, and Wilbert L. Roberson, 33 of 940 P st. nw.

Lieut. Henry Magarity, chief of the Fairfax Detective Bureau, said the three were released under $1000 bond each for appearance Friday in Fairfax Court. He said the trio attacked three nonstrikers Saturday afternoon on Duke Street Extended, in Fairfax, as the nonstrikers were preparing to go to work.

One of the nonstrikers, Magarity said, was taken to Alexandria Hospital for treatment. He was identified as John O. Davis. Others who swore out warrants against the strikers, Magarity said, were Charles Henry Ball and Bryant Tyree.

Both union and management officials said they had only sketchy information about the incidents.

Radio Venture Into Controversial Matters Finds Speakers Shy on Racial Problems

Radio newscasting took an exploratory slant here yesterday—tackling local matters of a controversial nature—and ran into reticence.

"Racial Relations—a Preliminary Report," a WTOP program departing from radio's ordinary confines, hit the air at 12:30 p. m. to bring residents the spoken opinions—and refusals to comment — of Washington officials asked to discuss the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights.

Narrator was Henry Mustin, station specialist in District affairs, who filled in the stops and sparked the comments of local authorities in recorded answers to criticisms directed at their organizations by the President's committee.

Pertinent parts of the report condemning racial segregation here were dubbed in by radio's dramatic expedient, The Voice.

School Segregation

Concerning the report's condemnation of segregation in Washington schools, Mustin declared with alarming radio frankness:

"We asked the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Hobart M. Corning. But he told us it's a matter of policy—something for the Board of Education to deal with. That would make the president of the board next. But she was out of town. So we talked about the report with the acting president, Dr. Robert Maurer.

"As was the case with everybody else, he agreed to talk only as an individual—not in any official capacity."

Dr. Maurer's voice then gave a statistical history of acts of Congress creating a dual educational set-up here, and in answer to the direct question of whether he believed segregation should be abolished, passed it off as "up to Congress to decide."

Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University, was contrastingly frank, advocating admission of Negro students to our colleges on an equal basis with white students.

Silence Recommended

Concerning segregation in housing, Mustin advised his radio audience many had told him the best thing was not to talk about racial questions.

"People like the president of the Real Estate Board, F. Moran McConihe, and the head of the National Capital Housing Authority, John Ihlder. They refused to join in this program," declared the narrator.

Clifford H. Newell, former president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, however, discussed his views favoring segregation by racial covenant.

The program ran the further gamut of practices condemned here by the President's Committee report, on health and medical facilities, employment, recreation and public accommodations.

Other Nonparticipants

Among others who turned down the station's offer to comment, Mustin told his listeners, were Dr. Raymond Holden, president of the District Medical Society, and Dr. George C. Ruhland, District director of public health, "who agreed to do whatever his superior, Commissioner Guy Mason, recommended."

"Mason's advice was, and I quote again," said Mustin, "I strongly advise against any comment—it might lead to complications."

Still others who wouldn't talk, said Mustin, were Julian Brylawski, president of the Theater Owners and Managers Association, and Robert Wilson, secretary of the Washington Restaurant Association.

Martin Discards New 303 Plans To Continue 202

Baltimore, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Glenn L. Martin Co. has discarded production plans for its 303 pressurized twin airliner, in favor of carrying on with its 202 ship, in production several months.

The company told stockholders it suffered a 36 million dollar loss in 1947, which will be largely offset by carry-back credits against Federal taxes already paid.

Martin expects a tax refund of bout $15,500,000 next June, and plan court action involving another five million dollars.

Martin has a 100 million dollars backlog of orders.

U. S. Shortage Of Electric Power Feared

Administrator Claude R. Wickard of the Rural Electrification Administration said yesterday the Nation faces a serious shortage of electrical power and declared private power concerns are failing to do enough about it.

The shortage is particularly critical for rural areas, he said, because of their dependence upon overloaded urban generating units.

The administrator said unless something is done to increase the country's power generating capacity, farmers' ability to produce food for urgent domestic and foreign needs may be seriously hampered.

Wickard hit at what he described as the "traditional lack of foresight which power company leaders have displayed in their estimate of the potentialities of rural electrification."

He said that with power shortages appearing in every section of the country, Charles E. Oakes, president of the Edison Electric Institute, has said that "rumors" of an impending widespread shortage of electrical power were "unwarranted and untrue."

The REA chief's statement was based on an investigation of electrical supplies made by REA engineers and power specialists. They said the utilities' expansion program needs scrutiny. The amount of new generating capacity scheduled is large, but orders for new capacity are scarcely meeting the increase in demand, they declared.

The investigation was confined to Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming. The REA engineers reported that in some of these and in some other States, power companies are considering rationing in some areas arranging with large industrial consumers to curtail loads during peak hours.

Government to Sell Martinsburg Buildings

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 14 (Spl.).—Seven "cantonment type" frame buildings, one story high, originally used at a CCC camp west of this city, but for some time used at the Newton D. Baker veterans' registration center, have been listed for sale. Bids will be opened December 22 at the center.

The seven buildings, whose parts are bolted together and easily removable total about 60,000 square feet of office space. The call for bids specifies the buyer must remove all the parts and debris.

Dr. Zehmer to Talk

Manassas, Va., Dec. 14 (Spl.).—Dr. George B. Zehmer, president of the State Cooperative Education Association will address the Manassas Parent-Teacher Association at 8 p. m., Wednesday at Osbourn High School. Seed Request For Giant Bean Swamp Wingard

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—Requests for seeds of the amazing Wingard Wonder bean plants have swamped the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station scientist who developed this outsized product.

Dr. Samuel A. Wingard, head of the plant pathology section, however, said he believed he would be able to handle orders in March, in time for the next planting.

Wingard began development of the bean during the war, and the Wingard Wonder, which in some cases has attained a height of 30 feet, has since been tested in 31 States and several foreign countries.

The pole bean has pods that often grow to more than a foot in length. It was developed from a New England bean known as the Brockton Pole and another variety called the Kentucky Wonder. Wingard describes it as rust-resistant, vigorous, highly prolific and sweet in flavor.

Hagerstown Factory To Build Army Planes

Hagerstown, Md., Decs. 14 (AP).—Production of 37 troop and cargo airplanes at a cost of 22 million dollars for the Army Air Forces will be started next summer at the Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp. here, Vice President Richard S. Boutelle announced.

Boutelle said the ships would be improved versions of the Fairchild C-82 packet now used by the Army. The two-motor C-119 will have a take-off rating of 3250 horsepower and will be designed to carry a cargo load of 9 tons for a range of 2000 miles. It will be capable of accommodating 42 fully equipped combat troops and 20 parachute cans of supplies.

Prince William Clinics

Manassas, Va., Dec. 14 (Spl.).—The Prince William County health office has announced clinics for the week as follows: Wednesday, a chest X-ray clinic, 7 to 9 p. m., Manassas Health Office; Thursday, 2 p. m., maternal and child health clinic for colored patients. The regular maternal and child health clinic for white patients will be held at 2 p. m. December 31.

5 Million Being Spent To Double Va. Phones

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—Nearly three million dollars has been spent in the last two years in a program aimed at doubling the number of rural telephones in the State by 1950, according to a statement made here.

In a report released through the Virginia Agricultural Extension Service, Commercial Supervisor K. F. Matthews of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia said the company had appropriated more than $5,300,000 for the program, which is to include construction of 21 new central offices in inadequately served areas.

To Lick Inflation

EVERYBODY IN AMERICA wants to halt the inflationary pressures that have been driving prices up. At the same time, we all want to maintain the standard of living of the American people, and provide the necessary amount of aid to foreign nations.

To accomplish all three of these high purposes, the following 12-point program is offered by the National Association of Manufacturers—in the public interest.

1. Reduce government spending by maximum efficiency in administration; eliminating excessive government personnel and activities; and postponing all government expenditures not immediately necessary.

2. Provide funds for further capital investment by making an immediate and substantial reduction of individual income tax rates.

3. Adopt a systematic plan for paying off the public debt, with provision for a minimum annual debt retirement of $2½ billion.

4. Offer, and vigorously promote, a new long-term government bond issue having an interest-bearing rate attractive to individual investors; the proceeds to be used to retire government bonds held by banks.

5. Discourage inflationary expansion of bank credit by permitting interest rates to seek their own levels free of government domination.

6. Redoubling, by management, of its efforts to increase production, to lower unit costs, and to pass on the benefits of such increased productivity to the public.

7. Encourage management to plow back earnings and increase output, by eliminating present U.S. Treasury pressure on business to distribute at least 70 per cent of its profits as dividends.

8. Encourage labor leaders to forego demands for further general increases in wages without a corresponding increase in productivity, except in cases of gross inequity.

9. Set aside all restrictions on individual productivity not essential to the safety and health of employees, and remove all featherbedding rules.

10. Give emergency foreign relief in goods, not in dollars, with an American relief agency making the necessary purchases of whatever goods in whatever markets, here or abroad, prove most economical, and identify them as having been provided by the United States.

11. Finance, to the greatest extent feasible, reconstruction loans to foreign countries, as distinct from gifts and grants, through the World Bank and private sources rather than out of taxes collected from the American public.

12. Provide maximum incentive for increased production abroad by requiring foreign nations, as a condition of our aid, to establish sound currencies and to modify and eventually eliminate price control and other controls over the internal production and distribution of commodities.

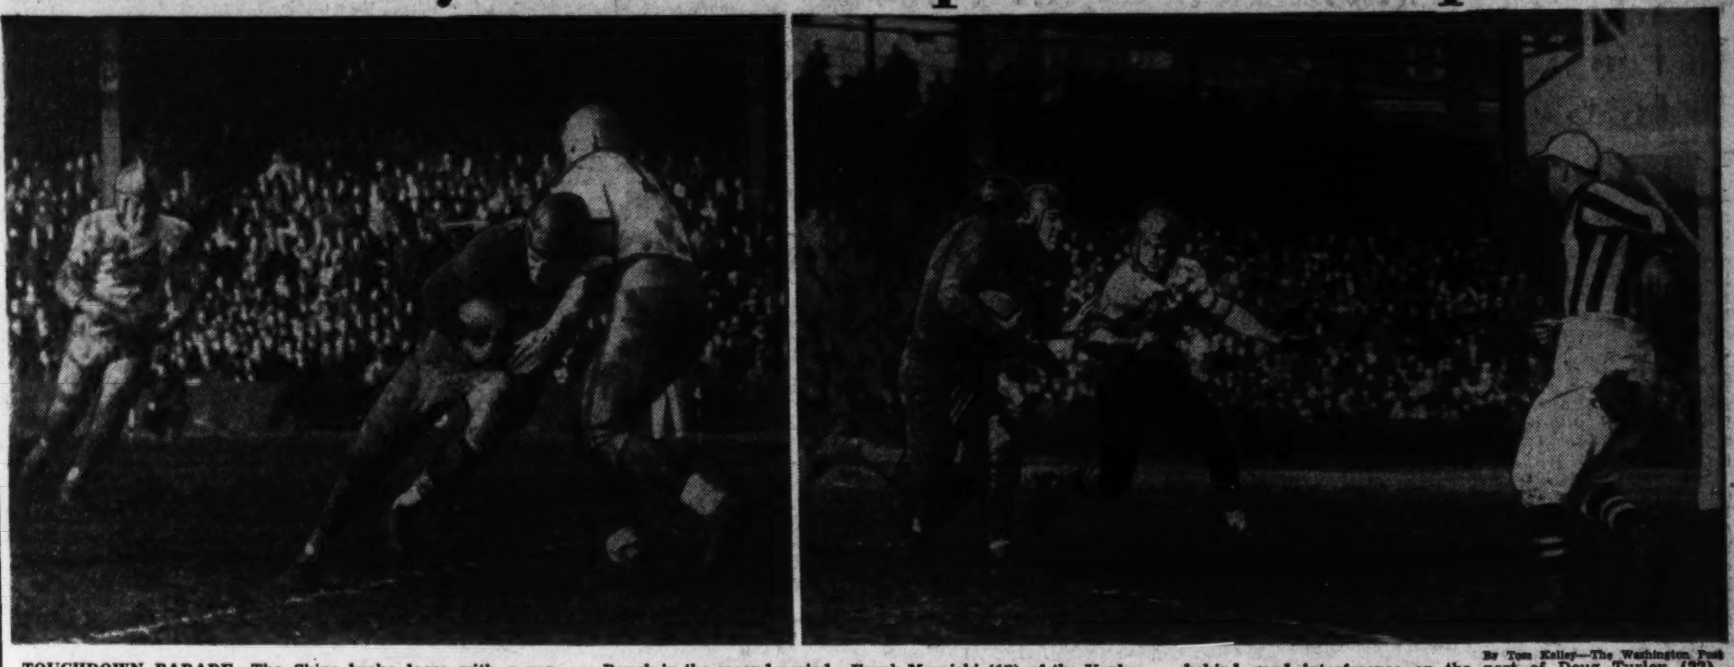
Cleveland Wins All-America Title, 14 to 3; Skins Play Like Champs, Too, Romp 40-13



By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

TOUCHDOWN PARADE—The Skins broke loose with a vengeance yesterday, in the last game of the season, swamping the Boston Yanks, 40-13, at Griffith Stadium. At the left, Dick Poillon crashes over for a score after taking a toss from Sammy Baugh in the second period. Frank Maznicki (17) of the Yanks, was in his way on the goal line, but Poillon just bowled him over. In the other picture, Redskin Fullback Jim Castiglia (26) is on his way to a 30-yard second quarter touchdown run behind good interference on the part of Doug Turley (22). Maznicki of the Yanks, is about to be rubbed out by big Doug to give Castiglia a clear path to the goal

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

GRIFFITH STADIUM, Dec. 14.—On a field that provides enough mud for the next eight political campaigns, the Boston Yankees elect to receive the kick-off by the Redskins. The Yankees are owned by Ted Collins, manager of Kate Smith . . . The Redskins are owned by George Marshall manager-at-large.

POVICH

The Yankees, after collecting more mud than yardage in three rushes, are forced to punt, and the same goes for the Redskins. Right now, you can't tell the players even with a score card.

6-0, Yankees. They just got a gift touchdown. Sal Rosato fumbled going into the line and Frank Maznicki found the ball pleading for ownership on the scrimmage line. Without insisting it be wrapped as a gift package, he picked it up and raced 50 yards for a touchdown.

Maznicki not only missed the kick for the point after touchdown—he almost missed the ball. He slipped as he kicked and almost came up empty handed, barely booting the ball into the line of scrimmage.

BAUGH COMPLETES a pass to Micka, and it would have been a nice play back in 1945, when Micka was with the Redskins, but with Micka now in the hire of the Yankees it was an interception. But defensive holding restored the ball to the Redskins.

Jim Castiglia gets into the act on two laterals from Baugh that takes the ball to the Yankees' 21, and the Redskins are on the move. They're practicing deceit, though, because Castiglia isn't supposed to go outside the tackles.

TOUCHDOWN, Redskins. Castiglia takes it over through center, where he belongs, and Poillon's kick is low and the game is tied, 6-6, and the next sound you hear will be that of the first-quarter gun.

Baugh, unable to get a pass away, takese the alternative, and scoots 19 yards through the left side of the Yanks' line. Obviously, the Yanks haven't been coached to stop Baugh's running game.

13-6, REDSKINS. Dick Poillon took an 11-yard pass from Baugh on the 5-yard line, where he also collected Manzicki, and bulled over the rest of the way.

20-6, Redskins. Castiglia takes the ball through right tackle with the goal line 30 yards away and never stops, shaking off three tacklers. In fact, he practically ignored 'em.

The Redskins miss another touchdown when Baugh fades back to pass from the Boston 4-yard line, fumbles, and recovers for a 14-yard loss. It could be called the Yankees' second biggest gain of the game, and they didn't even have the ball.

SANTA CLAUS was supposed to land by parachute jump from a helicopter between the halves, but it was incomplete. He misjudged the wind and landed on a nearby rooftop. But the Redskins are deep in Santa Clauses today. A substitute Santa tooled onto the field in a horse-drawn sleigh.

26-6, Redskins. Poillon goes over from the 1-foot line for the touchdown, after Turley made a one-hnd catch of a 17-yard pass by Baugh. The Redskins now have more touchdowns than the Yankees have first downs, which is great strategy.

26-13, Redskins. The Yankees change passers with great success. Maley replaces Dancewicz and in two plays pitches 40 yards to Chipley and Currivan. On the last heave Currivan was in the end zone waiting for the ball with time enough to make out his Christmas list.

33-13, REDSKINS. Baugh's 34 yards to Nussbaumer takes the ball to the Yankees' 6 and Turley takes his next throw for a touchdwon. It was Baugh's twenty-fourth touchdown pass of the season.

Joe Golding of the Yankees takes the next kickoff 73 yards to the Redskins' 27, but the Redskins lodge a claim of foul and are upheld. The ball goes back to the Boston 15, on a holding penalty.

40-13, Redskins. You guessed it. Baugh just threw another touchdown pass, distributing his favors in the true Christmas spirit. This time he laid it up for Terreshinski in the end zone.

The Yankees are in possession of the ball again, but they have to dig up four touchdowns right quickly to get back in the ball game. In fact, with only 10 seconds to play, we don't like their chances.

Harmon Plans To Retire Again

Los Angeles, Dec. 14 (AP).—Tommy Harmon announced today that he very likely has ended his gridiron career.

The two-time All-America halfback from Michigan and for two years a dangerous running threat with the Los Angeles Rams, reiterated a previously announced decision to retire today following the Rams' 34-10 triumph over the New York Giants.

Harmon said he planned to go into radio. Head Coach Bob Snyder, however, privately thinks that Harmon may change his mind when football time comes around next fall.

On Rassle Show

Sheik Abed, the popular Egyptian wrestler, and Ken Ackler, the California titleholder, have been matched for a 30-minute special on Wednesday night's show at Turner's Arena in which Primo Carnera, and Tony Galento, the Newark "Two-Ton" will be costarred.

Stribling Faces Lacey Tonight

Boxing makes its last 1947 appearance tonight at Turner's Arena with Ken Stribling, the local middleweight, meeting Frank Lacey of Baltimore.

Regarded an 8-5 favorite, Lacey will be protecting one of the best records ever sported by a Baltimore fighter.

In some 44 bouts Lacey has lost only to one fighter.

His victims include Bee Bee Washington, twice, and Frank Sweeney, both of the District.

Stribling has been beaten only once in 10 bouts this season, to Johnny Walker of Philadelphia three weeks ago at the arena.

Lacey in his only local showing last month won easily from Washington, whom Stribling has also beaten. Stribling also flattened Sweeney in three heats and kayoed Joe Gannon, another local favorite, in one round at the ball park.

Jimmy Cooper, promising new local featherweight and recent kayo conquerer of Puggy King, will battle Lucky Johnson of Philadelphia in a six-rounder.

Johnny Arduini, the erstwhile national amateur champion, will seek his second pro triumph in a five-rounder against Myron Dickerson of Philadelphia.

Other bouts, the first at 8:45, have Johnny Hansbury boxing Melvin Wade in a five; Joe Mosley tackling George Maverick and Jackie Ford taking on Mose Herald in fours.

Kilroy Gives Hunters 'Boid' (With Stuffing)

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 14 (U.P.). Two embarrassed State highway department employes revealed how they really "got the bird" while hunting.

They spotted a ring-neck pheasant perched on a fence. One shot hit its mark and the bird toppled to the ground. The anxious hunters raced to their first catch of the season.

The bird was stuffed and a tag around one of its legs said "Kilroy was here."

Sam Baugh And Poillon Split Honors

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

The Redskins said goodby for 1947 and asked forgiveness for their worst season of all time yesterday at Griffith Stadium by victimizing the Boston Yankees, 40-13, before the season's smallest home crowd—33,226 fans.

Boston's representatives, who had handed the 'Skins one of their eight beatings earlier, were out of their class in the finale. They scored an "accidental" touchdown to start things but then went behind by 26-6, and were never a very serious contender.

In closing the Redskins, despite the fall-off in attendance, built up a new crowd record of 214,868 for six games at home. Largest previous attendance was in 1943 when Washington won the Eastern championship and drew 206,540 at the gate.

'Skins' Fourth Victim

That 13-point total for Boston constituted a Redskin record for 1947. It was the first time Washington's foe had been held to less than three touchdowns as the lads of Marshall Prep dropped to a fourth-place windup in the East.

STATISTICS

Washington		Boston

231	Net yards gained rushing	23
41	Forward passes attempted	23
25	Forward passes completed	7

38	Punting average	35.5
115	Total yards all kicks returned	140
1	Opponents' fumbles recovered	3
125	Yards lost by penalties	30

The victory was Washington's fourth of the season, voiding the locals' chances for the two extra draft choices going to all National Football League teams winning fewer than four games.

Three of the winning tounchdowns, with a slippery ball and on the middiest field of the season, were hurled by Slingin' Sammy Baugh, who added still another mark to his growing string.

His 41 passing attempts was a new high and his 25 completions tied his top performance in that department.

Castiglie Scores Twice

Dick Poillon, Doug Turley and Joe Tereshinski took the Slinger's payoff passes. Completing the host scoring were two jaunts by Jim Castiglia, and another by Poillen who also managed for extra points on the end of four touchdowns, giving him 16 points for the day.

The Yankee who rang up the game's first points was also the prize goat. Only five minutes had elapsed when Frank Maznicki, scooping in a fumble by Sal Rosato at midfield, raced untouched into the end zone and then missed the extra point.

Washington roared back to tie it up with a 67-yard drive along the ground with first Rosato and then Castiglia romping in a series of six first downs to the Boston 3. It was 32-year-old Jim who finally plowed over.

Poillon Bulls Over

Immediately after the kickoff Boley Dancewicz helped in the Redskin cause by fumbling on his own 36, and again the Tribe rolled to a score.

At the end was Baugh's 16-yard toss to Poillon, who met Maznicki head-on at the 6 and went over by the simple method of shoving the Yankee defender in front of him inch by inch.

It was 13-6 favoring the Tribe the next time it got the ball and in two plays the count was 20-6. Eddie Saenz went seven yards to the Boston 4, but a 25-yard pass play, Baugh to Castiglia, was called back to the Boston 30 for Redskin clipping.

Castiglia's routine smash at the center of the line developed into a 30-yard touchdown as he spurted free of a pileup. The last man with a chance to stop him, Maznicki, saw the scrambling former Georgetown fullback break away from his clutching hands.

It wasn't until far into the third quarter that Boston, which made only 23 yards rushing, was able to get past its own 30. Then it went to the 40, but the count was already 26-6 on Poillon's smash

Cards Defeat Bears, 30-21, for West Crown; Eagles Whip Packers, 25-14, for Tie in East

Christman Hurls 2 Scores for Champs

Chicago, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Chicago Cardinals scored on an 80-yard touchdown play the first time they got the ball to touch off a crushing momentum today which carried them to a 30-21 triumph over the Chicago Bears and to their first Western Division pennant of the National Football League.

The Bears' great quarterback, Sid Luckman, was constantly rushed off his feet by the aggressive Cardinals. Luckman had one of his poorest games of the season as the Redbirds for the first time in pro football history captured their third consecutive triumph over their crosstown rivals.

The victory, before a record football crowd of 48,632 for Wrigley Field, also marked the first time since 1922 the Southsiders beat the Bears twice in a single season, havin trounced them 31-7 in October.

Bidwill Missed Success

The Cardinals nipped the Bears, 35-28, in the final game in Chicago last season with the club's owner, Charlie Bidwill, cheering them on. Bidwill then set out to make a championship outfit for 1947, signing Charlie Trippi for $100,000.

Shortly after building the structure for a strong title contender, Bidwill died after a short illness.

His dreams were realized today. His widow, who has seen the Cards win nine while dropping three games this season, and his two sons, Bill and Charles, jr., yelled themselves hoarse today. Bill was on the sidelines with the club throughout.

The Cardinals will play next Sunday's winner of the Philadelphia Eagles-Pittsburgh Steelers game in Comiskey Park, Chicago, for the national crown Sunday, December 28.

The Eagles tied with the Steelers by beating Green Bay Packers, 28-14, today, thus necessitating a playoff.

The Cardinals ran up a 14-0 margin in the first 15 minutes. They scored on the first play from scrimmage when Paul Christman tossed 30 yards to Boris Dimancheff who streaked the remaining 50.

Later, Center Vince Banonis stole Sid Luckman's aerial and lumbered 41 yards to the Bears' 14. Trippi and Pat Harder made a first down to the 2 and Elmer Angsman rammed over from the 1.

In the last three minutes of the first quarter, Luckman speared Ken Kavanaugh for 35 yards and Ken galloped 46 more for a touchdown.

Wilson Loses, 72-40, To Shepherd College

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Dec. 14 (U.P.).—Shepherd College quintet defeated Wilson College of Washington, D. C., 72-40, here last night.

The home team in its second start of the season, outshot its foe better than five to one in the initial period and piled up a 31-17 advantage at the half. Bob Burns, Wilson, however, was high scorer for the night with four goals and seven fouls for a total of 15 points.

THEY SENT IN A SUBSTITUTE for Santa Claus at yesterday's Redskin-Yankee game when one impersonator of St. Nick attempting to parachute into Griffith Stadium from a helicopter miscalculated the wind and landed on a nearby housetop.

Bobby Ward, New Yorker making the jump complete with whiskers and bay window, was disgusted but unhurt. Meanwhile another Santa, engaged for just such an eventuality, rode into the stadium aboard a red sleigh behind a white horse.

There was no foundation in the press box rumor that the jumping Santa Claus was forced to land elsewhere because he lacked a ticket.

Rams Smear Hapless Giants, 34-10, in Season's Finale

Los Angeles, Dec. 14 (AP).—The Los Angeles Rams closed the National Football League campaign today by smearing the New York Giants, 34 to 10, before 24,050 spectators.

The victory gave the Rams a 50-50 windup of the season, six wins and as many defeats. The Giants, hampered today by illness of several players from food poisoning, notably George Franck, chalked up only two wins for the season.

The New Yorkers got off to a three-point lead in the first three minutes on Len Younce's 22-yard field goal. The Rams tied it soon after, Fred Gehrke booting one from 14 yards. The chance was set up on a 65-yard pass play, Jim Hardy to Jack Banta.

Before the first quarter was over Los Angeles took the lead when Mel Bleeker stole a pass from the hands of George Cheverko and scored on a 35-yard run back.

The Rams were never headed from then on. The Giants Vic Carroll snared a Ram pass, ran it 40 yards to the one and Paul Governali passed to Ray Poole in the end zone for the lone Giant touchdown, giving the Rams a commanding 24-10 lead at halftime.

Bob Waterfield was hurt in the first few minutes, and played sparingly afterward, but came into boot a field goal from the 15 in the third quarter.

Gehrke, taking over Waterfield's conversion duties, had a perfect score and put the Rams into a 17-3 lead with a brilliant 64-yard return of a punt in the second.

The other Ram touchdowns—Pat West, from the one, ending a drive of 69-yards, and Kenny Washington, on a 23-yard run.

Lions Home Tuesday Night

Coach Jack Riley's Washington Lions, fresh from their fourth victory in as many starts against Eddie Shore's Indians in Springfield, Mass., Saturday night, return to Uline Arena tomorrow night to face the high scoring Indianapolis Capitols in an American Hockey League match at 8:30 o'clock.

The Lions turned in two of their finest games of the season in recent appearances. Only a week ago Saturday night they led the powerful Pittsburgh Hornets most of the way before finally succombing in the fading moments, 4-3, then fired three goals within 65 seconds of the third stanza to defeat Springfield.

Leading the invading Capitols will be Cliff Simpson, runnerup only to league leading scorer Ed Prokop of Providence, with 38 points. Prokop has 41.

Indianapolis was hard put to edge out the Lions its last time out here, 3-2, after having rolled up an early 3-0 lead. Washington's last ditch offensive all but overhauled the visitors before time ran out.

D. C. Lads Star In Fruit Bowl

San Francisco, Dec. 14 (AP).—Displaying a speedy passing and running attack, Wilberforce University of Xenia, Ohio, scored a 26 to 0 victory over Prairie View University of Texas in the first annual "Fruit Bowl" football game here today.

A crowd estimated at 9000 fans saw the first all-Negro gridiron contest ever played here.

The Wilberforce squad, behind brilliant running and pass catching by Left Halfback Walt Sellers of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Carl Baylor of Washington, D. C., put over touchdowns in the first and second periods and two more in the fourth quarter.

Baylor, substituting for Sellers, scored three of the touchdowns, two on passes and one on a 7-yard run around right end.

Sellers scored first in the opening period when he took a pass from Quarterback Fred Hall of Washington, D. C.—good for 21 yards.

Hall also tossed to Baylor for a 15-yard touchdown play in the second period.

In the fourth period Baylor ran to a touchdown and also caught a 30-yard touchdown pass from Sub Quarterback Michael Carter of Louisville, Ky.

George Washington Captures Collegiate Frostbite Regatta

George Washington University's sailing team rallied to overtake M.I.T. and capture the first annual Intercollegiate Midwinter Regatta yesterday on the Potomac River.

Trailing 42-40 as the second day's competition began, G.W.'s Eric Nordholm, put the Colonials in front after the seventh of yesterday's 10 races and G.W. held its slim margin to the finish.

Regatta queen Dolores Gardner presented the G.W. sailors, Nordholm and Pat Granger, the Marvin-Gorman-Byrd trophy and awarded the outstanding skipper award to M.I.T.'s Fred Blatt, who took four first places during the meet.

The final point score gave George Washington 102 points, four more than the second place M.I.T. team. Brown was third with 95 points, followed by Harvard, 88; Yale, 87; Maryland, 82; Georgetown, 71; Boston College, 66 and N. Y. Maritime Academy, 57.

Blatt, with 56 points, topped the individual pointmakers in the A division, with Nordholm and Harvard's Frank Scully second with 52 apiece.

Van Buren Tallies Three Touchdowns

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, Dec. 14.—The Philadelphia Eagles breezed past the Green Bay Packers at Shibe Park today, 28-14, to keep their National Football League championship hopes alive.

Only 26,617 chilled spectators were on hand to watch Philadelphia register its first league victory in an 11-game history with Green Bay.

The long-awaited triumph threw the Eastern Division into a tie, and the Eagles travel to Pittsburgh next Sunday for the playoff with the Steelers.

Steve Van Buren, led the Philadelphia attack, scoring three touchdowns. His longest official run was a 38-yard touchdown sprint in the third period.

In the second quarter, however, the Bayou speedster took a kickoff and sprinted 101 yards for an apparent touchdown. But clipping was detected on the play and the Eagles wound up with the ball on their own 12.

Van Buren refused to be discouraged. During the afternoon, he fought his way for 93 yards from scrimmage to establish a new season record of 1008 yards. It broke—by four yards—a 13-year mark established by Chicago's Beattie Feathers.

Van Buren wasn't the only one deprived of a thrilling touchdown. Late in the fourth period, Ernie Steele broke away for a 34-yard run to the end zone but the Eagles were holding.

The Eagles bounced into the lead at the outset. In the first two minutes, Guard Cliff Patton blocked Jack Jacobs' punt from the Green Bay 25 and the ball bounded to the 5 where Vic Sears recovered for the Eagles. It took Van Buren just two tries to notch his first score.

Green Bay tied it up in the second period when Jacobs found End Nolan Luhn in the end zone for a 14-yard scoring pass.

But when the Eagles went ahead again on another short plunge by Van Buren they never relinquished their lead.

Otto Graham Paces Win Over Yanks

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Otto Graham passed and directed the Cleveland Browns to their second straight All-America Conference title today with a 14-to-3 triumph over the New York Yankees on a snow-framed football field.

The thermometer hovered near the freezing mark and kept the crowd down to 61,879, of whom 60,103 paid.

The same two teams tangled a year ago at Cleveland, in the first championship play-off, and the Browns won that one, 14 to 9. Although this was the sixth time the two elevens have met, the Yankees played as if this was their first encounter with Graham.

The Northwestern alumnus scored the first Brown marker on a quarterback sneak and set up the second with his passing.

Graham Whole Works

Thus for the third straight year a Cleveland eleven is champion of a major pro loop. Prior to the Brown triumph of a year ago, the erstwhile Rams had mastered all foes in the National League.

It was Graham, completing 14 passes out of 21 attempts for 112 yards, who denied the Yankees the right to place the All-America grid crown beside the World Series trophies won in baseball earlier this fall.

And for the second year he kept Ray Flaherty, Yankee coach, from becoming the only mentor to have had championships in both the National and the All-America.

But the cold and the frozen field didn't handicap Graham or his Cleveland mates although the Yankees skidded about as if they were trying out for the Olympic hockey squad.

Graham did make some concession to the cold. When he wasn't in the fray, he was on the sidelines and tossing to a teammate much as a baseball pitcher would.

The first period was virtually over when the Browns began a 67-yard march that was climaxed by Graham sneaking over from the

Bullis Blows Lead in 4th Period, Held to 6-6 Tie in Shoe Bowl

Coaches Out In Force at Bullis Game

MANNING BOWL, Lynn, Mass., Dec. 14.—Representatives of several New England colleges announced their presence at the Shoe Bowl game by introducing themselves to the Bullis and Marianapolis coaches before the game, looking for next year's prospects.

Among those on hand were head coaches Buff Donnelli of Boston U., Denny Meyers of Boston College and Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth and backfield coach Art Matsua of Rutgers.

Both teams have produced their share of collegiate stars. From Bullis have come Halfback Clyde Scott of Arkansas, Halfbacks Myron Gerber and Billy Earl of Navy and Guard Sal Fastuca of Army.

Marianapolis has produced Fullback Walt Trojanowski, who two years ago at the University of Connecticut, led the Nation in scoring; John Furey, of Boston College, Guard John Yonakor, former Notre Dame ace, and now a regular with the Cleveland Browns and Guards Luke Higgins and George Tobin of Notre Dame.

DESPITE the hay covering that had been on the field for a week preceding the game, the playing surface had a skim of snow over it. The Manning Bowl, scene of the game, seats 22,000 and is used exclusively for high school football during the fall. The Bullis-Marianapolis game is the thirtieth that has been played here since the first of September.

Walt Belardinelli, Marianapolis 200-pound halfback, leading New England Prep scorer and reportedly headed for Notre Dame, was off to an inauspicious start today. He received the opening kickoff, fumbled, and Bullis recovered on the Marianapolis 35.

Casoli Scores on Pass In Third for Admirals

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 14.—Blowing a 6-0 lead with only 4 minutes to play, Bullis Prep of Silver Spring, Md., had to settle for a 6-6 tie with Marianapolis Prep of Thompson, Conn., in the first annual Shoe Bowl game, at Manning Field.

It was a bruising game played in 20-degree temperature on a field cleared of snow before 7500.

The Admirals of Bullis, undefeated and untied in eight previous encounters, threatened throughout the first half but didn't count until three minutes of the third period had elapsed.

Then they took the defensive, stopping a late third-quarter Marianapolis drive on the Bullis 14.

Marians Score on Pass

With four minutes to go, a spectacular 86-yard pass play executed with the Bullis secondary off guard, scored for the Marians.

StanJouts for Bullis on offense were uarterback Mike Sorrentino and Halfback Mike Casoli, both Massachusetts boys. Defensive honors, however, went to 17-year-old Ted Kukowski of Clifton, N. J.

Kukowski, used strictly as a defensive line backer, intercepted two passes and blocked a kick.

It was his blocking of Tom Sheehan's punt in the third quarter that set up the Bullis touchdown. Joe Jarosz recovered for Bullis on the Marianapolis' 30.

Casoli Tallies

Jim Lennon flipped a pass to Sorrentino in the left flat and Mike raced to the 15. On the next play it was Sorrentino tossing to Casoli. Casoli nabbed the ball in the right coffin corner, and wriggled over the goal line.

Sorrentino attempted to convert on a quarterback sneak, but was stopped cold.

Late in the fourth quarter, Bullis' Tom Goslon punted Marianapolis' Belardinelli, New England's leading prep scorer. Belardinelli gambled by catching the ball behind the goal line but brilliant maneuvering he brought it out to the 14.

Two plays later Quarterback Sheehan flipped a jump pass to fleetfooted Belardinelli who had gotten 10 yards behind the Bullis defenders.

Scores Unmolested

Casoli, Sorronetino, Kukowski and Howie Hansen took chase but Belardinelli left them far behind crossing the goal line 20 yards ahead of the nearest Bullis player.

Bullis' Jerry Audette saved his team from defeat on the conversion attempt. He cracshed in and blocked Andy Mantineo's place kick by hurling himself on Sheehan who was hold the ball.

As mentioned before, Bullis had all the better of the grst half but failed to capitalize on its good breaks.

For example, when Bullis kicked off, Belardinelli fumbled and Casoli recovered on the Marianapolis 35. But the Admirals could gain only 5 yards before being forced to punt.

Bullis Lacks Punch

Later a bad pass from center on fourth down by Marianapolis' Mike Topalian gave Bullis another chance on the Marianapolis 19, but Sorrentino failed to pick up the necessary 1 yard on fourth down at the 9.

Caps Out to Hand Bullets 3d Defeat

The Washington Capitols who play host to the powerful Baltimore Bullets Wednesday night at Uline Arena, will be gunning for their third straight victory in league play and their third in a row over Baltimore.

Showing improvement of late, the Caps may have finally hit their stride after playing in and out ball for the first few weeks of the season.

To score victories over New York, Providence and Baltimore on those teams home courts is quite a feat, but that's what the Caps accomplished on their most recent road trip.

Back home again on their familiar floor, the Washington players would like to add another triumph over their next door neighbors.

W & M's Giermak Leads Conference Scores With 82

Richmond, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—Chester Giermak, the tallest player on the William and Mary basketball squad, moved into the lead in the Old Dominion individual point-making race today with 82 points for four games.

A freshman trails Giermak. He is Bob Goldsmith, Washington and Lee center, a 20-year-old 6-foot 2-inch prelaw student, had found the range for 28 field goals, 17 free throws for 73 points in four contests.

George Pierson, Washington and Lee's sophomore forward, from Charletson, W. Va., lagged in third with 59 points.

Georgia Has Never Lost a Bowl Game

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

WHENEVER UNIVERSITIES get around to honoring football coaches whose teams excel in such extra-curricular activities as postseason games, they'll have to award Georgia's Wally Butts a degree magna cum laude.

Butts will be after his fifth bowl victory in as many tries January 1 when he leads his Bulldogs to Jacksonville to play Maryland in the Gator Bowl.

Five bowl trips in nine years is quite an accomplishment in itself, but when you've won all four postseason skirmishes you've done something extra, like Butts.

Butts came to Georgia in 1938 from a Kentucky high school coaching job.

In the nine years he's been at the helm of the Red and Black football fortunes his teams have brought more publicity to the Cracker State than anything except possibly "Gone With the Wind" and the two-Governor era.

RATED ONE of the country's best football tacticians, the "Little Round Man" has taken Georgia teams to the Rose, Sugar, Orange and Oil Bowls.

His Bulldogs dumped UCLA, 9-0, in the 1943 Rose Bowl; trimmed North Carolina, 20-10, in the 1947 Sugar Bowl; routed Texas Christian, 40-26, in the 1942 Orange Bowl, and whipped Texas, 20-6, in the 1946 Houston Oil Bowl.

At 40, Butts is six years senior to his rival Gator Bowl coach, Maryland's Jim Tatum, but the two have one thing in common—the ability to moan.

Compared to Butts, a pluperfect pessimist even when he had a couple of operators by the name of Trippi and Sinkwich in the same backfield, Tatum is a babe in the woods when it comes to the use of the crying towel.

BUT SOUTHEASTERN Conference coaches view with alarm Butts' cry of "wolf." They know when the little fellow with the big cigar moans loudest his team is to be feared the most.

Under his guidance, Georgia has won 63 games and lost but 25 in nine years. And they don't include his bowl grand slam.

What's the secret of Butts' success? Well, he's a stickler for conditioning and discipline. His substitutes race on and off the field and you'll rarely see a tired Bulldog.

WALLY HAS A simple motto, In it you'll understand his success: coach:

"It isn't the size of the dog in the fight that counts, but the size of the fight in the dog."

Maryland's Tatum hasn't come up with a motto yet, but his spirited Terrapins are full of the one thing with which every Butts-coached club is loaded—fight!

SANTA CLAUS DELIVERS BY DECEMBER 25th
-and so do KAISER-FRAZER dealers!

Yes! Delivery by Christmas!

If your family needs a new car why not buy one for Christmas? You can put the keys to a new Kaiser or Frazer on your Christmas tree—and we mean this Christmas, not 1948! The car itself will be out in front of your home! Yes, if you make up your mind within the next three days, we guarantee that, like Santa Claus, we will deliver by December 25th.

You and yours can't get a Christmas thrill out of a gift certificate! You can't ride this winter in a car you may get next Spring! So, if you are tired of waiting, tired of promises, and tired of driving that old, worn-out, prewar relic you have "made-do" till now, come in! Willow Run production has been stepped up again—and we are delivering now!

Why the Kaiser and the Frazer Give You Unequalled Motor Car Value!

Kaiser-Frazer Corporation builds four, 100% postwar automobiles—the Kaiser, the Frazer, the Frazer Manhattan, and the Kaiser Custom. Each in its price class gives you the greatest value you can get for your money. This you can easily and quickly prove.

The value of a motor car, as any automobile dealer will tell you, is based on four primary points: Appearance, Performance, Reputation, Year Built.

Appearance—Is it modern? How up-to-date will its lines be a year or two from now? Kaiser-Frazer automobiles are unquestioned style leaders. They have established the new trend in motor car design which the rest of the industry is already beginning to follow.

Performance—means more than just plenty of power! It includes economy, roadability, roominess, comfort, and safety on all types of roads. Kaiser-Frazer cars, with 100% postwar chassis, are famous for the economy resulting from high horsepower-to-weight ratio; for safety that comes with a lower center of gravity; for roominess that is the result of both seats 2 inches more than 5 feet wide; and above all, for their ride—the result of a new distribution of mass and load.

Reputation—In less than two years the Kaiser and the Frazer have established a world-wide reputation both for design and quality. Today, 125,000 owners can testify that these cars stand up, give extraordinary service under every condition of climate and usage.

Year Built—Any new car you buy this year was built this year. But remember that some cars built this year were designed six years ago! When really new models of these cars come out, they are likely to be very different from the 1941-1947 design! Value for your today's transportation dollars should not be depreciated by your car's own manufacturer! Kaiser-Frazer cars need no changes to bring them up-to-date!

Jim Falters On Final 9 To Post 69

Miami, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP).—Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., won the $10,000 Miami Open Golf tournament today, tying the 72-hole record of the Miami Springs course with a 13 under par 267 and increased his earnings for the year to $26,556 to lead the other touring professionals.

Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, finished second with a 269 and Ben Hogan of Hershey Pa., third at 271.

Demaret finished the final 18-hole round over the 6310-yard par 70 course in 69, his highest score of the four-day tournament. His other rounds were 68, 64 and 66.

He went out today in 33 with an excellent chance of beating the course record held jointly by Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., and Henry Picard of Cleveland, Ohio, but on the back nine with a new course record in sight, Demaret shot a 36, one over par, after birdieing the twelfth par 4 when he chipped in from 60 feet.

Finishing at 272 were Walter Burkemo, of Detroit; Claude Harmon, of Palm Beach, Fla.; Defending champion Sammy Snead, and Glenn Teal, of Jacksonville.

Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., and Herman Keiser, of Akron, Ohio, finished at 273 and Skip Alexander, of Lexington, N. C., and Ed Furgol, of Detroit, at 274.

Worsham at 278

Back at 278 and the last to be included in the winnings were Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., and Lou Worsham, Washington, D. C.

Demaret, in going out in 33, went one over par on the first hole when the grinding of a newsreel camera disturbed his chip shot to the green and the ball went over. He two-putted for a five.

But on the 500-yard par five fifth hole, he was on the green in two and sank a 15-foot for an eagle. On the ninth he holed a 20-foot downhill putt for a birdie.

Haas, 31 years old, in placing second, carded his second 65 of the tournament. His others were 72 and 67. The victory was the fifth tournament to be won this year by Demaret, who placed in six others.

Tommy Thompson for a 25-yard gain to the 20.

Green Bay Coach Curly Lambeau helped make it easier for the Eagles when he rushed from the coaching box to berate the officials. This futile action moved the ball 10 more yards for the Eagles.

The Packers got it back briefly when they followed with an 80-yard touchdown march for their best offensive display of the day. Bruce Smith started it with a 30-yard run to midfield and Jacobs followed with three passes that Aldo Forte Nolan Luhn and Clyde Goodnight caught with finesse. The latter juggled the final 11-yard toss in the end zone, but held it for the score.

This effort was nullified when Tommy Thompson threw a 6-yard pass that End Pete Pihos took on his 40 and, behind superlative blocking, raced 60 yards to the Packer end zone.

Larry Craig, Green Bay, and Alex Wojciechowicz, Eagles, were ejected for slugging. Green Bay's Irvin Comp was carried to the dressing room on a stretcher with a badly bruised hip, and Back Ted Fritsch also was helped off the field during the rough play.

DEAR FOLKS:

My campaign for a consolation daily double pay-off in Maryland last summer failed. Everybody and his cousin tries to get into the racing act in Maryland but this little item seems to get the go-by. Former Racing Commissioner Chairman George P. Mahoney told me he would put the feature in the Maryland betting rules but evidently let it slip his mind due to pressure of other business just before he was ousted. West Virginia, through track officials and Racing Chief Beverley Broun, took the necessary action when the subject was first brought to their attention. As a result, 63 daily double ticket holders who would have grumbled at accepting their $2 back, were presented with a $50 consolation prize. These persons held the 8 and 5 combinations. The No. 8 horse won the first race at $75 and some change. They had no chance to win the double because the No. 5 horse in the second event was found to be lame and ordered scratched. It is only fair that this group share in the double pool. It took $3150 to pay off the consolation double and knocked $131 off each of the 24 full double winners who received $422.80. BILL.

Redskins Romp Over Boston, 40-13, in Season Finale fro mthe one, set up by a 15-yard Baugh-to-Rosato aerial.

That Boston hope fizzled as Dancewicz, who completed only 4 out of 17 passes, was wide three times. The Yanks had to wait until the final quarter for another score, that one coming on Howard Maley's 23-yard toss to Chipley and the same hurler's 18-yarder to Don Currivan.

The Redskins closed out scoring with a pair of touchdowns within two minutes shortly afterwards. Poillon and Nussbaumer made brilliant catches of Baugh passes before the Slinger connected with Turley for six yards and one six-pointer.

The second came four plays later when Tackle John Sanchez intercepted Maley's heave. One try was all Baugh needed to click with Tereshinski from the 20.

In the dying minutes, Baugh whipped the Redskins to Boston's 1-yard stripe, with Farmer, Mont and Rosato catching, but there Maznicki made slight atonement for earlier shortcomings. On the last play of the game he intercepted Baug'h pass and ran it to the 12.

It wasn't a very impressive ending for one of the best year Slingin' Sam has ever enjoyed.

Cleveland Wins All-America Title by Beating New York

1 when every fan in the park expected another pass.

Marion Motley, the 232-pound Cleveland fullback, made 52 yards of this distance in one blast down the middle.

Graham's tosses to Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones and Lewis Mayne were the vital factors in the second Cleveland touchdown which the former registered from the 4 on a perfect handoff from the quarterback in the third period.

Yanks Score on Field Goal

It wasn't until after the second quarter was under way that the Yankees made the first of their three appearances on the Brown side of the midfield stripe.

And the experience exhilarated them to such an extent that they banged all the way to the 6, primarily on the running of Spec Sanders and Buddy Young.

When the attack bogged there, Harvey Johnson shuffled in from the bench and split the uprights for a field goal.

Each Brown Rates $1191

Two fumbles by Young and numerous spills by Yankee ball carriers on the frozen field probably enfeebled their attack. But it is also true that Cleveland lost at least two touchdowns by the breaks.

The most spectacular was the one nullified when Jones stepped outside the end zone to snag a Graham pass.

Regional Unit On Planning Is Weighed

Northern Virginia officials agree that the regional planning commission proposed for the area could be the answer to a lot of problems.

Or it could be just another organization, depending on the cooperation it receives from its member bodies.

They see in it a potential solution to many of the pressing problems thrust on them by the startling population jump in the last seven years—water, sewage, schools, hospitals, zoning. But the communities must accept it wholeheartedly, they feel, if its full effect is to be realized.

Draft Sent Communities

An ordinance creating the Northern Virginia Regional Planning Commission for Alexandria and Arlington, Fairfax, and Prince William Counties, and the towns of Falls Church, Fairfax and Herndon was drafted Wednesday and sent on to the communities for adoption.

The commission will begin operating as soon as any three municipalities approve it. The local governments will give up none of their sovereignty in joining up. The commission would have only advisory powers. And the communities may accept the ordinance in altered form so long as they retain its fundamental meaning and purpose.

Main purpose of the commission would be to enable parts of the region to accomplish by working together what they cannot do by themselves. It would consist of three members from each community and a permanent staff.

Based on Population

Member bodies would support the commission's operations by contributions in proportion to their population. Estimated cost figures are not available. But the only other such organization in the State, in the Newport News area, operates on about $12,000 annually, according to Raymond V. Long, director of the State Planning Board.

Examples of problems that region leaders believe might be solved by a regional approach are:

1. Sewage treatment. Neither Alexandria nor Fairfax has any facilities to treat sewage. It flows raw into the Potomac. Arlington facilities are inadequate. Leroy E. Peabody, Alexandria planning board chairman, suggests a central jointly financed unit may be the answer.

2. Schools. Alexandria's school board has figured that the city can provide adequate schools only by going into debt to its bonded limit. One $500,000 item given high priority is a new Negro high school.

Fairfax County has no Negro high school. Fairfax now sends its Negro high school students to Prince William. A regional school might solve the problem.

Regional Jail Considered

3. A regional jail has long been considered, to replace present facilities, which are old and expensive.

4. Fairfax has no hospital and cannot afford one. Additional beds are badly needed in both Alexandria and Arlington.

5. Highway zoning. Highways that pass through some or all of the counties could be maintained as through ways by uniform zoning laws controlling intersections and building close to the highway. A planned system of roads could connect the whole area, rather then stop short at county lines.

Most officials believe these ambitious proposals are a long way off. They point out, however, that if the commission served no other purpose in its early stages it could act as a valuable means of exchanging views and information on mutual problems.

U. S. Warrants Issued for 4 Jailbreakers

Fugitive warrants for four prisoners who escaped last Wednesday from the Prince Georges County Jail at Upper Marlboro, Md., have been issued by United States Commissioner F. Archie Meatyard at Bethesda.

This clears the way for the FBI to enter the search for the men, and makes them Federal fugitives. The four are charged in the warrants, with fleeing across State lines to escape prosecution on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Prince George County Jailer Vincent I. Wells was beaten in the jail break, and a car believed stolen by the fugitive, has been found at Falls Church, Va.

Prince Georges County police plan today to compare fingerprints from the car with those of the prisoners.

The four fugitives are:

William G. Midgett, 25, who fled from a chain gang near Culpeper, Va., and who formerly lived at 1529 S st. se. He was awaiting grand jury action on three burglary charges.

James C. Hampson, 21, of East Riverdale, Md., charged by his wife with nonsupport.

Robert Morris, 23, of Laurel, Md., serving a 60-day sentence for drunkenness.

Joseph L. Boswell, jr., 31, no fixed address, awaiting grand jury action on a grand larceny charge.

ANOTHER PHILCO TELEVISION FIRST IN WASHINGTON

Philco Television sets a new pace in the sports world as Turk Edwards, Coach of the Washington Redskins, observes his team in action at elbow's length during the Redskin-Boston game, Sunday, December 14.

At his side as he sits on the bench, right out in broad daylight, is the new Philco Television Model 1050, bringing to him, as to scores of stay-at-home sports fans, the play-by-play visual detail of the game. Each Redskin play, and those of the opposing team, are no further from him than the line of scrimmage — he is as close to the game as the football!

Revolutionary in football annals is this use of modern Philco Television by sports authorities to observe all the thrill-packed action as it unfolds on the Philco Television Screen. Coach Edwards is on top of each play, from the 50-yard line to the goal post.

All this is achieved through the Philco Television, mastering vast strides made by supreme clarity of vision and sharpness of detail — all clear and steady. Philco Electronic Control is the new development that automatically brings in televised programs sharply focused and firmly synchronized. The Automatic Level Control compensates for signal variations and avoids fading and fluctuations in sound and picture, a prime requisite when viewing on-the-second happenings as they occur during a football game.

Yes, it's another FIRST for Philco, The Leader, as Philco Television plays the role of "visual assistant" to Coach Turk Edwards from the sidelines of the Redskins' conflict on Sunday, December 14.

TURK EDWARDS COACHES 'SKINS USING PHILCO TELEVISION SET

Philco Television makes football history as Coach Turk Edwards coaches the Redskins from the bench with the help of Philco Television and WMAL-TV to give him detailed close-up on the play.

IN BROAD DAYLIGHT
Here is Philco Television, Model 1050, in operation in broad daylight reporting the Redskin game on the spot in picture story. Operation is simple as a radio. The automatic electronic control keeps the picture clear and bright. That's why sports fans cheer for Philco, clearly the best!

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

3 More Members Soon to Be Named To Loyalty Board

LOYALTY: Three new members will be appointed soon to the Civil Service loyalty appeals board. They will be:

MRS. HARPER SILBEY, a prominent Rochester, N. Y., clubwoman, school, and church worker;

PAUL M. HEBERT, a New Orleans attorney, who is now in Germany where he is trying an Allied case against several Nazis, and,

LAWRENCE T. LEE, a president of a Southern insurance company. He has offices in both Raleigh, N. C., and Jacksonville, Fla.

Both Mrs. Silbey and Lee will take their seats on the board when it meets here Tuesday. Hebert won't be back in this country until early next year.

Their appointments increase to 23 the membership of the review board whose chairman is Seth W. Richardson of this city. Two more appointments will be made shortly.

The board this week can be expected to make public its important rules and regulations to cover the handling of cases of Federal workers who are accused of disloyalty. The rules can be expected to cover these points:

A time limit on the appeals of both accused employes and their agencies to the board; a denial of the request that accused employes be permitted to face and cross examine their accusers; a recommendation to agency heads that they follow the recommendations of the board in all loyalty cases; a provision which will permit accused employes to be represented by counsel and to be given at least a partial list of the charges against them and adequate time to answer the charges before the appeals board; to allow accused employes to call their own witnesses before the board, and a general provision designed to treat veterans and nonveterans who are accused of disloyalty in a uniform fashion.

STORY: Chapter Si-8 of the Federal Personnel Manual contains this enlightening sentence:

"The death of an employe automatically ends his employment."

The same manual carries a definition of the competitive Civil Service, a question frequently asked by Federal employes. This is the way it's described:

All persons who occupy positions in the competitive service and who have competitive status."

That's as clear as mud.

GPO: Pay raises for some 6000 employes of the Government Printing Office here can be expected to be agreed on this week. Insiders believe the increase will be around 10 or 12 pr cent.

Any salary increase must be approved in advance by the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing whose chairman is Senator Jenner (R., Ind.). Public Printer Giegengack made his recommendations to the committee. Also, he has sent it data on the increased cost of living here during the past year and the wages paid to people in similar work in private industry here.

Chairman Jenner has scheduled a meeting today with the public printer. A decision on the pay raise is hoped for at this conference. The salaries of GPO employes can't be increased before Thursday since they were given a wage boost last December 18. The law permits only one salary adjustment annually for GPO employes. A new wage boost to become effective Friday is now slated.

PERSONAL: Charles McGee has resigned as assistant general counsel of Federal Power to enter law practice in New York . . . Ed Prichard of Kentucky, a former Roosevelt braintruster, has rejected an offer to be Assistant Attorney General in charge of Civil Rights . . . Ed Wilbur, a Budget Bureau analyst, has been given the 1947 award by the society for the Advancement of Management for making the most outstanding contribution to management this year.

HOLIDAY: In ordering a half holiday for Federal employes the day before Christmas, the President limited it to those who can be spared from their jobs. But it has now come to light that Federal agencies must either excuse their employes at noon on December 24 or else pay double time to those employes who are ordered to work in the aftrenoon.

The President issued a similar order last year. Afterward the comptroller general ruled that double time must be paid to those people who had to work a full day last December 24. Also, an employe who takes leave on that day will be charged with only half a day.

CGS: This decision means that employes in Commerce's Coast & Geodetic Survey will be certain to be released that afternoon. Some question arose when the employes were told that they could not be "spared" from their work to attend Community Chest and Freedom Train rallies. Director L. O. Colbert told the employes:

"The work of this bureau is in such demand that public and Federal needs cannot be fully met under the present restricted ceilings of hours and personnel. . . . It will be the policy in this bureau that hereafter employes will not be excused to engage in certain activities."

Thieves Get Total Loot Of $5000 In Weekend

2 Homes in Same N.W. Neighborhood Entered, Robbed As Victims Sleep

Louis Bordenick, 1359 Tewkesbury pl. nw., reported his wallet with $642 and a check for 1554, was stolen from his bedroom while he slept.

The nearby home of Bordenick's brother, Morris, at 1347 Tuckerman st. nw., also was entered and Bordenick's wallet was stolen from his bedroom. The thief got only papers.

Neighbor Also Robbed

A thief, who apparently hid in a restaurant at 615 7th st. sw., and was locked in, at closing time, walked out with $145 and 32 bottles of whisky, valued at $128, the owner, Mrs. Sally Solomon, told police. There was no evidence of breaking in, but the intruder left by giving a trap-door to the basement and unchaining the cellar door according to police.

Bank With $300 Stolen

A large glass bank containing $300 in dimes was stolen from a bedroom in his home, the Rev. George A. Keller of 1112 N st. nw., told police.

James J. McKittrick, owner of a mattress factory at 1066 Wisconsis ave. nw., reported $219 and $235 in checks missing from a safe.

The savings bonds were taken from the home of Homer M. Tripp of 331 17th st. ne. Police said the place was completely ransacked.

C., told police he was forced at the point of a knife into a doorway in the 1200 block of K st. nw. about 7:30 a. m. yesterday by a man who robbed him of $69 and his trousers and shoes. His cries attracted passersby, who chased the assailant and caught him in the 900 block of 11th st. nw. police said.

Small Boy Victim

Anderson H. Riddley, 10, of 1923 Bennett pl. ne., told police two teen-age boys threw him to the ground and took $2 from his shoe near 21st and I sts. ne. The boys were arrested later and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Auto thefts were reported by Virginia Brewer, of 1312 11th st. se., and George W. Sebastian, of 517 Newbomb st. se.

Walter Wood, of 38 Randolph pl. nw., a topcoat and watch, valued at $55; Andrew Feher, of 1229 Euclid st. nw., 10 cartons of cigarettes and 3 boxes of cigars, valued at $23; Odessa King, of 622 Q st. nw., a radio, valued at $25, and Lee Worthy, of 1900 West Virginia ave. ne., two suits valued at $15.

Va. Anglers Demand Shenandoah Survey

Winchester, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—Terming the Shenandoah River a "biological desert," the Izaak Walton League's Winchester Chapter today urged that a survey proposed by several northern Virginia industrial firms be finished without further delay.

Fred L. Glaize, jr., chairman of the chapter's antipollution committee, said the chapter had conducted tests, and "we know that from Front Royal to Charleston, W. Va., the river is barren of animal life."

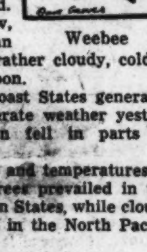
Another Day Of Pleasant Weather Due

More of yesterday's seasonably pleasant weather was forecast for Washington today, at least a starter.

Sunny skies this morning were predicted, changing to mostly cloudy in the afternoon, with an expected temperature high in the mid-forties. Tonight was expected to be mostly cloudy, but not so cold.



Weebee

Tomorrow, the weatherman said, will be rather cloudy, colder in the afternoon.

The East Coast States generally enjoyed moderate weather yesterday, but rain fell in parts of Florida.

Sunny skies and temperatures of 40 to 45 degrees prevailed in the Southern Plain States, while clouds predominated in the North Pacific States.

9 Injured In Maryland Auto Crashes

Glen Echo's New Ambulance Used To Capacity on Its Initial Run

Nine persons were injured in three traffic accidents in nearby Maryland this weekend.

The first accident occurred within one hour of delivery of a new four-patient ambulance to the Glen Echo Volunteer Fire Department, pressing that vehicle into service at full capacity for its initial run.

Injured in the accident at 11 p. m., Saturday, in the 7200 block of MacArthur blvd., one-half mile south of Glen Echo, were the driver, Edwin Young, 28, painter, of 3068 M st. nw., and three passengers. Montgomery County police said Young lost control of his car when it struck a hole in the road shoulder.

One of the passengers, Norman Armbrister, 26, of 5831 N. 26th st., Arlington, Va., sustained chest injuries. He and the driver, who suffered a broken collarbone and head cuts, were treated at Suburban Hospital and later transferred to Mount Alto Hospital.

Other passengers in the car, which overturned, were William Carvin, 31, of 1034 30th st. nw., and Russell Hatton, 25, of River rd., Rosslyn, Va., who both suffered face cuts. They were released after treatment at Suburban Hospital.

Edmund H. Robinson, 24, of Bridgeport, Conn., whose car struck a telephone pole along the Washington-Baltimore blvd., Berwyn, Md., at 5:16 a. m. yesterday, escaped with a sprained ankle. A passenger, George W. Howard, 26, of Georgetown, S. C., suffered a cut knee.

In the third accident, at 7:16 a. m., Leon Corbin, 25, of 603 23d st. nw., received a broken left shoulder, cuts and bruises when his automobile failed to negotiate a turn on Beltsville rd., Beltsville, Md., ran off the roadway and overturned. Two passengers, Geneva Pimble, 18, and Marion Pimble, 23, both of 420 20th st. nw., sustained cuts and bruises.

12% of D. C. Area Residents Don't Know People Next Door

know the names of either of their closest neighbors live in apartments. Seventy per cent of this group have lived in their present homes less than 5 years and 42 per cent have lived there less than a year.

Many people don't want to know their neighbors. Forty-one per cent of all Washingtonians said their idea of a good neighbor is one who minds his own business. They don't want their neighbors to borrow things, or watch what hours they come and go.

For more than half, however, a good neighbor is one who follows the Golden Rule—has positive, friendly qualities. Thirty per cent think a good neighbor is one you can count on to help out in an emergency.

These findings of The Washington Post Poll are based on personal interviews with a representative cross-section of adults living in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Local residents were asked first: We're interested in knowing something about neighborhood life. What is your idea of a good neighbor?

They replied:

(These columns add to more than 100 per cent because more than one answer was possible.)

A good neighbor:	All Groups	Age 21-29 years	30-44 years	45-59 years	60 and over
Friendly, helpful, courteous	54%	68%	52%	50%	42%
Minds own business	41	31	42	42	50
Can be counted on in an emergency	30	24	31	33	33
Doesn't borrow, keeps children quiet, doesn't throw noisy parties	17	18	18	21	8
Good citizen, interested in the community	8	6	8	11	6
Honest, doesn't gossip	5	7	3	3	12
Other characteristics	3	5	2	3	2

The above table indicates that as people get older they tend to be less sociable and more inclined to want neighbors who don't bother them.

Women more frequently like to feel they can depend on neighbors in an emergency, while men more often growl about noisy neighbors who throw parties, or let their dogs run over their lawns.

Pets, Like Problems and Baby Sitting Aid Neighborliness Among McLean Gardens Folk

Mrs. Dryden
Knows Two of Six

Mrs. Goodman
Not Enough Time

Miss Sigafoose
Least Acquainted

Harold Blasky

Does the average apartment dweller get to know his neighbor?

Or do the people next door just mean a wailing baby, sounds of revelry by night, or at most a nod in the hallway while digging for the key?

While the scientific, cross-section answers to such questions are given by The Washington Post Poll today informal chats with a few of the "neighbors" in multiple-unit McLean Gardens yesterday indicated that:

1. Naturally enough, housewives who don't hold down jobs get acquainted with their next-doors quicker, and more frequently, than do their bread-winning husbands.
2. Women are, in general, more gregarious than men—at least, that's the opinion of one McLean male. (The interviewer did not find any woman whose husband stays home while she works, in order to check whether the "gregarious" theory is just a matter of staying home.)
3. Couples with children, or with pets, find it easy to get acquainted with other people who have the same problems—in most cases. On the other hand, parents are sometimes too busy with their children to get together with the people next door.
4. People whose lives are pretty well occupied with activities such as bridge, clubs and other organizations don't have time to visit with their neighbors much.
5. Former residents of Western States feel it's rather difficult to get acquainted with people around here, but——
6. Native Washingtonians reply that the people around here with whom it is hard to get acquainted, are actually people from somewhere else anyway. There are so few "real" Washingtonians, they say.

Pets Help Introduce People

It was Lieut. Paul W. Lines, USN, of 3824 Porter st. nw., who mentioned the efficacy of pets in bringing people together. Although Lieutenant Lines's pedigreed miniature schnauzer, Minquas Michael, is a recent acquisition, the Siamese cat owned by his neighbor, 19-year-old Raymond Barton, USA, was a factor in making the two families good friends.

Lines, who expects the two pets to fraternize—gradually, perhaps—knows all four families in his unit very well socially, he said, because his wife makes a point of calling on people when they first move in near them.

Mrs. Selma Goodman of nearby 3840 Porter st. nw. finds it difficult to find time for visiting her neighbors—for two good reasons, named Cheryl and Meryl, 10 months old, whom she was wheeling in tandem.

"When you have twins, you don't have too much time to get together with your neighbors," said Mrs. Goodman, who said she knew the lady on one side of her, and had met some people from other units while strolling with the twins.

Harold F. Blasky, an attorney, who has lived at 3861 Newark st. nw., for about two years, said he and Mrs. Blasky knew 15 families out of the 18 in his section by name, several of them quite well, because all of them have children, as they do.

Blasky declared he has "good neighbors," defining these as people who are "cooperative pleasant and tolerant." The families' friendships are continually re-cemented by the exchange of baby-sitting services.

Chief Warrant Officer J. L. Vestergaard, whose Navy career has given him and his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Vestergaard, long periods of residence in such places as Honolulu and San Diego, agreed with her when she said people in the East have "too many activities to get together much socially."

Mrs. Vestergaard declared that "though there aren't any nicer people in the world" than her McLean neighbors, she spends a great deal of time on her activities with the P-TA and as a Scout leader and has little time for other interests besides her family life. She has a 9-year-old daughter.

Acquaintances Were Numerous Out West

While she now knows a lady downstairs quite well, she said, she didn't know anyone until she took up her outside interests, through which she has met most of her friends. The Vestergaards have lived at 3891 Porter st. nw. for 18 months.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dryden, who have been at 3848 Porter st. nw. for only two months, know two of the six families in their unit. Mrs. Dryden got to know one other girl there by meeting her in the basement laundry, while the other offered her some baking soda. Though she needed it at the time, she declined the offer, she said, because she "hadn't been there long enough." Later, they became friends.

Miss Clara Sigafoose, 3685 38th st. nw., a War Department employe, doesn't have much chance to get acquainted because she is away during the day, she explained.

However, she became acquainted with a neighbor on one side of her apartment, the acquaintance beginning when she went over to get two nickles for a dime once.

UAW Raid Charged By CIO Mine Union

Detroit, Dec. 14 (U.P.).—An official of the CIO Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union charged tonight that the CIO United Auto Workers Union has launched a "trading program" on the membership of unions which have failed to comply with non-Communist provisions of the Tart-Hartley Law.

The charge was made by Ken Eckert, national director of the mine union's die casting division, who said UAW international secretary, Emil Mazey, appeared at a meeting of die casting workers here today to invite them to join the UAW.

Parents Go To Boycotted School With Pupils Today

Indicate Browne Junior High Strike Will Be Continued, Without Picketing

Negro pupils at the Browne Junior High School and its two annexes are scheduled to attend the Browne school itself today with their parents.

This action is planned to dramatize the pupils' boycott of the school and annexes which began December 3. A total of 1826 students are assigned to Browne and the two annexes, Webb School and Blow School.

Parents also indicated that the pupils' strike would continue, although on Saturday Chairman Dirksen of the House District Committee promised a full investigation of the school situation.

1146 Required to 'Shuttle'

Classroom assignments call for 1146 students to "shuttle" between the Browne school at 24th st. and Benning rd. ne., the Blow School at 19th st. and Benning rd. ne., and the Webb School at 15th and Rosedale sts. ne.

Gardner Bishop, spokesman for one of the parents' groups involved in withholding their children from school, said last night that, "We're all just going to the Browne school, that's all."

No Picketing Today

There will be no picketing of the schools today, however, Bishop said.

The parents, who launched the strike to protest "inadequate facilities" at the school and the necessity for children to "shuttle" around the schools to get a full-time schedule of classwork, hope their school attendance plan today will force some action upon the District Board of Education.

The plan for parents to send all their children to Browne was voted Friday by the Browne Parent-Teacher Association. The Blowe and Webb buildings, formerly white elementary schools, were made annexes of Browne on December 1 to place the Negro students on full-time schedules. Some 680 students, however, are still on part-time schedules at Browne school.

Action to End Racial Segregation Is Urged

Immediate action to carry out recommendations of the President's Committee on Civil Rights to end racial segregation here were urged yesterday by Dr. E. B. Henderson, director of physical education of Negro public schools.

Dr. Henderson spoke at a mass meeting sponsored by the National Negro Council, at Metropolitan Baptist Church, 12th and R sts. nw., to which parents of striking students at Browne Junior High School had been invited.

Citing community leaders and District department heads who discredited charges contained in the committee report, Dr. Henderson advised them to "put on the disguise of a walnut stain or lampblack and live the life of a colored citizen in Washington for one week."

In commenting on statements by Clifford H. Newell, former president of the Federation of Citizens Association, that the committee report was "false" and "biased," Dr. Henderson likened them to "Hitler's technique of making statements, though false, so loud and so often that people will finally believe them."

Newell and others who backed the federation stand were also castigated by Edgar G. Brown, director of the NNC, who presided over the meeting attended by about 100 persons.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Henry, pastor of the 10th Street Baptist Church, announced at the meeting that his 4000 parishioners had pledged $1000 to "carry this fight to the people." Similar indorsements came from the audience and other speakers.

Tydings Assails GOP Price Plan

Baltimore, Dec. 14 (AP).—Senator Tyding (D., Md.) declared today the anti-inflation program proposed by Republicans in Congress "will do little or nothing to stop the increase in the cost of living."

In a Broadcast (Station WBAL), the Senator predicted that the price of meat would be "much higher" next spring. He summarized the Republican proposals for voluntary industry-wide agreements, export controls, allocation of transportation facilities, and increases in Federal Reserve Bank gold reserves, and said:

"There is no provision in the Republican plan for rationing and no provision for price ceilings on articles that are in scant supply."

Citizen Has Many More Arrest Rights Than in Yester-year

(In an earlier story on the law of arrest, The Washington Post discussed the rights of the police in making an arrest. Today's article deals with the rights of persons arrested.)

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

There was a time in the not too distant past when a person arrested for crime had as little chance to prove his innocence as a fox cornered by the hounds.

In fact, the chase and arrest of an accused criminal had the elements of a fox hunt, right down to the "Yoicks!."

The sheriff or constable would gather up the citizenry as his deputies, and they'd all take off with "hue and cry" after the accused fugitive. Often these posses used more energy in meting out punishment—like lynch mobs—than in bringing the accused back to fair trial.

Even if the accused were turned over to the sheriff to await trial, it might only get him out of the frying pan into the fire. Too often the gendarmes took it on themselves to persuade the accused man that he was indeed guilty.

These persuasive measures—spoken of in the vernacular as the "third degree"—have their roots in the heresy trials of the "Dark Ages," when the accused were tried by fire and torture. As civilization progressed, the "third degree" became more refined. The accused man's confession was elicited perhaps with the aid of a "water cure," whipping, kicking, clubbing. When the courts decried broken noses on prisoners' faces, the more subtle confession-persuaders turned to the rubber hose, switching lights on and off in the prisoner's eyes, keeping him awake for long hours, drilling him relentlessly, or holding the accused incommunicado for an indefinite period.

It would not be the whole truth to say that the "third degree" has been eliminated from modern-day police methods. But over the years the rights of an arrested man have been built up to protect him against being tried and punished by the police, instead of by the court and jury. These rights—all based on the premise that a man is presumed to be innocent until found guilty. And it's up to the Government to prove him guilty.

Well, what are the rights of a person when arrested? What should he do to obtain them?

The Washington Post submitted the two questions to Maj. Robert J. Barrett superintendent of police, who's spent many years in the force and made many an arrest himself. The chief of police responded as follows:

"The question of the right of a person arrested and how he may obtain it are spelled out in the Constitution and the decisions of the court."

The men who wrote the Constitution knew and feared the injustices and abuses arising out of arrests. They set up certain safeguards for the accused. The Bill of Rights, among other things, forbids both the Federal and State governments from depriving a person of life, liberty or property "without due process of law." It requires equal protection of the law for all persons. It calls for a grand jury indictment where a person is accused of crime. It says an accused man cannot be forced to testify against himself.

So much for the Constitution. Now for the procedure practiced in the District:

Having made an arrest, a policeman must take his prisoner to the station house "without delay" except in the cases of minor traffic offenses. In the latter instance, the policeman can give you a ticket and tell you to appear at the station house to post collateral for appearance in court, or to elect to forfeit the collateral.

Upon arrival at the precinct station, the prisoner must be "booked," that is, a record of the arrest must be noted in the arrest book. At this point, the police will specifically charge the prisoner, and mark it in the book, or the policeman may leave the charge open—that is, blank—until he decides what the exact charge will be. Or the police may charge the prisoner with "investigation," a catch-all charge that has no valdity either in the statue books or in the courts, but which police here and in many other cities have used for many years.

Once you are "booked," the police will search you preparatory to putting you in the clink—confinement in the station house. Your personal effects will be taken from you and placed in an envelope to be returned to you later. Your tie and belt will be removed to prevent you from strangling yourself.

At this point, the accused man has the right to make contact with his family, friends, attorney. The Police Manual directs the police to ask the prisoner whom he wishes to be notified of his arrest, and the station clerk must "at once" make every reasonable effort to communicate with such persons "except where such action might serve to defeat the ends of justice or entail expense to the District."

The accused not only has the right to get in touch with a lawyer, but also to speak privately to the attorney when the latter shows up at the station house.

The right to bail is written into the Constitution. On top of this, a District law requires the police to furnish a list of bondsmen, at the request of the prisoner, and to put him in touch with the bondsman "within a reasonable time." A bond permits the accused man to retain his freedom pending appearance in court for arraignment proceedings.

A person charged with murder usually cannot be freed on bond. Under police practice, persons charged with "investigation" also lose the right to bond, because there is no bond set for a nonlegal charge.

The police have a right to question an arrested person. The arrested person has the right to refrain from answering any and all of the questions.

The Police Manual says, in conformity with the law, that persons arrested shall be sent to the first session of court after arrest. Every person arrested has the right to have his arrest aired as soon as possible before a judge or United States Commissioner, who will decide whether the detention is proper and who will initiate steps to provide "due process of law."

In some communities, courts are open or judges are kept available, nights and Sundays, for immediate arraignment of arrested persons. Here, however, courts operate normally on a 5½-day week. Thus if you are arrested Saturday afternoon you can be held until Monday morning before getting before a judge.

Theoretically, a prisoner can be arraigned before the United States commissioner at any time, but practically, the commissioner is not always available.

In any case, as long as the prisoner can contact his family, friends or attorney—a right he has, except in rare instances—he can force the police to bring him into court through a writ of habeas corpus. The court must then determine the legality of the detention.

The writ is regarded as fundamental to the preservation of civil liberty. The Constitution provides: "The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion of the public safety may require it."

place of his birth, to "raise pigs" and muse by the fire.

A Conservative in politics, a successful ironmaster in business and a steadfast churchman, Baldwin often was described as the "most English of Englishmen."

A firm believer in British-American cooperation he said many times that "close collaboration" between the two nations would rid the world of war, although he acknowledged that "it might take 100 years" to bring this about.

Baldwin served as Prime Minister from May 25, 1923, to January 22, 1924; from November 6, 1924, to June 4, 1929; and from June 7, 1935, to May 28, 1937. He described the post as the "loneliest job in the world." He was leader of the Conservative Party—a position now held by Winston Churchill—from 1923 to 1937.

In 1926 Baldwin smashed the general strike in Britain and then refused to take punitive measures against the organizers. He also was instrumental in giving five million women the vote by his equal franchise bill, which put all women from 21 to 30 on the polling lists.

In May, 1929 the voters, including women, voted him out of power and the late Ramsay MacDonald came in as head of a labor administration.

Baldwin was one of the first Britons to foresee the menace of nazism. He created a sensation in Commons on July 31, 1934, when he stated that "Britain's new frontiers are on the Rhine."

One of the little known incidents of his life was his anonymous gift to Britain after the first World War of one fifth of his estate for the reduction of the national debt.

In recent years Baldwin had lived quietly at his estate, Astley Hall, making only rare visits to London. His last public appearance was at the unveiling of the King George V memorial in the capital two months ago. He had been suffering from a slight cold for three or four days before his death.

He is survived by two sons and four daughters. The heir to his title is Viscount Corvedale, a labor member of Commons, whose elevation to the House of Lords will cause a by-election for the Commons seat. Countess Baldwin died two years ago.

Cremation is to take place in Birmingham, Wednesday or Thursday.

Arthur Walsh Dies; Former N. J. Senator

Arthur Walsh, 51, former Democratic Senator from New Jersey, died Saturday night in New York.

Mr. Walsh

Mr. Walsh, executive vice president of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., of West Orange, N. J., died at Memorial Hospital where he was admitted December 2. A member of the family said he had been "doing well" after an operation December 8 and that there was a sudden relapse.

A brother, Frank E. Walsh, said the former New Jersey State Director for the Federal Housing Administration underwent an abdominal operation for a growth which the family suspected was cancer and that the widow had authorized an autopsy "because it might help others, something that Arthur always wanted to do."

A native of Newark, Mr. Walsh began his long association with the Edisons in 1915 when he became a recording violinist for the late inventor. Edison noticed that the youthful musician had a keen business sense and took him into the firm.

A delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1936 and four years later Democratic presidential elector, Mr. Walsh served as campaign manager for Charles Edison, the inventor's son, in his successful bid for the Governorship in 1940.

Governor Edison appointed him to the Senate November 26, 1943, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. Warren Barbour, and he served until December 7, 1944.

Mr. Walsh also served as a commissioner of the Port of New York Authority, assistant housing administrator in Washington and held a number of other public offices.

He was educated in the Newark public schools, by private tutor and in the New York University School of Commerce.

Mr. Walsh was married in 1920 to the former Agnes Elizabeth Mulvey and they had one daughter, Barbara Louise.

Celebrities Take Ribbing

Trumans Attend Party Of Gridiron's Drones

By Marie McNair

STASSEN, Dewey, Taft and Eisenhower—yes, even President Truman, came in for a bit of ribbing at the party yesterday afternoon given by the Drones of the Gridiron Club at the Statler Hotel.

President Truman and the First Lady were there to enjoy the Gridiron Club, in high good form, give a repeat performance of the musical program of the show put on the night before at the midwinter Gridiron dinner.

The Drones—those members of the club who take no active part in the dinner entertainment—yesterday said farewell to Harold Talburt, retiring president of the club, and Mrs. Talburt, and welcomed the new president, Phelps Adams of the New York Sun, and Mrs. Adams, who stood with the Talburts to greet the guests.

Before they took their places to hear the singing, guests gathered for cocktails to await the arrival of the President, Mrs. Truman, and the President's aides, Gen. Harry Vaughan and Admiral James Foskett, with Mrs. Vaughan and Mrs. Foskett, who made up the Presidential party.

Cabinet Present

Celebrities were a dime a dozen in the throng. There were Chief Justice Fred Vinson and Mrs. Vinson, with saffron-colored feathers on her hat, smiling their way through the room; Justice and Mrs. Robert H. Jackson, who came with the Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall, the latter in royal blue from the feathers on her hat to the hem of her smart frock.

The Attorney General and Mrs. Tom Clark were there and the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Julius Krug, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Clinton Anderson, the Secretary of Labor, Lewis Schwellenbach, with Mrs. Schwellenbach, wearing a gay hat of blue tulle and pale roses.

Mrs. Truman's black gown was covered with a mink jacket and her small rolled-brim hat of mustard-colored velvet had a black ribbon chou at the side.

Ladies Wore Black

The ladies in the receiving line both wore black and both had orchid corsages—Mrs. Talburt's white and purple tipped, Mrs. Adams' of a deep purple.

If former Gov. Harold Stassen and Senator Robert Taft were in the room, their faces escaped me. I did see Speaker of the House Joe Martin holding a "caucus" with movie star, Adolph Menjou one of the number. The Brazilian Ambassador, Carlos Martins, was there, talking to Mrs. Robert Olds. Mme. Martins, all done up in a brown ballerina length taffeta frock, was in a group which included the Leslie Biffles.

Bobby Clark was there, too, and just as entertaining offstage as he is in "Sweethearts" at the National.

John Hamilton, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, brought along his pretty bride; the Argentine Ambassador, Dr. Oscar Ivanissevich, was accompanied by Mme. Ivanissevich, and Carroll Reese, present chairman of the Republican Party, was bestowing confidential smiles.

Presidential Adviser Clark Clifford and Mrs. Clifford, Presidential Assistant and Mrs. John Steelman, Justice and Mrs. Harold Burton, Representative and Mrs. Mike Monroney helped to keep the laughs going as the program rolled merrily on. Still others were Judge and Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, Philippine Ambassador Joaquin Elizalde, Robert Lincoln O'Brien, A. H. Kirchofer of Buffalo, N. Y., who stood for a while in the receiving line; former Secretary of State and Mrs. James F. Byrnes, Gen. and Mrs. Conger Pratt, Mrs. George Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fleming, Jouett Shouse and the noted showman, Gene Buck, whom I suspect, the Gridiron boys had called in to help with their big show. With him was Mrs. Buck and their son, Lieut. George Buck, 3d, of the Air Force.

Presiding in turn at the "white Christmas" tea table were Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne, wife of the Norwegian Ambassador; Mrs. Harry Andrews, wife of the South American Minister; Mrs. Wilbur Carr and Mrs. Wade Ellis.

Last night following the National Symphony Orchestra concert at Constitution Hall, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe combined forces to give a buffet supper for the soloist of the afternoon, Dame Myra Hess, the distinguished British pianist.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Professional Man, Who Came to This Country Alone, an Immigrant at the Age of 11 Years, Makes Wife a Martyr to His Neurotic Anxiety

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband came to this country alone at the age of 11, an immigrant boy from a poverty-stricken background. When I married him, he was well established professionally; but he still had no sense of security.

He was craving love, which he said he'd never had, and a future free of insecurity. Having enjoyed a full life myself, I understood him and set out to give him love and cooperation.

In the years of our marriage I've always worked hard and often been forced to play the miser unnecessarily. I have managed rental units, while doing all my own housework and most of my sewing; have taught my children music and been a close friend to them, and in addition was always reading to improve myself.

Nowadays Man Beats His Wife

HOWEVER, it seems the more I was willing to do, the less satisfied he became; and when finally I was going at top speed, I was still unable to keep up with his expectations and self-pity. Today our future seems very secure to me, financially; but never does it seem so to him.

When our children were small he had a neurotic intolerance of their crying. I notice around me that all little children cry a lot; but in our case he made me believe it was all my fault,—that I was giving them "complexes." In any event, I've reached a point where I can't hear any child cry without feeling personal remorse and fear.

After our last child was born I became extremely sensitive to his criticism. I couldn't tolerate any more. Then our trouble started. He has been bullying and beating me ever since.

May I add that our children are perfectly healthy, due to good care, and the elder ones have blossomed into unusually fine young people. They all love me dearly. Please tell me, have I failed anywhere?

C. G.

Wife Undertook The Impossible

DEAR C. G.: If your husband asked you to arrange a trip to the moon for him, you would think his demand was impossible, yes? Well, his idea—and yours—that superhuman exertions on the part of his wife should "cure" his insecurity feelings is just as impossible of fulfillment.

Now, to give some insight into what ails him: One person isn't so different from another at the time of birth, insofar as latent instinctual readiness to form healthy love-ties is concerned.

However, just as the infant needs physical care to keep him alive, social training to help him spell out the survival-value of reasoned self-restraint, etc., so also does he need love-comfort—and this most of all—to induce healthy emotional growth.

Man's Reacting To Ancient Hurt

REFERENCES to your husband's family background indicate that he was acutely deprived on that score: that his earliest sensations were keyed to instinctive awareness that he was unloved and unwanted by poverty-stricken parents.

In such case, when the "little stranger's" love-hunger is snubbed and thwarted in its first gropings toward feeling-closeness with a protector, he automatically experiences two bad results: 1. A sense of psychic aloneness, ineffably frightening, overtakes him. 2. His libido energy (his emotional drive) turns back on himself, taking the "neurotic" form of obsessively anxious self-concern and compulsive efforts at self-sufficiency.

Something of the sort happened to your husband, and such was his fixed emotional pattern at the time he married you. And from then until now he has grown increasingly peculiar, harsh and fearful. Why? Because unconsciously, due to his chronic infantile panic, he terribly resents having to take on the burden of economic responsibility to wife and children, as a price to be paid in quest of love-security.

Man Sorely Needs Specialist Help

THUS you see why your efforts to please, soothe, or normalize him have been in vain. You've never understood him, really; but still less does he understand himself. The only help for him is psychoanalytic help; and even that won't do him much good unless he brings intelligent willingness to bear, and steadfastly does most of the spadework himself, in trying to review and dissolve those ingrained infantile traumatic tensions which keep him a stranger to peace of mind.

As matters stand, his treatment of you is barbarous. He is the brute who spurs a willing horse to collapse, then beats and reviles the expiring victim of his selfishness. In self-respect, you should call a halt on such abuse; and as for imagining that you've given him cause for disappointment, don't be ridiculous. By rational standards of deportment, you've been a martyr and he a crackpot.

Safety Rules Are Important In Know-How of Bathing Baby

The daily bath—when baby kicks his legs and splashes in the water—is often the most delightful part of his routine.

The mother who keeps the rules of safety in mind will feel more confident and enjoy the bath as much as her wriggling offspring.

Obey Rules Of Safety
When You Bathe Baby

Make sure the tub is on a solid support and cannot fall; never put baby in the tub while it is on a stove or heater.

Make certain the bath water is tepid, since hot water will burn delicate skin . . . and never leave baby alone in the tub.

Don't use a toothpick or any sharp instrument to clean nose or ears no matter how well you have covered the implement with cotton.

Safety pins should be placed out of reach and you should support the neck and back of a young baby when he is not lying flat.

Most important—a baby covered with soapsuds is a slippery little rascal. Hold him firmly so he cannot squirm out of your hands.

The items you need for an oil bath as well as soap-and-water bath are listed in our Reader Service booklet No. 203. Chapters on baby's clothes, food, sleep and toilet habits.

Please Baby With Toys He Can Handle

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The easiest person for whom to buy a toy, in these days of feverish toy buying, is the baby. He, at least, is indiscriminating. Anything which he can hold in his hands and look at, shake, listen to and lick or bite upon, will invite his interest. It is essential because of the way he uses a toy—getting mad if he can't stuff it into his mouth—that it should be one which will resist the teeth and tongue without harm to baby. Never mind the toy.

As the child develops to an age when the arm, hand and fingers take precedence over the eye and ear, give toys which encourage their exercise. Anything to toss; toys which inspire the use of the fingers and toys which help the child to cover territory in ways other than by means of hands, knees and feet.

From 18 months to 3½ years the child will come into more skillful use of his fingers. The parent cannot make a mistake if she buys large beads and blocks, dolls and toy animals, sectional toys of simple design and all types of riding or locomotion toys, those the child sits on and rides and those he pushes around the floor with his hands. Remember, the larger the toy the more satisfying to the child. If it has heft and he can lug it about, it gives his muscles a delightful pull.

But a word of warning! Better buy one good toy than several of those of flimsy construction and quick destruction. If there is little money to be spent on toys choose those which are cheap to make, not those which are made cheaply.

Year 'Round Giving Advised By Educator

New York.—Christmas giving 365 days a year is the new concept of the holiday advised by Dr. Robert Tyson of Hunter College, New York.

But giving as Dr. Tyson interprets it in an article in the December Journal of Living does not mean only gifts that are bought. He analyzes giving as a wonderful mixture of consideration for other people, a sort of fatherly or motherly kindness and a generous share in the other person's pleasure.

Gifts of time and attention, a willingness to understand people's problems and an offering of useful ideas and suggestions are among the most precious of all because essentially that Christmas glow is solidly based on human satisfactions.

Such giving, declares Dr. Tyson, is always fun—any time you choose to enjoy it. So when you pause this Christmas to enjoy holiday pleasures, remember that the best of them are available throughout the year.

"Don't look too hungry . . . or they won't take us in!"

'Old Look' Means Feet Are Hurting

By Ida Jean Kain

It has been estimated that during the Christmas shopping season the average woman trudges 11 miles a day! A national poll reveals that one out of every three has foot trouble. So the "old look" this season is that unmistakable facial expression: "My feet are killing me."

Well, treat yourself to a present. Make an appointment with a foot specialist—who may be listed under podiatrist or chiropodist—and have corns, calluses and bunions trimmed and then cushioned with felt padding to help your feet stand the strain. And for all shopping wear a good pair of shoes that support your feet—shoes with a solid heel base—to carry you comfortably along.

And speaking of shoes, that "new and narrow look" is not for you if your feet are short and wide, so don't try to wear them. I may be wrong, but the new shoe styles with extremely pointed toes do not make sense to me. Besides, they make the foot look a mile long.

Comfort Matters

In buying shoes, women are not as foolish as they used to be and do not try to make their feet appear dainty by crowding them into too small shoes. Big feet are stylish now, because our feet are getting bigger. But sometimes, through carelessness or habit, we get a half size too narrow or too short for ample toe room. There isn't enough difference in the looks of the size to matter, but there is in comfort! The difference between full sizes in shoe length is one-third inch; in width, one-fourth inch.

Not infrequently one foot is slightly larger than the other. The larger foot should be the one fitted of course and a pad inserted into the other shoe. A shoe that cramps your foot even a wee bit can cause a lot of trouble. And shoes that require considerable "breaking-in" before they are comfortable are at the same time breaking in your feet.

By the way, stockings shouldn't bind the toes either. Have them one-half inch longer than your toes when standing to allow enough room as the foot spreads with walking.

As first aid for tired feet, try alternate hot and cold water to stir up the circulation. Sit on the edge of the bathtub and let the water pour down over your feet and ankles . . . first warm, hot and then cold. Have another round or two and finish by rubbing briskly with a rough towel. Ah, that's better, you'll sigh. Then the next day you can get off on the right foot with your shopping.

Musty Eggs

Don't deceive yourself and think the slightly musty egg will not be noticed if cooked. It will spoil any dish in which it is used. Put it in a cup and show it to your dealer.

Holiday Pie

A HOLIDAY pie that's different is this one made of cranberries and raisins:

2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2-3 cup water
3 cups cranberries
1 cup raisins
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons butter

1 pastry recipe for a 2-crust pie

Blend together the flour, sugar, salt and water. Heat to boiling and add cranberries, raisins and lemon rind. Cook until cranberries start to pop, about 10 minutes. Add the butter and cool. Roll out half of the dough to fit a 9-inch pie pan. Fill with cranberry-raisin filling. Roll out remaining dough for top crust. Cut gashes to allow escape of steam. Moisten edges of lower crust. Place top crust over filling, trim edges, seal, and flute. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

A Full-Length Mirror

If you have no full-length mirror in the closet doors of your home, invest in one of the inexpensive separate mirrors that may be adjusted to the inside of the closet doors by means of screws. In this obscure place it will not matter if the mirror is more narrow than the door frame or it does not fit exactly and it will be just as useful as the full-door variety.

Your Questions on Homemaking

Easy way to cook Christmas puddings is in a new "pressure-quick" saucepan, recently introduced on the market. It takes only 45 minutes to steam three small puddings, chockful of fruit and spices, in this modern device. Sponsored by Betty Crocker, of General Mills, Inc., the pan is on sale in a number of Washington stores

Can you help me find some aluminum bread pans about 3½x7½x3 inches preferably? G. G. O'B.

As in some other commodities these days, the demand for bread pans exceeds the supply. However, the houseware's department of one Washington department store tells me that aluminum bread pans in the size you want and the larger size "are coming in all the time." If you have a charge account at one of the department stores why not give your order for such a pan to be delivered when they come in? The size you want is the pound loaf size. Or, write directly to one of the aluminum kitchen utensil manufacturers. Glass loaf pans in the pound size are available.

Could you tell me how to dye ostrich feathers? And where to buy the dyes? As a little girl I often watched the "trimmers" in my aunt's millinery establishment do this but, of course, was too young to observe what process was used. I have some light blue and rose feathers I would like to dye brown. M. P. F.

It seems that dying ostrich feathers is a lost art. There doesn't even seem to be anyone in Washington who will do it professionally for you. Perhaps some of our readers may know the process which is used. If you will send such information to us, we will be glad to see that M. P. F. gets it.

Our cat has scratched the top of my cedar chest, some very deep scratches, others light. Is there some way to eliminate these scratches? P.

The small scratches can be made less noticeable by rubbing with the meat of a pecan or walnut. If the finish on the chest is dark, the larger scratches can be taken out by applying iodine or a scratch-concealing polish with a bit of cotton on a toothpick. If both iodine and scratch-concealing polish are too dark, apply the wax from a wax crayon in a color to match the wood. It's better to melt the crayon and apply the wax to the scratch with cotton on a toothpick so none touches the area on either side of the scratch. When the scratches have been made to appear less noticeable one of these ways, give the chest a good polishing with either wax or furniture polish.

I spilled water on the red cloth binding of a book. The color came off in places, leaving white patches. Can anything be done to restore the color? K. H. B.

Since the color is entirely gone in the spots, there really isn't much you can do to restore the book completely short of having it rebound. The appearance might be improved by going over the surface of the book with a matching ink, but care must be taken not to get the cover soaked. The cloth in the book covers is stiffened with a starch base and too much moisture will soften it. Also, sometimes the color can be spread over the entire surface by going over the book with a damp sponge using a circular motion.

I have a sweater set that is partly brown wool and partly yellow chamois cloth. It soils very easily and professional cleaning runs too expensive. Would it be possible to launder the set at home, or would soap and water stiffen the chamois cloth? There doesn't seem to be any danger of the colors running. It is primarily a question of the material in the set. L. H. P.

If washed correctly, the chamois should not become stiff. Be sure to use a mild soap or castile and luke-warm water. Rinse well and squeeze the water out. Do not wring. When almost dry, soften the chamois by working with the hands. There is one point you should keep in mind before trying to wash it: The fact that the colors did not run when dry cleaned professionally is not a guarantee that they will be fast when washed in water. So, before immersing the entire garment, moisten a corner of the dark brown to see if it is color fast in water. Press the moistened spot on a piece of white cleansing tissue. If any color at all is left on the tissue, I would not take a chance on washing the set.

Is there any way to brighten and polish a beautiful bronze floor lamp? B. A.

To polish solid bronze or bronze plate, clean frequently with a good metal polish. Use brush on carved designs. Let the polish dry thoroughly, then rub with a piece of flannel to bring up the sheen. Since some modern lamps are made of a lacquered alloy that looks like bronze but may react unfavorably to metal polish, it would be a good idea to try out the polish first on an inconspicuous part of the lamp unless you're sure it is real bronze.

Reminders For the Cook

Colorful oilcloth shades corresponding with the color scheme of the room are both effective and practical for the kitchen. They add a cheerful note and at the same time may be washed free of grease at intervals, thus presenting a clean appearance at all times.

If the cook book has become soiled and spotted from too many encounters with the kitchen table, why not make it a cover of flowered oilcloth? It will cover all its faults and at the same time give it a surface which may be wiped off in the future.

As soon as you arrive in the kitchen to prepare breakfast, turn on both faucets and let the water that has lain in the pipes all night drain off. By the time you are ready to make the coffee or tea you have a healthy fresh supply of water at hand.

Christmas Season Parties Underway

Churches, Clubs, Other Organizations Plan Affairs for Approaching Holiday

The Christmas season will get into full swing this week in Greater Washington as churches, clubs and other organizations mark the approaching holiday with religious, social and musical programs.

The Boys Club of Washington, along with many other groups, will follow the Christmas spirit by giving to the less fortunate. Members of the Eastern and Georgetown branches, assisted by affiliated clubs, will donate the gifts they might have received to the people of the District Training School in Laurel, Md. The gifts will be received at the Boys Club building, 17th and Massachusetts ave. se., until noon of the 24th.

The annual Christmas carol sing of the Engineers Council of George Washington University will be held at 5:30 o'clock tonight on Lisner terrace. A recording will be broadcast at 8 p. m. over WINX. The glee clubs and university students will participate.

Children of Georgetown House, 3224 N st. nw., will gather there at 4 p. m. today for a Christmas tree decoration party, making the decorations themselves. Tomorrow, the public is invited to buy Christmas gifts at a bazaar scheduled to open at the House at 4 p. m. The gifts were made by children of 6 to 12 years as part of their crafts project. At 8 p. m., tomorrow, a square dance will be held for parents and their friends.

A program of tableaux, orchestra selections and carols will be presented by the Woodrow Wilson High School musical groups at a meeting of the Home and School Association at the school at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

The Paul Junior High School Home and School Association will sponsor a Christmas pageant at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the school auditorium, consisting of a "song and story" program, built around the reading of "His Christmas Star."

Traditional Christmas carols will be sung by the Waterford Foundation A Cappella choir in a program scheduled for 8 p. m. on Thursday at the Carnegie Institution, 16th and P sts. nw. The audience will be invited to participate in part of the program.

At 12 noon on Thursday, the annual Christmas party of the Junior Board of Commerce will be held at the Burlington Hotel. There will be carol singing following a buffet luncheon. Members are asked to bring "a doll or a toy for a girl or boy."

The United States Air Force Band Concert Orchestra will play a Yuletide musical tribute to the wounded veterans of Walter Reed General Hospital at its 9 p. m. concert on Thursday at the Department of Interior auditorium. The general public is invited.

Scientists Hope to Light' Night Sky

Berkeley, Calif., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—University of California scientists revealed today they may soon develop an artificial aurora borealis which would illuminate the night sky as bright as the light of a full moon.

Writing in the alumni publication, California Monthly, Physicist Joseph Kaplan said the scheme would utilize the same principle as neon lights, in which electricity is directed through a tube filled with luminescent gases. He said the same gases abound in the upper stratosphere and could be made to glow by shooting powerful electronic beams into the air.

He said the light would closely resemble the aurora borealis, or northern lights, which are created by the sun's rays reacting on the stratospheric gases.

The scientist said the illumination would not be bright enough to interfere with sleep, but would greatly reduce night-driving hazards and might serve to curb after-dark crime.

Kaplan added that when scientists have found the most efficient type of electronic beam to use and design a transmitter powerful enough to project the energy hundreds of miles into space, they may also be able to dissipate rain and fog and otherwise influence the weather.

Researchers See Ground Rain-Making Possible

By The Associated Press

Rain making from the ground as well as from airplanes was envisaged in a report released by the Commerce Department last night.

The report was prepared by Dr. Irving Langmuir and others on research in man-controlled weather, conducted by the General Electric Co. under contract with the Army and Navy.

The report said "it should be possible to do the seeding of the cloud over great areas by means of silver iodine generators placed on the ground."

"The cost would be very low in comparison to that which requires that planes fly above the clouds," it added.

Very fine particles of silver iodine serve as effective cloud seeding agents at temperatures under five degrees below zero, centigrade, the report explained.

New Paneling May Curb Fires in Airplanes

Arlington, N. J., Dec. 14 (AP).—A new thin paneling which resists heat of more than 2000 degrees was announced today by E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co. for prospective use in sections of aircraft which might be subject to fire.

The material comprises two very thin sheets of carbon steel with a plastic core. Test sheets are one quarter inch thick and weigh less than one pound per square foot.

Doctors Ask Legal End for Incurables

New York, Dec. 14 (U.P.)—More than 1000 physicians have signed a petition asking the New York Legislature to legalize voluntary death for those who suffer from incurable illness, it was announced today.

The Euthanasia Society and a committee of 1776 physicians for legalization of voluntary euthanasia demanded in a petition sent to all legislators that euthanasia be brought into the open and "safeguarded against abuse."

Many incurable sufferers now seek release by suicide, the physicians said. They added that others "are secretly put out of their misery by relatives who can no longer stand the sight of their pain and are willing to render themselves liable to the penalty of murder."

The physicians proposed a plan under which euthanasia would be authorized by a court. Under the plan, the court, on receipt of a signed petition from the sufferer, would appoint a medical committee to investigate and make recommendations.

India Disturbances Believed at End

New York, Dec. 14 (AP).—Henry F. Grady, first American Ambassador to India, said today he was convinced the communal disturbances resulting from establishment of the independent states of India and Pakistan are over.

He told newsmen on his arrival from New Delhi tension still exists, however. Grady left by plane for Washington to confer with State Department officials.

Coupon Use Urged to Cut Chest Shortage

More contributions through the mail and wider use of newspaper Community Chest gift coupons were asked last night by anxious Chest leaders.

The Community Chest is nearly 20 per cent short of its goal.

In 17 days Chest-supported agencies in Washington, Arlington and four nearby caunties will start drawing on funds now being raised for their 1948 operation.

"Every dollar that comes in through the mail will help to whittle down the $826,258 deficit and will mean that much more money to be distributed among the 125 service agencies," Campaign Chairman Edward H. Foley, jr., said.

"The amount rased so far represents the generosity and thoughtfulness of 310,000 persons," Foley said. "However, there are many thousands able to share this great work who have not yet sent in their personal gifts.

"For these latter people, Washington papers are publishing a special Chest gift form. Prompt use of these forms can assist materially in our work."

Bust of Halsey Presented to Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 14 (AP).—A bronze likeness of Fleet Admiral William R. Halsey, the man "who commanded the most powerful fleet ever placed in action by any nation," was presented to the Naval Academy Museum today.

Harold E. Stassen, Republican presidential aspirant and former flag secretary under Halsey, made the statement in formally turning over the sculpture to the Academy.

"I am naturally deeply touched and grateful and at the same time very humble," Halsey said. "I like to think that this bust does not represent me—although it is supposed to look like me—but the lion-hearted team of men that I had serving under me during the war."

Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., superintendent of the Academy, received the bust, executed by Wheeler Williams of New York and presented on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gossett of Charleston, S. C.

Miss Kitty's Cleopatra

She's Ever Regal And Why Not?

By Richard L. Coe

THE GENERAL NOTION that Cleopatra was a hip-swaying floozy has raised some criticism about Katharine Cornell's production of "Antony and Cleopatra" which seems to us quite unwarranted.

Miss Kitty's spacious version of the Shaespearean tragedy at New York's Martin Beck Theater is one of great physical beauty and fine to competent acting. What reflections the New York critics have cast on the play are at the Cornell conception of Cleopatra.

The boys—and that includes the erudite Brooks Atkinson, who called her "a royal slut"—seem to have Shakespeare's and history's queen confused with the dame who has coined money for French novelists, music hall comedians and comic strip artists.

The night watchmen complain that Miss Cornell's Cleopatra isn't sexy enough, that Miss Kitty is "too much the lady" for such a role. Had they dipped into Shakespeare's play and some of the few historical facts that are known about Cleopatra, they wouldn't have gotten her confused with the hootchy-koochy nymphomaniac they all seem to have looked for on the stage of the Martin Beck.

For Cleopatra was every inch a queen. She was married to her two great lovers, Caesar and Antony, though both did have other wives. Her children by both were recognized as official heirs. Even the unfriendly Plutarch writes that when Antony indulged in "rude or soldierly jests, Cleopatra gave it to him finely and without fear." Her sense of the regal, however luxuriant, was as impressive, scholars say, as Victoria's.

And in Shakespeare's text you'll not find juicy love scenes between his two protagonists. They are never alone together on stage; the female role was written at a time when boys played female parts. The playwright distinctly writes of her as a regal personage. Much of her charm comes from the fact that he sees her as a queen and, with the genius of his verse, gilds the lily of Plutarch's famous description of her barge—"like a burnished Throne, burnt on the water."

True, Enobarbus remarks: "Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety: other women cloy the appetites they feed, but she makes hungry where most she satisfies. For vilest things become themselves in her, that the holy priest bless her when he is riggish."

Riggish she was, right enough, to Shakespeare's eyes—and he was writing of a woman who, in the custom of her even then faroff time and country, had first married her brother. But her actions in the play are intellectual, passionate though her yen is for Antony.

And this, too, mind you is much more Antony's play than Cleopatra's, another facet that seems to have escaped the eyes of men accustomed to the Cleopatra of romantic imaginations. It is essentially his story, his temptations, his fall.

With Godfrey Tearle playing a completely credible Antony, Miss Cornell's production suggests this clearly. The importance of securing an actor who could create such an illusion is underscored by the fact that Tearle's success in the role last year in London made possible this production.

True, Miss Cornell is not always a harmone-stirring person (and one feels a trifle odd defending her portrait at such length), though her Juliet of a decade ago was certainly physical enough, impressionable as we were at the time. But her present role of finely played, beautifully spoken (a rare thing, that) and certainly depicts a queen maddeningly in love.

One may quarrel with the lack of cuts in the Cornell version, but on re-reading it several days after watching the performance, we've found we remember each scene vividly (Though at the time our mind had been wondering what they make theater seats out of.) It rather surprised us to find Miss Cornell playing the death scene seated on a throne and not lying down as one might expect of a dying person, however, regal, but it made for an immensely dramatic scene.

Besides the able Tearle, the company boasts a fine Enobarous in Kent Smith, of the films, who speaks most effectively. Ivan Simpson's Lepidus has authority and Ralph Clanton looks the part as Octavius. As Charmian, Lenore Ulric's accent suggests the Bronx. Two minor roles, by the way, are played by Washingtonians—Rudulph Watson and Anthony Randall.

Staged by Guthrie McClintic, the production couldn't be handsomer, with striking settings by Leo Kerz and costumes by John Boyt and Valentina.

TODAY: Bobby Clark's "Sweethearts" enters its second week at the National and we repeat, "if it means mortgaging the old homestead, the heck with the old homestead" . . . Seats go on sale for E street's next, "I Remember Mama," the John van Druten play starring Charlotte Greenwood.

During 1947 Washington Post staff photographers made many great pictures, so no attempt was made to select the best. That would have required more than just this page to do the job.

Our readers will remember these five newsphotos, which may be called representative of the work done by members of the photo staff. They are, in alphabetical order, Charles Del Vecchio, Arthur Ellis, Harry Goodwin, Gene Jones, Thomas Kelley, William Klemm and Henry Rohland.

Kann's Fire— Washington's most spectacular fire—the four-alarm blaze October 14 in the warehouse of S. Kann Sons Co., 314 8th st. nw. Thousands of spectators saw firemen using all types of the city's fire-fighting apparatus bring the fire under control. Damage was estimated at $100,000. A dramatic moment came when the building front, the first three floors of the brick wall, collapsed and gave watchers a view of the fury of the blaze inside.

1947 Worst Disaster Year In U. S. History

The United States has had the most destructive series of major disasters in its history this year, the American Red Cross reports.

Almost every possible trouble—whether natural or man-made—that can plague communities of human beings, struck us during the 11 months ended December 1. In that period, there were 287 disasters requiring Red Cross aid.

Death Total of 1266

Red Cross records show that 1266 persons died in the 287 calamities—about twice as many victims as in 1946—and 7969 were injured.

In a year of continued housing shortages, as the agency points out, more than 81,000 buildings, mostly homes, were destroyed or damaged. And in a year of international food shortages hundreds of thousands of acres of America's most productive farmlands and richest pastures were permanently ruined by erosion, or made useless for the year by floods.

Fires led the list of calamities, numerically speaking, with the Red Cross called in on 141 major ones. There were 50 floods, 41 tornadoes, three hurricanes, 21 other severe storms, 30 explosions, besides minor earthquakes, transportation wrecks and other serious accidents.

Ten Million Dollars Allocated

More than 10 million dollars was allocated by the American National Red Cross in the 11-month period to assist 305,682 victims of disasters.

The worst toll in casualty and property losses, and the highest Red Cross relief expenditures, were due to five major catastrophes, all differing widely in nature, location and problems involved.

These were the Texas and Oklahoma tornadoes in April; the Texas City explosions and fire, also in April, which took some 500 lives and inflicted more than 3500 injuries; the June floods in seven Midwestern and Eastern States; the Florida-Gulf States hurricane and prolonged floods during September, and the devastating New England forest fires in October.

Rehabilitation Goes on

Rehabilitation work is still being carried on at the scenes of these major disasters. At Texas City, for instance, where the Red Cross spent $1,426,000 in aiding nearly 9000 persons, 41 medical cases continue to receive care.

Reconstruction also is continuing in the Woodward, Okla., tornado area, the flood States and the forest fire area of New England. An emergency allocation of one million dollars was made for relief while the fires still raged in Maine and other States, and additional funds are to be provided for rebuilding.

Nobel Prize Winner Offers Peace Plan

Placing of the Panama Canal under international control was included in a three-step program to secure world peace proposed yesterday by Miss Emily Greene Balch, 1946 Nobel Prize winner.

Miss Balch, who is attending the National Council for Prevention of War conference here, spoke at a luncheon sponsored by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at the Burlington Hotel.

The peace proposals included internationalizing of strategic waterways, putting the North and South Poles out of bounds for national conquests and establishing a limited executive power for the United Nations.

The current campaign for peacetime conscription was attacked by Dr. Richard B. Kennan, secretary of the peace commission of the National Education Association, at the afternoon session of the conference at the Friends Meeting House, 2111 Florida ave. nw.

He described the "thought police" system which he said Army officers had told him "makes it dangerous for them to speak, even in private groups, in disapproval of programs, such as universal military training, which the military hierarchy is anxious to have established."

Universal military training also was criticized by Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, who termed it "a domestic adaptation of the Hitler Youth movement."

The conference will close today with a mass meeting in the auditorium of the National Press Building at 8 p. m.

Distillers Asked To Ration Grain, Forego Wheat

The Cabinet Food Committee yesterday recommended that the whisky distilling industry ration itself to 2,500,000 bushels of grain a month and forego the use of wheat when the distillery holiday ends December 24.

In a letter to distillers, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, chairman of the Cabinet body, proposed that the new plan be carried out "during the next six months and so long thereafter as the need for grain conservation continues."

The proposed grain consumption compares with a usage of eight million bushels in October immediately prior to the Nationwide shutdown, and an average of five million bushels monthly in the 12 months which ended last June 30.

Signal Corps Makes Own Blizzards

Fort Monmouth, N. J., Dec. 13 (U.P.).—The Army Signal Corps demonstrated today how it can product an Arctic blizzard with 40 below zero temperature and snow banks whipped up by a howling wind.

This man-made blizzard is produced right here in a test chamber of the Signal Corps laboratories. The chamber is slightly larger than a four-room house.

Purpose of the experiment is to simulate Arctic conditions.

"Besides providing a reproductable test condition simulating Arctic climate found in natural environments, the man-made snow in sub-zero atmosphere eliminates much of the disadvantages and expense of transporting equipment and personnel to far-flung locations for on-the-screen tests," the corps announced.

The Signal Corps scientists not only can produce a blizzard, but the test chambers here also can simulate any climatic condition, including 190 degrees, fog or rain, from a drizzle to 2 inches per hour.

Supersonic Knife Cuts Thinnest Yet

Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP).—A new knife that whirls at 800 miles an hour could slice you an invisible ham sandwich just four millionths of an inch thick.

It goes so fast that the actual cutting may be done by a supersonic shock wave traveling ahead of the blade.

It spins faster than the speed of sound in air and cuts so fine you need a microscope to find the slivers of metal, bone, other materials it slices off. It could snip a few cells off your fingertip without any pain, taking fewer cells than you would lose by rubbing your finger on a table top.

Thicker Than Razor Blade

The knife is an ultra-microtome for cutting extremely thin sections of materials for examination of their structure under the powerful eye of the electron microscope.

It was demonstrated and described today to the Electron Microscope Society of America by Harvey B. Merrill of Custom Scientific Instruments, Arlington, N. J., the makers, and Ernest E. Fullam of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., who has been conducting experiments with it.

The blade, made of a special steel alloy, is an inchlong and has a cutting edge as keen as a razor blade, but the rest of it is several times thicker than a razor blade. Anything as thin as a razor blade would flutter too much.

The blade is mounted in a slot on the rim of a disc spun by an electric motor at a speed of 1250 feet per second, with 60,000 revolutions per minute. The average electric fan spins at 1750 r.p.m.

The sliced sections are blown into a collecting tunnel at a rate of 1000 a second. A big pile looks like a little bit of dust. The "meat" to be cut is frozen in liquid nitrogen to prevent frictional heat from destroying it. The whole thing is encased in a protective chamber.

Too Fast to Photograph

The blade's speed is so great that so far no photographs have shown how or whether the blade does the actual cutting. Some evidence supports a theory that a shock wave set up ahead of the blade edge does the cutting. This supersonic wave travels faster when it hits the solid object, since sound speeds faster through solids than air. Thus the shock wave may slice through the material before the blade edge arrives.

Advantages of the knife, they added, are that more kinds of things, including brass and pure iron, stones and plastics, can be cut with it or sliced in thinner sections. With the electron microscope, their structure then can be studied in quests to learn what happens to metals or other materials under different conditions, how bone is formed or what happens in tooth decay.

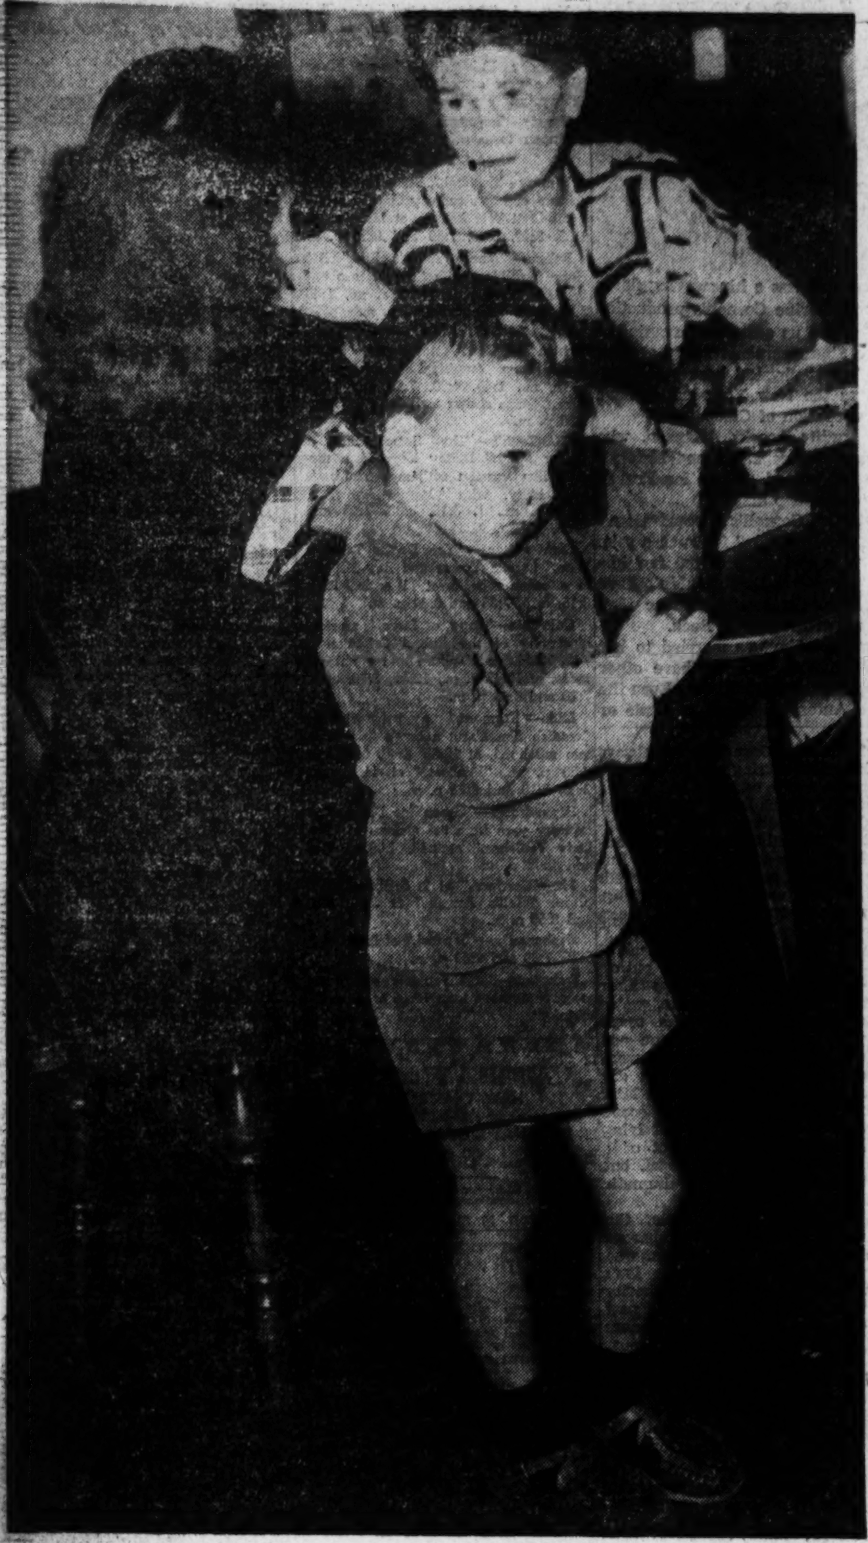
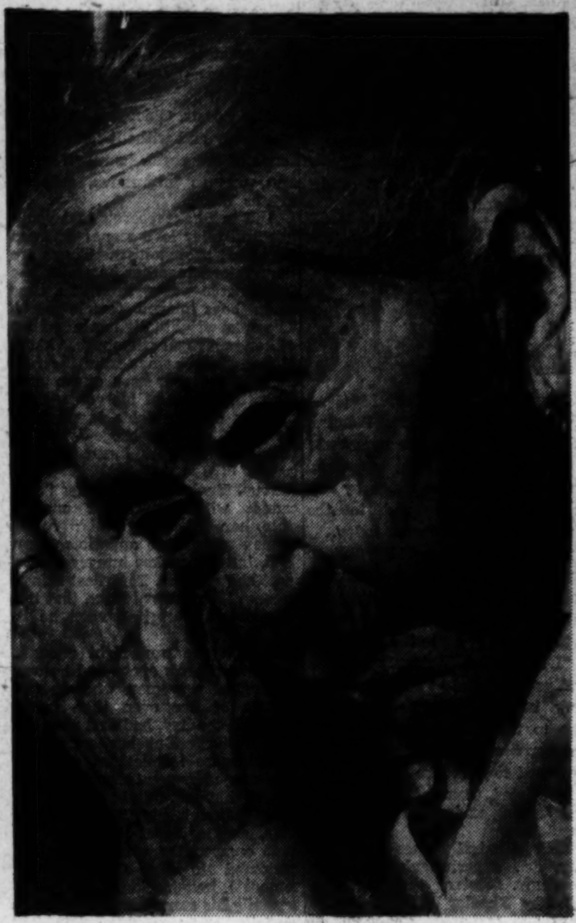
During 1947 Washington Post staff photographers made many great pictures, so no attempt was made to select the best. That would have required more than just this page to do the job.

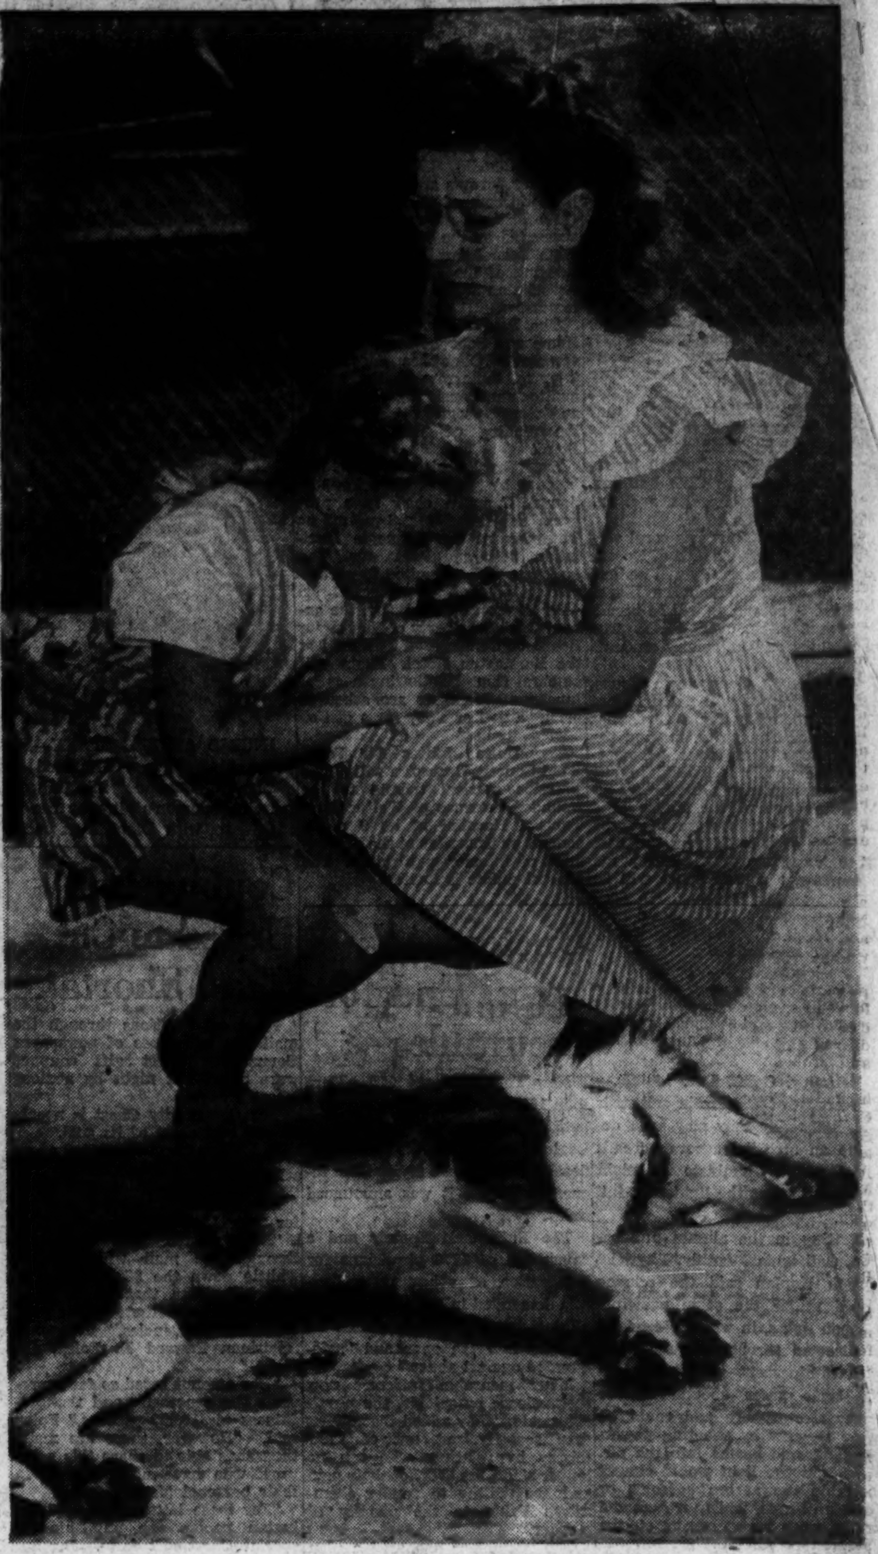
Our readers will remember these five newsphotos, which may be called representative of the work done by members of the photo staff. They are, in alphabetical order, Charles Del Vecchio, Arthur Ellis, Harry Goodwin, Gene Jones, Thomas Kelley, William Klemm and Henry Rohland.



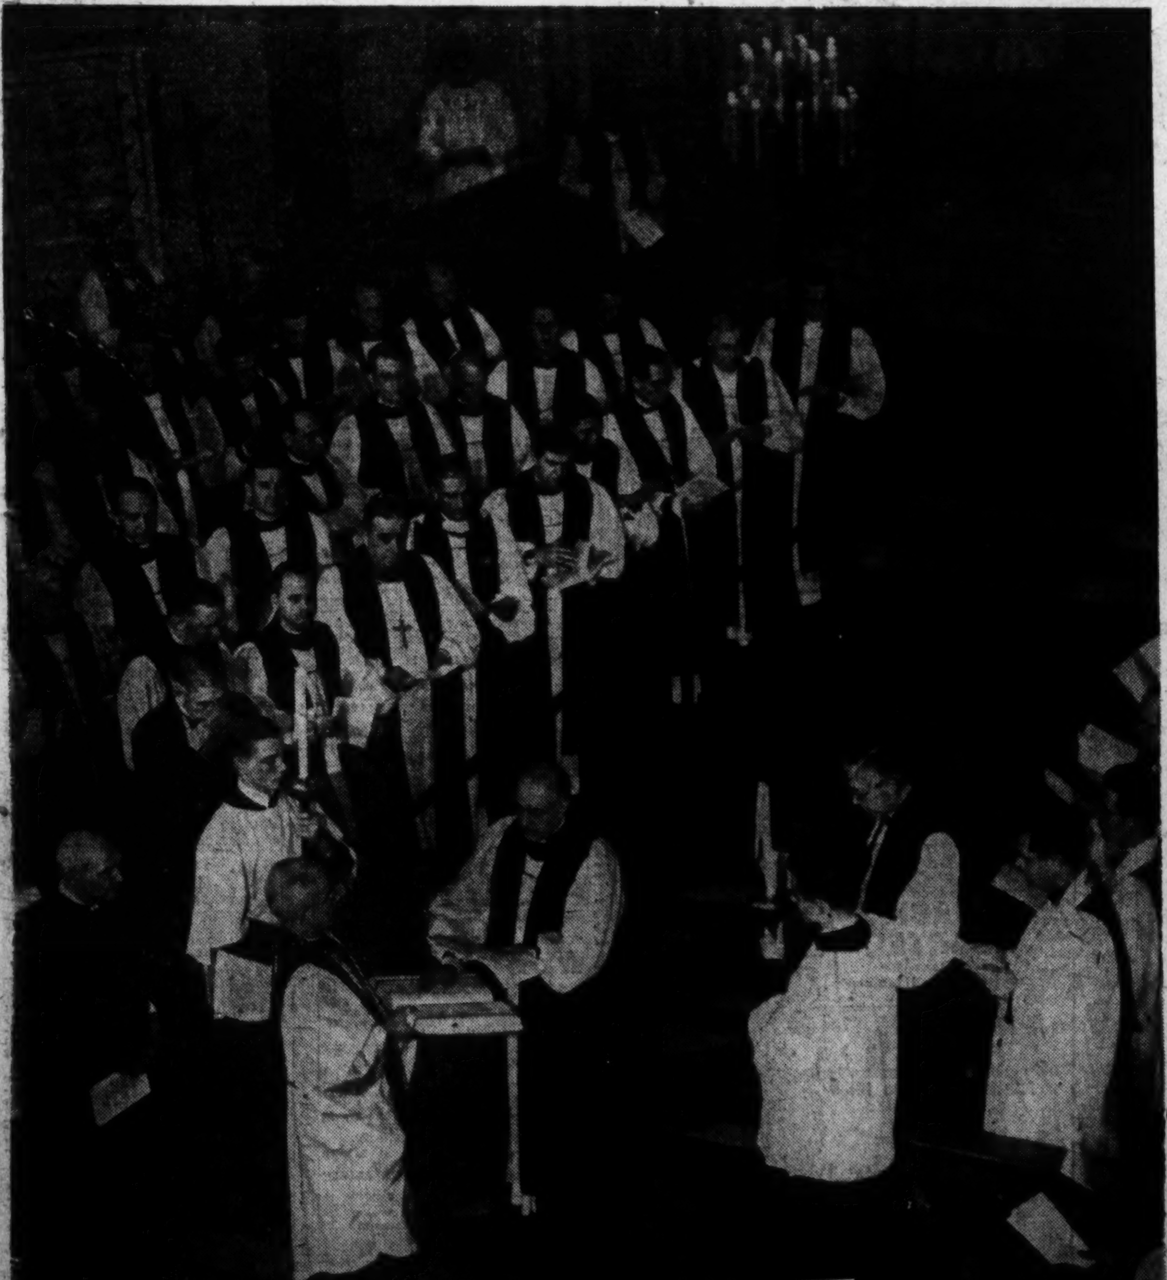
School Opens—Stephen Lee Fisher, obviously dreaming of his summer vacation, looks downcast as his mother, Mrs. Marion Fisher, of 1735 New Hampshire ave. nw., registers him for school September 18 at the John Quincy Adams, 19th and California sts. nw. The principal is Mrs. Florence Cornell



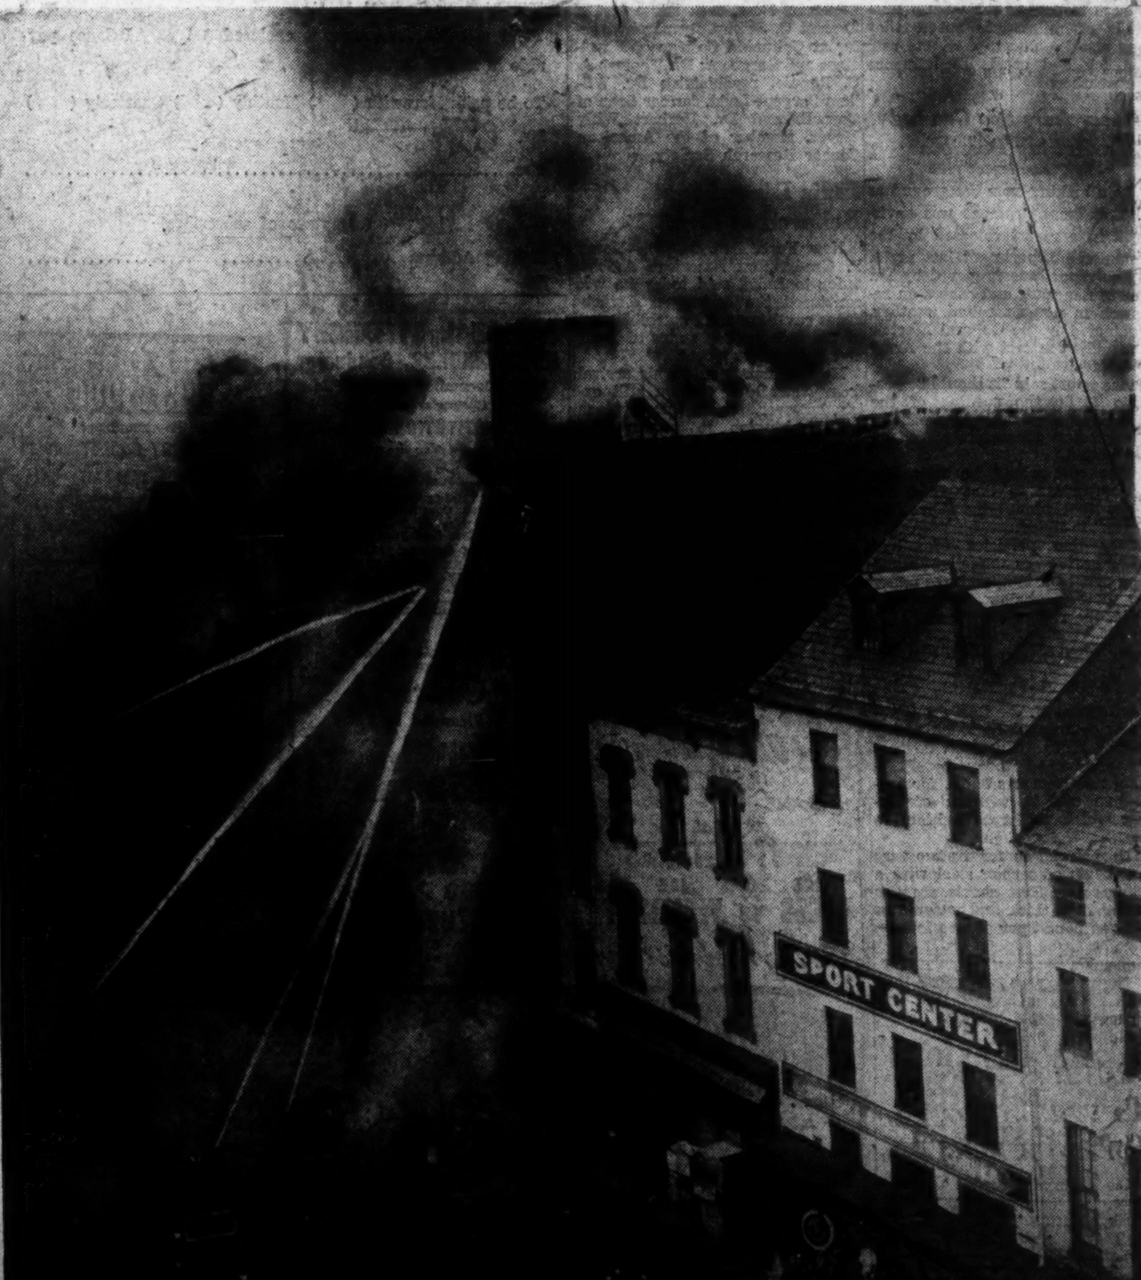
Portrait—This outstanding character study is of Mrs. Flora B. Hiett, of East Falls Church, Va., who observed her 103d birthday anniversary August 17. Her only complaint—she was bored with life. "All I can do is just sit in a chair," said she



'Starlet's' Death—This was the unhappiest day in 7-year-old Carolyn Porter's young life. It was August 29, the day her pet, "Starlet," a pedigreed collie pup was killed by a truck in front of her house, 7717 Chicago ave., Takoma Park, Md. Mrs. May Porter comforts her daughter



New Bishop—His hand on the Standard Book of Common Prayer, the Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, repeats the oath of office before the Very Rev. John Wallace Suter, Dean of Washington Cathedral, in the historic ceremony January 14 in the center of the chancel. Bishop Sherrill succeeded the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker (standing at right), who retired



Kann's Fire—Washington's most spectacular fire—the four-alarm blaze October 14 in the warehouse of S. Kann Sons Co., 314 8th st. nw. Thousands of spectators saw firemen using all types of the city's fire-fighting apparatus bring the fire under control. Damage was estimated at $100,000. A dramatic moment came when the building front, the first three floors of the brick wall, collapsed and gave watchers a view of the fury of the blaze inside.

1947 Worst Disaster Year In U. S. History

The United States has had the most destructive series of major disasters in its history this year, the American Red Cross reports.

Almost every possible trouble—whether natural or man-made—that can plague communities of human beings, struck us during the 11 months ended December 1. In that period, there were 287 disasters requiring Red Cross aid.

Only two States escaped some kind of public misfortune, and residents of Alaska got their share.

Death Total of 1266

Red Cross records show that 1266 persons died in the 287 calamities—about twice as many victims as in 1946—and 7969 were injured.

In a year of continued housing shortages, as the agency points out, more than 81,000 buildings, mostly homes, were destroyed or damaged. And in a year of international food shortages hundreds of thousands of acres of America's most productive farmlands and richest pastures were permanently ruined by erosion, or made useless for the year by floods.

Fires led the list of calamities, numerically speaking, with the Red Cross called in on 141 major ones. There were 50 floods, 41 tornadoes, three hurricanes, 21 other severe storms, 30 explosions, besides minor earthquakes, transportation wrecks and other serious accidents.

Ten Million Dollars Allocated

More than 10 million dollars was allocated by the American National Red Cross in the 11-month period to assist 305,682 victims of disasters.

The worst toll in casualty and property losses, and the highest Red Cross relief expenditures, were due to five major catastrophes, all differing widely in nature, location and problems involved.

These were the Texas and Oklahoma tornadoes in April; the Texas City explosions and fire, also in April, which took some 500 lives and inflicted more than 3500 injuries; the June floods in seven Midwestern and Eastern States; the Florida-Gulf States hurricane and prolonged floods during September, and the devastating New England forest fires in October.

Rehabilitation Goes on

Rehabilitation work is still being carried on at the scenes of these major disasters. At Texas City, for instance, where the Red Cross spent $1,426,000 in aiding nearly 9000 persons, 41 medical cases continue to receive care.

Reconstruction also is continuing in the Woodward, Okla., tornado area, the flood States and the forest fire area of New England. An emergency allocation of one million dollars was made for relief while the fires still raged in Maine and other States, and additional funds are to be provided for rebuilding.

Nobel Prize Winner Offers Peace Plan

Placing of the Panama Canal under international control was included in a three-step program to secure world peace proposed yesterday by Miss Emily Greene Balch, 1946 Nobel Prize winner.

Miss Balch, who is attending the National Council for Prevention of War conference here, spoke at a luncheon sponsored by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom at the Burlington Hotel.

The peace proposals included internationalizing of strategic waterways, putting the North and South Poles out of bounds for national conquests and establishing a limited executive power for the United Nations.

The current campaign for peacetime conscription was attacked by Dr. Richard B. Kennan, secretary of the peace commission of the National Education Association, at the afternoon session of the conference at the Friends Meeting House, 2111 Florida ave. nw.

He described the "thought police" system which he said Army officers had told him "makes it dangerous for them to speak, even in private groups, in disapproval of programs, such as universal military training, which the military hierarchy is anxious to have established."

Universal military training also was criticized by Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, who termed it "a domestic adaptation of the Hitler Youth movement."

The conference will close today with a mass meeting in the auditorium of the National Press Building at 8 p. m.

Distillers Asked To Ration Grain, Forego Wheat

The Cabinet Food Committee yesterday recommended that the whisky distilling industry ration itself to 2,500,000 bushels of grain a month and forego the use of wheat when the distillery holiday ends December 24.

In a letter to distillers, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, chairman of the Cabinet body, proposed that the new plan be carried out "during the next six months and so long thereafter as the need for grain conservation continues."

The proposed grain consumption compares with a usage of eight million bushels in October immediately prior to the Nationwide shutdown, and an average of five million bushels monthly in the 12 months which ended last June 30.

Signal Corps Makes Own Blizzards

Fort Monmouth, N. J., Dec. 13 (UP).—The Army Signal Corps demonstrated today how it can product an Arctic blizzard with 40 below zero temperature and snow banks whipped up by a howling wind.

This man-made blizzard is produced right here in a test chamber of the Signal Corps laboratories. The chamber is slightly larger than a four-room house.

Purpose of the experiment is to simulate Arctic conditions.

"Besides providing a reproductable test condition simulating Arctic climate found in natural environments, the man-made snow in sub-zero atmosphere eliminates much of the disadvantages and expense of transporting equipment and personnel to far-flung locations for on-the-screen tests," the corps announced.

The Signal Corps scientists not only can produce a blizzard, but the test chambers here also can simulate any climatic condition, including 190 degrees, fog or rain, from a drizzle to 2 inches per hour.

Supersonic Knife Cuts Thinnest Yet

Philadelphia, Dec. 13 (AP).—A new knife that whirls at 800 miles an hour could slice you an invisible ham sandwich just four millionths of an inch thick.

It goes so fast that the actual cutting may be done by a supersonic shock wave traveling ahead of the blade.

It spins faster than the speed of sound in air and cuts so fine you need a microscope to find the slivers of metal, bone, other materials it slices off. It could snip a few cells off your fingertip without any pain, taking fewer cells than you would lose by rubbing your finger on a table top.

Thicker Than Razor Blade

The knife is an ultra-microtome for cutting extremely thin sections of materials for examination of their structure under the powerful eye of the electron microscope.

It was demonstrated and described today to the Electron Microscope Society of America by Harvey B. Merrill of Custom Scientific Instruments, Arlington, N. J., the makers, and Ernest E. Fullam of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., who has been conducting experiments with it.

The blade, made of a special steel alloy, is an inchlong and has a cutting edge as keen as a razor blade, but the rest of it is several times thicker than a razor blade. Anything as thin as a razor blade would flutter too much.

The blade is mounted in a slot on the rim of a disc spun by an electric motor at a speed of 1250 feet per second, with 60,000 revolutions per minute. The average electric fan spins at 1750 r.p.m.

The sliced sections are blown into a collecting tunnel at a rate of 1000 a second. A big pile looks like a little bit of dust. The "meat" to be cut is frozen in liquid nitrogen to prevent frictional heat from destroying it. The whole thing is encased in a protective chamber.

Too Fast to Photograph

The blade's speed is so great that so far no photographs have shown how or whether the blade does the actual cutting. Some evidence supports a theory that a shock wave set up ahead of the blade edge does the cutting. This supersonic wave travels faster when it hits the solid object, since sound speeds faster through solids than air. Thus the shock wave may slice through the material before the blade edge arrives.

Advantages of the knife, they added, are that more kinds of things, including brass and pure iron, stones and plastics, can be cut with it or sliced in thinner sections. With the electron microscope, their structure then can be studied in quests to learn what happens to metals or other materials under different conditions, how bone is formed or what happens in tooth decay.

Rare Disease Threatening Virginia Herds

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—Anaplasmosis, a cattle disease formerly rare in Virginia, has gained a foothold in some State herds and may reach epidemic proportions if precautionary steps are not taken, an Agricultural Extension Service official said.

Assistant Animal Husbandman M. L. Dalton said the disease similar to anemia in human beings, caused the loss of 16 head recently in one herd on the Eastern Shore.

Also known as yellow teat disease, anaplasmosis was described as being transmitted by insects, surgical instruments or any other agent capable of carrying blood from one animal to another. Dalton blamed its occurrence in Virginia on animals brought from other Southern States.

Only a few afflicted animals recover, Dalton said, and those which do will retain the parasite in their blood and serve as carriers.

He described symptoms in calves as listlessness for a few days, sometimes followed by apparent recovery, although the animal's blood remains infected. In older milk cows symptoms include stoppage of the milk flow, rise in temperature, and almost complete collapse.

Wise County Democrats Scoff at GOP Charges

Norton, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—Wise County Democrats said today Republican charges of irregularities during the 1947 November election were a "bugaboo" and had "no basis whatsoever."

Their answers were filed after a report from Earle Lutz, executive director of the Republican Party of Virginia, who said the GOP committee had voted $1000 to finance the cost of an investigation into Wise County voting procedures.

Lutz said he had received affidavits from individuals in the southwestern Virginia county charging that several persons violated voting laws during the recent election. Henry M. Bandy, Wise County member of the General Assembly and a member of the Democratic Party in Virginia, said there were no irregularities.

"I don't see what they can complain about," Bandy declared. "The Democrats worked hard and got out the vote. The Republicans didn't."

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

What's the Dollar Value of a Child's Health?

Here is a current report on streetcar tokens and cash received by Children's Hospital from District Liners.

To date, 38,832 tokens have come in. They've been redeemed by Capital Transit for $3236 in cash.

More than $1500 in bills and coins was enclosed with the tokens—swelling the total raised for the hospital's Building Fund to just short of $5000.

And no sooner had we finished our tabulation, than more contributions began to arrive, spearheaded by a $50 check from the Hardy Richardson Motor Sales people, out in Alexandria.

On behalf of the hospital staff, I've been asked to extend a sincere "thank you" to everybody who has participated in this worth-while work.

But I think we should be thanking them—for giving the community a service which cannot be measured in money.

"B" AS IN BONER

When an ATC transport met with an accident recently, the big press associations scrambled to get hold of the passenger list.

When the list appeared in print, it contained some unusual middle names—like "Jig," and "Tare."

Servicemen and former servicemen immediately understood what had happened.

In voice transmission of initials over armed services radio facilities, an initial is always followed by a clarifying word, to prevent errors.

However, the newsmen were unfamiliar with the system, and blundered. But it might have been worse. Here's the full list of check words in which they might have become ensnared:

Abel, Baker, Charlie, Dog, Easy, Fox, George, Howe, Item, Jig, King, Love, Mike, Nan, Oboe, Peter, Queen, Roger, Sugar, Tare, Uncle, Victor, William, X-ray, Yoke, and Zebra.

There are many other series, of course. The local police, for example, prefer:

M mother, B Boston, I Ida, R Robert, L Lincoln and so forth. And they insist on putting an "s" at the end of "Benning," in spite of all my efforts.

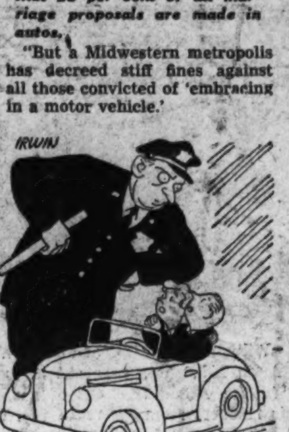
LOVE WILL FIND A WAY

Bob Brayton of 604 12th st. ne. calls attention to a new threat to our way of life.

"The institution of marriage is being rocked to its very foundations," he writes, "by legal restrictions placed in the path of our young men.

"A recent survey discloses that 25 per cent of all marriage proposals are made in autos.

"But a Midwestern metropolis has decreed stiff fines against all those convicted of 'embracing in a motor vehicle.'



"It is obvious that without a kiss—or at the very least an embrace—there isn't likely to be any proposal. What is this going to do to the institution of marriage?"

I'm not worried about that, Bob—but think of what it's going to do to the already overcrowded rear rows of our movies.

STREET SCENE

Polly Jones of 1731 New Hampshire ave. nw. is our reporter for this one:

One of Capital Transit's shiny new streamlined buses stalled near 18th st. and New Hampshire ave. nw. the other day.

For all its new automatic drive and gaily decorated interior, it was just as stuck as the old-fashioned kind used to get—and the driver was unable to get it started again.

After a good bit of fussing and fuming, he admitted defeat, and the passengers began to file through the exits to board another bus. Whereupon a doleful male voice from the rear called out:

"And just think, we have 49 more, exactly like this one—and 50 more on order."

GIVE-AWAYS

"We've just lost our 11-year-old canary, and we'll give his cage and stand to the first bird-lover who calls." (Emerson 6625 before 1 p. m.)

ADD NAMES

D. W. Wigle of Gaithersburg, Md., thinks we haven't even scratched the surface in our hunt for strange names.

He points out that Youbedamn Landing is one of the most interesting names in Virginia; that Bird In Hand is just east of Lancaster, Pa., and that there's an Echo in Oregon.

Very good—and I might add that you'll find T. B. in Maryland.

BUSINESS IN NILES CENTER ILL

Patty Kidney of 2121 R st nw. has a wonderful addition for our collection. As she approached the downtown area of Niles Center, Ill., Patty saw a sign which read:

"Slow Business District Ahead."

BY THE WAY—

David A. Jernigan of 1620 18th st. nw., wonders whether we've heard about the beekeeper whose slogan was:

"Honey from contented bees who beehive themselves."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Lou Clayton is one of the most avid gamblers in show business. One night, when he worked with Jackson & Durante at the Silver Slipper, he borrowed his wife's engagement ring by telling her that he needed it for new photographs—that his wearing a diamond ring in display-photos would stamp his as a class act. He hocked the ring, went to a floating crap game and won $98,000 from Arnold Rothstein and Nick the Greek . . .

The next night, when the game ended, he went straight to the Silver Slipper, placed the big bills on his dressing table, and asked George Raft, who then was a dancer at the club, to take one of the bills, buy a 50-cent collar Clayton needed, and to keep the change . . .

Three days later, after another big dice game, Clayton, broke, returned to the Silver Slipper, and suggested to Raft: "Don't YOU need a collar?"

The M. W. Gray Co. is publishing modernist Arnold Schoenberg's first organ composition, which they commissioned him to write. When they sent him the legal papers, the composer replied: "Your contract is even more incomprehensible than my music."

Alexander Lindey's new book, "Motion Picture Agreement, Annotated," is published at a list price of $35 a copy. It describes every form of movie contract with annotations of every case.

In the Sat. Rev. of Lit., Louis Fischer tells of John G. Winant's stay at the White House and of his moving to a second-class hotel in Washington. "At the White House I don't know what to do with my laundry," Winant explained. "Here I just make a bundle and give it to the chambermaid."

The Public Affairs Institute in Washington names Labor-Management Division after Fiorello LaGuardia Thursday which would have been his 65th birthday . . . Solly Krieger, the ex-fight champ, tells of a lush who has been under the table so many times that he's closed 18 auto deals . . . In his first film production, "Sleep My Love," Buddy Rogers plays the extra role of a Chinese guest at a Chinese wedding.

Into Toots Shor's restaurant last night came Joey Adams, the night club comic, and asked Mr. Shor to suggest a snack. "How about some tidbits," Shor suggested . . . "No. Keeps me awake," said Adams . . . "How about a roast beef or tongue sandwich," Shor continued. Adams repeated: "No. Keeps me awake" . . . "How about a salad," the proprietor said . . . "Keeps me awake," said Adams . . . "Why don't you take a nap," said Shor, "and order later?"

Nagasaki Secondary Target

By Drew Pearson

When Emperor Hirohito went to Hiroshima on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, he probably did not know that, but for the accident of a few Japanese clouds, another city would have felt the fury of the atom bomb instead of Nagasaki.

Butler

The inside story of the other hitherto unknown atom-bomb target—Kokura—has been one of the Army's closely guarded secrets ever since that fateful day—August 9, 1945. On that day Maj. Charles Sweeney took off from the island of Tinian with instructions to bomb Kokura, which had been reported by a United States observation plane as clear for bombing.

As he was taxiing down the runway, Sweeney detected trouble with a fuel pump. This meant he could not use 800 spare gallons of gasoline, which would cut him short and leave him little time to dally over Japan. But he took off anyhow, and headed straight for Kokura.

His orders were not to drop the bomb unless he could get a clear view of the target. By the time he reached Kokura, it was blanketed under a heavy fog. Several times he circled and zoomed over the city, searching for an opening, but it remained obscured. With gas running low, he nosed back across Kyushu Island toward Nagasaki—which, according to his orders, was a secondary target.

Like Kokura, Nagasaki was blotted out by clouds. Sweeney made a couple of runs and finally located a hole in the haze. It was not wide enough to permit clear vision, but Sweeney was too low on gas to carry the bomb back. Besides, he had read intelligence reports that the second bomb must be dropped if the Japanese were to be panicked into surrender. The bombing of Hiroshima had given the population a severe jolt, but he was told it would take the second bomb to flush out the frantic peace offer.

So, contrary to his instructions not to drop the bomb unless he had a clear view of the target, Sweeney ordered the bomb dropped by radar with only a small opening in the clouds for visual observation.

The rest is largely a matter of history. Nagasaki's business district was wiped out—18,000 buildings leveled to the ground and another 32,000 severely damaged. The explosion killed 26,000 people and wounded 40,000. Ten to 20 more died daily afterward of radioactivity.

Meanwhile pilot Sweeney, without gas enough to return to his base, made a beeline for Okinawa. He could not contact the field by radio, nor even attract attention by dropping flares. So he shot out a final broadside of flares, lowered his flaps and came in for an emergency landing. Only half the runway was clear, and crash cars began scooting to meet him from all sides. But with the aid of reversible propellers, he brought the plane to a stop in the available space. There was less than two minutes of gas left in the tank.

Kokura, the town that escaped the terrible devastation of Nagasaki, is situated on the northern fringe of Kyushu Island, exactly midway between Hiroshima and Nagasaki. By air it is only 100 miles northeast of Nagasaki. Kokura has a peacetime population of 52,000, is nestled near important coal fields. During the war, it was converted into an important industrial center.

Attorney General Tom Clark, who leans over backward to protect civil liberties, took the list of subversive organizations home with him at night to study it personally. He studied it for several weeks before making it public.

Former Senators Jim Mead of New York and Bob La Follette of Wisconsin are among those being considered by the A. F. of L. to head up Labor's Educational and Political League.

Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, former Congresswoman from Connecticut, is fed up with the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee. She has done a good job, but Mrs. India Edwards, chairman of the division, is too much for her.

Housing Expediter Woods has finally bowed to the Tanforan Race Track near San Francisco. Although its owners were convicted of violating housing priorities which favor veterans, a recent order now permits Tanforan to rebuild the rest of its race-track buildings.

Ed Pritchard of Kentucky, the man who once kept Chief Justice Fred Vinson liberal, has declined to head up a new Justice Department bureau to protect civil liberties.

There is a hot row in the Navy over the appointment of a new Deputy Chief of Naval Operations, recommended by the Navy to be Vice Admiral Arthur W. Radford, a good man but one who made the mistake of opposing the Army-Navy merger. So the boys around the White House don't like him. Instead, the inner circle veers toward Rear Admiral John W. Reeves, jr., commander of the NATS at Moffett Field, Calif. During the war, GI's considered Reeves one of the brassiest of all brass hats.

SEAL OF THE STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS

ROGER WILLIAMS

Senator Theodore Francis Green . . . the fifth member of his family to serve in the Congress of the United States . . . is also a descendant of General Nathaniel Greene. He was educated at Brown University, Harvard Law School and the Universities of Bonn and Berlin. A former lawyer and businessman, he was elected Governor of Rhode Island in 1932 and United States Senator in 1936.

THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE CITIZENS OF WASHINGTON WHOSE HOMES ARE IN

RHODE ISLAND . . . Little Rhody

Roger Williams founded Rhode Island as an attempt to establish a new kind of religious and governmental society which rejected previous political concepts. Here men were regarded as equal; the rights of man were recognized; the consent of the governed was essential to the government. These are the principles for which the Revolution was fought; they live today in the Constitution of the United States. Rhode Island has made undying contributions to our Country . . . not only in Democratic principles, but in material benefits as well. The State was a pioneer in textile spinning and weaving . . . she established the first cotton thread spinning mill in the country, before the turn of the 18th Century. Rhode Island retains her pre-eminence in that field. Our industrious people can claim the greatest per capita output of manufactured products in the country. Another early industry, which still flourishes along Narragansett Bay and the Atlantic Coast, is deep sea fishing. One of the greatest treats offered to the visitor to Rhode Island's popular resort area is the far-famed Rhode Island shore dinner, a gourmet's treat direct from the waters of the Atlantic. We thank The Hecht Company for this Salute to Rhode Island . . . by disseminating knowledge about all the States of our Union, they are making a worthwhile contribution to American Democracy. Roger Williams and our other American founding fathers set a beacon shining for liberty and freedom, which sustain that Democracy. Let us always keep the beacon shining.

Theodore Francis Green
Senior Senator of Rhode Island.

RHODE ISLAND . . . Founded by Roger Williams in 1636 . . . as a "lively experiment" in complete democracy and religious liberty. One of the original 13 colonies, Rhode Island was the 13th to join the Union. The first Naval Battle of the Revolution was fought off the Rhode Island coast . . . General Nathaniel Greene, of Revolutionary fame, was a Rhode Islander. Since 1776, the official name of the State has been "The State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations."

RHODE ISLAND . . . Small but mighty. Rhode Island is traditionally a great textile manufacturing State. The first spinning jenny constructed in the United States was made at Providence in 1787. In 1790, the first cotton thread spinning mill in the Nation was established by Samuel Slater, in Pawtucket . . . the Old Slater Mill has been restored to its original appearance as an historical landmark. Today great textile mills operate in Pawtucket, Providence, Woonsocket and Warren. Providence is one of the largest U. S. jewelry centers. Tools and machine tools are other leading products. Dairying and truck farming flourish in the southern part of the State.

RHODE ISLAND . . . With Newport, fabulous resort city . . . a show-place of magnificent summer homes. Narragansett Bay is one of the finest bodies of water on the Atlantic Coast for sailing. The America's Cup Races, the Astor Cup Races and the Newport-Bermuda Races are sailed off Newport. Narragansett Park in Pawtucket and the new Lincoln Downs are two of the outstanding horse racing tracks in the country.

RHODE ISLAND . . . Established her first public school at Newport in 1640, only four years after the original settlement in the State. Today Rhode Island boasts many fine institutions of higher learning . . . Brown University . . . Rhode Island State College . . . Rhode Island College of Education . . . Providence College . . . and Bryant College are among the most outstanding.

RHODE ISLAND . . . Whose adventurous early settlers gained their living from the Sea, as whalers and world traders. Today the Biblically-named towns of Galilee and Jerusalem are commercial fishing ports . . . where quaint fishermen's shacks . . . lobster pots and fishing nets drying in the sun . . . and the trawlers and draggers coming in and out of the harbor . . . create a picturesque scene. Oystering is a big business on Narragansett Bay. Newport, a big Navy base, is the site of the Naval War College, and the biggest Naval Torpedo Station. Quonset Naval Air Station, headquarters for the northeastern naval air arm, is in North Kingston.

RHODE ISLAND . . . Proud of Roger Williams Park in Providence . . . several hundred acres of clear blue lakes and rolling wooded hills . . . one of the finest parks in the country. The Roger Williams monument in the Park is designed to depict liberty and freedom . . . concepts cherished by the founder of Rhode Island.
